2 Pomona markets set ablaze by firebomber

POMONA — Two neighborhood food markets were set ablaze by Molotov cocktails Thursday night.

The firebombs apparently were hurled by the same person in both cases, and investigators say they have some good clues.

The blazes were set about an hour apart, causing nearly $20,000 damage to Bailey's Market at 1076 W. Phillips Blvd., and $750 damage to the Fifth Avenue Market at 600 W. Mission Blvd. No one was injured.

Battalion Chief Paul Murphy, who had charge of fire units at both locations, said automatic alarms saved both buildings from being destroyed.

At Bailey's, the fire broke out two hours after the store closed for the night. Firemen were called at 9:44 p.m. and put out the flames in about 10 minutes, according to Murphy.

The battalion chief said the fire broke out when someone hurled through the front window a glass missive containing flammable liquid and a lighted wick.

He estimated the damage at $4,000 to the building and about $15,000 to the grocery stock. The store is owned by James F. Bailey of 2173 Sinclair Ave.

At 10:47 p.m., firemen responded to a second call, this time at the Fifth Avenue Market. They found that two Molotov cocktails had been hurled through the front window.

But this time an alert neighbor spotted a car speeding away from the scene and took the vehicle's license number.

Because of the speed with which the flames were fought — they were extinguished in four minutes — damages were held to $450 on the building and $300 to its contents.

Murphy said the mode of operation appeared to be similar in both instances.

The fire department also put out a fire in the bedroom of Pat Weisz, at 1749 Wright St., shortly before 8 a.m. today.

According to the report, the Weisz's 5-year-old son, Richard, was playing with matches in the bedroom, igniting a plastic bag.

Mrs. Weisz closed off the bedroom, then called the fire department. Her action was credited for limiting the loss to $500.

ARSONIST WORK

The destructive hand of an arsonist turned all these shelves of breadstuff into ashes Thursday night as a fire swept through Bailey's Food Market at 1076 W. Phillips Blvd. Surveying the damage today are James F. Bailey, owner of the store, and his daughter, Jamie, 10.

Researcher says pot can benefit asthma victims

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Marijuana opens up the air passages of those who suffer from asthma, and may provide a basis for new forms of treatment, a UCLA researcher said Thursday.

"But we do not recommend marijuana for the treatment of asthma," added Dr. Donald Tashkin, head of the pulmonary function laboratory, in a talk to a medical gathering.

In an experiment, all 10 subjects showed improved breathing after smoking a marijuana cigarette, he said. All were asthmatics, but were not having attacks at the time of the experiment, he said.

However, he added, some of them told him later that they subsequently used marijuana during an asthma attack, and it helped them.

Earlier reports that marijuana may induce bronchitis in chronic users are sufficient basis to avoid using it as an approved treatment at the present time, he said.

However, he said, there may be a way to extract the beneficial ingredients from marijuana, and at the same time eliminate its undesirable side effects, such as irritation and dryness of the throat.

Tashkin said that when the experiment was set up, it was expected that marijuana would have the same detrimental effect on asthmatics as tobacco, which causes constriction of the bronchial tubes, making breathing more difficult.

Instead, he said, it was found that smoking marijuana opens the bronchial tubes. Pills containing THC, the concentrated active ingredient of the drug, were also beneficial, producing an effect that was weaker, but lasted longer.

He noted that marijuana, which was not made illegal until 1937, was once an ingredient in certain medicinal preparations that were prescribed for asthma in the past.

The findings followed by 18 months a report by UCLA researchers that marijuana causes eyeball fluid pressure to drop sharply, indicating it may be useful in treatment of glaucoma, a major cause of blindness.

70% oil price hike by Venezuela shakes East

CARACAS (UPI) — Venezuela planned to announce a major increase in oil prices today, with motorists and home owners along America's east coast expected to bear the brunt of the rise.

Government sources estimated the rise at 70 per cent and said it would likely lead to higher prices for gasoline and home heating oil in the U.S. Atlantic states.

The sources said Venezuela would increase oil prices to more than $12 a barrel following the decision of Arab petroleum nations to double their prices five days ago.

The boost came after 11 previous hikes by Venezuela increased the cost of oil 400 per cent since Jan. 1.

U.S. oil companies operating in Venzuela, led by Exxon, have spread the past increases over all their products to avoid major rises in gas and heating oil costs.

Industry sources said, however, the latest hike was so large it would probably hit users of such refined products as gasoline and heating oil the hardest.

The sources said refined products account for 1.2 million of the 1.7 million barrels of oil Venezuela exports daily to America's east coast.

Venezuela, where regular grade gas sells for only 12 cents a gallon, has received a windfall in oil revenue during the recent energy crisis.

The government had estimated 1974 oil revenues at a whopping $4 billion—up from $3 billion this year—even before today's announcement of additional price increases.

The Venezuelan government collects more than half the price of a barrel of oil for its national coffers. The government's share has increased from $1.62 a barrel at the start of the year to $4.57 before the latest increase.

Venezuela, the world's third largest oil exporter after Saudi Arabia and Iran, ships 3.1 million barrels of petroleum a day.

It increased production when the Arabs cut exports after the 1967 Middle East war, but was now operating at full capacity and could not boost shipments.

Three train coaches overturn; 72 injured

ANDERSON, Calif. (UPI) — Three rear sleeping cars of the southbound Coast Starlight AMTRAK train overturned early today, tossing scores of sleeping passengers from their berths. There were no fatalities.

All available local rescue equipment was rushed to the grade crossing on the outskirts of this Shasta County town to extricate passengers from overturned cars. A Southern Pacific spokesman said there were approximately 450 persons aboard.

Three other cars were derailed, but remained standing.

Rescue workers used crowbars and axes to break through the walls and windows of the stainless steel cars. Passengers were taken into busses and ambulances. Twelve persons were admitted at two hospitals in Redding, 10 miles to the north. A spokesman for one hospital said there were "no obvious severe injuries."

More than 60 others were treated and released.

Hugh Kerr of Princeton, N.J., said he was asleep in his berth when the train "fell over on its side. My wife, who was on the other side, was suddenly above me. I'm astonished that we were able to get out."

Andrew Anderson, spokesman for the Southern Pacific Railroad in San Francisco, said the cause of the wreck was not known and was under investigation.

The engine and 11 following cars were not visibly damaged and were inspected by railroad officials to see if they were mechanically fit to complete the trip.

The Coast Starlight, AMTRAK train 11, originated in Seattle and was bound for Los Angeles and San Diego.

Turkey court gives 3 Americans life

ANTAKYA, Turkey (UPI) — A criminal court sentenced three Americans to death today on charges of hashish smuggling, then commuted the sentences to life imprisonment.

The three, who were arrested last year at Cilvegozu on the Syrian border, were identified as Joanne Marie McDaniel, 30, of Coos Bay, Ore.; Catherine Zenz, 28, of Lancaster, Wisc., and Robert Hubbard, 23, hometown unknown.

3 on tanker perish in Alaskan storm

A spokesman for Standard Oil Company of California reported in San Francisco that Capt. C. W. Pemberton, 50, Seattle, Wash., and chief mate George K. Gann, 38, Belvedere, Calif., were lost overboard and presumed drowned. Gann was the son of novelist Ernest K. Gann.

Campaigning starts as 47 seek 25 valley city posts

Forty-seven candidates will be running for 25 positions in the Pomona Valley area when the municipal elections are held March 5.

Filing of nomination papers officially was concluded Thursday noon at the offices of the clerks of eight cities which will hold the elections.

But lively election campaigning was expected nearly everywhere else.

An exception appeared to be in Upland where the three incumbent councilmen are opposed by one challenger.

The competition also will be limited in Montclair where Mayor Harold Hayes will run unopposed. But the two councilmen in Montclair are opposed by two challengers.

The heaviest response to the election once more is in Ontario where nine candidates are vying for two positions. Two years ago, Ontario had 13 candidates.

In addition to Montclair, voters will elect mayors in La Verne and in Ontario. For La Verne it will be the first time that a mayor will be chosen by an election.

CLAREMONT — (3 council seats)

Incumbents Claire K. McDonald 239 W. 11th St., Alberta "Bertye" Smith, 886 Ottawa Drive, and Gene R. Block, business executive, 518 Aurora Drive; and challengers Lawrence H. Little, student, 1170 Indian Hill Blvd., and Douglas A. Scott, attorney, 555 W. 12th St.

CHINO (3 council seats)

Incumbents Leonard Frketich of 4792 Mt. Vernon Ave., and Angel Martinez, 4841 Gettysburg Ave.; and challengers Eileen Carter, 4946 Walnut Ave., housewife; Robert Bertschinger, 13121 Third St., television repair shop owner; Nick Medina of 12535 Ross Ave., air conditioning technician; and Joe Lunetto of 12400 Cypress Ave., salesman.

LA VERNE — for mayor, incumbent Mike M. Morales, 1807 Third St.; and

Nixon switch—refuses to release tapes?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon has decided not to publicly release transcripts or summaries of the Watergate tapes because he and his senior advisers fear the tapes would convince growing segments of the public that Nixon was involved in the Watergate cover-up, the Washington Post said today.

The White House also decided Wednesday that it will resist attempts by the Senate Watergate Committee to obtain these materials, the paper said, and will make them available only to the House Judiciary Committee, which is investigating the possible impeachment of the President.

Quoting "senior presidential aides," Post reporters Carl Bernstein and Bob Woodward said the White House tape recordings indicate that at a minimum, Nixon had knowledge of the Watergate cover-up at least several days before March 21, 1973, the date that Nixon maintains he first learned of it.

The reported presidential decision would represent a major scaledown of Nixon's "Operation Candor," and would break a promise made to key congressmen including Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott, R-Pa., and Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., that he would release the tape transcripts. The White House had already missed the deadline of releasing the transcripts before Congress went home for the Christmas holidays, and there had been strong indications that the transcripts would not be released.

The Post said presidential advisers do not believe the tapes contain legal proof that Nixon broke the law, but "most of the public and the news media would read the transcripts and conclude that the President was involved in a conspiracy," the advisers said.

The tapes show that the President was aware that there was an organized effort to "contain" Watergate because it represented a threat to Nixon's reelection in the 1972 campaign, the Post said.

"It is unclear whether he was aware of offers of executive clemency or the payments of money to the seven convicted Watergate conspirators for silence," said the Post, quoting one source familiar with the contents of the tapes. "That is obstruction of justice and a crime. The other, the containing of the Watergate, was just good politics."

However, the sources said this legal distinction probably would be ignored by the public.

The Post quoted the sources as saying the tapes also could reveal embarrassing language and attitudes on the part of the President. One source said the tapes demonstrated Nixon's concern with "petty" political retributions, and another source said: "There are a lot of really nasty comments about individuals."

Left open to question was whether Nixon also would make a public release of other documents regarding Watergate-related matters such as the ITT case or the milk fund controversy.

The sources were quoted as saying that the tapes showed that former presidential counsel John W. Dean was wrong in some of his key allegations against Nixon, but "Dean need only be right on one charge or appear to be right on one charge and in the present atmosphere that might be enough to take the President down."

The Post said the most damaging evidence against Nixon was not necessarily in the seven recordings already turned over to the Watergate prosecutor but in the tapes of nearly 500 conversations and meetings subpoenaed by the Watergate Committee.

India's cold wave claims 213 lives

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Northern India's two-week cold wave, the worst in 10 years, has claimed 213 lives, the weather office said.

At least 14 persons died Wednesday in Bihar and six in Uttar Pradesh.

Aerial photos screen area of 4 murders

TITUSVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — Air Force technicians today began processing infrared aerial photographs taken of a rural area of north Brevard County where the bodies of four young women have been found in the past two months.

Sheriff Leigh Wilson said it was hoped the infared aerial photos taken Thursday by a plane from nearby Patrick Air Force Base would reveal any more bodies that may be in a five-square mile area of woods and orange groves near the town of Mims.

Meanwhile, 20 sheriff's depuites moved into the area today on foot, in cars and on trail bikes to search for more victims of what Wilson believes are the related deaths of the four young women.

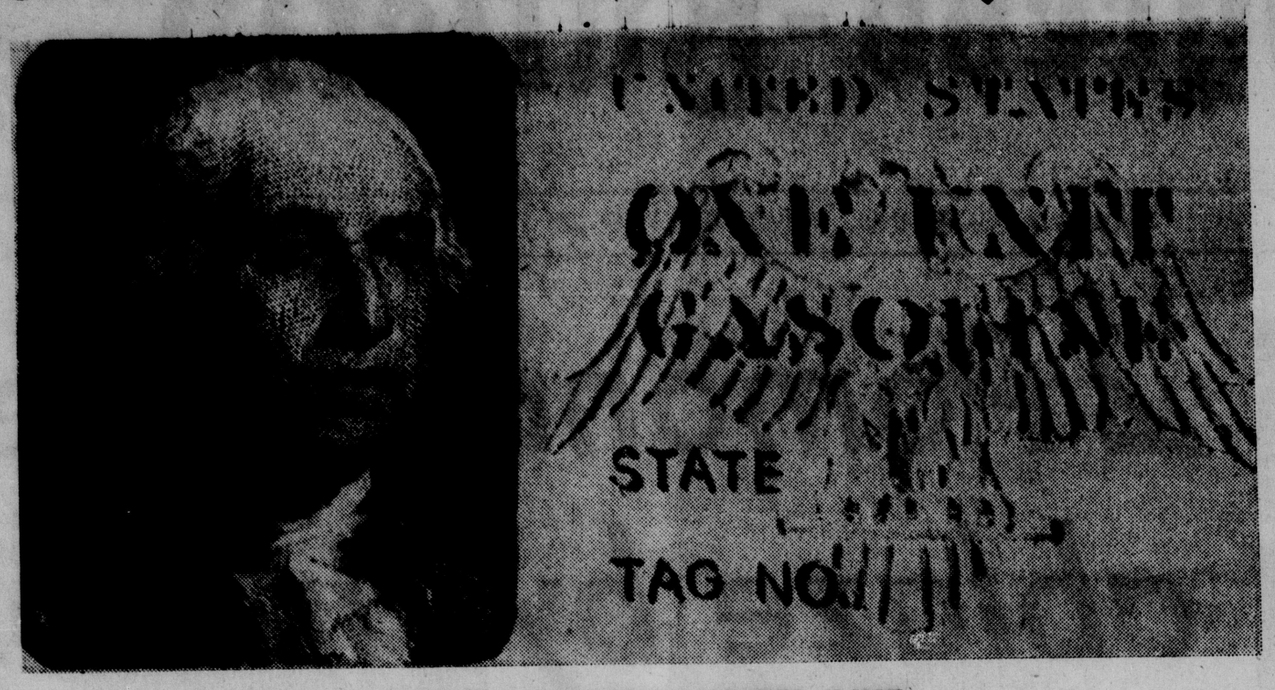
Heavy overnight rains hampered today's search.

All the bodies discovered so far have been badly decomposed. Officials said the heat generated by the decomposition process could show up on the infrared film taken by Air Force pilots and lead officers to any new bodies.

The discovery Thursday of the fourth body, a girl believed to be between 12 and 14, prompted Wilson to reopen the files on all missing persons reported in the county in the last six months.

Investigators could not immediately identify the body of the latest victim found but the other victims, Carolyn Jean Bennett, Paula Hamric, 22, and Nancy Gerry, 25, had not been reported missing to police.

A teen-ager trying out a new rifle Christmas Day discovered the body of the Bennett girl and the bodies of the Hamric and Gerry women were found several weeks ago. All the bodies were either nude or partially nude.



WHAT IT WILL LOOK LIKE

This is an artist's drawing of a gas ration coupon that will be used if and when the government decides to begin rationing gasoline. Federal Energy Chief William Simon said Thursday he had ordered the printing of the coupons and set up basic rules for rationing if voluntary steps fail to ease crisis.

Gas ration plan draws fire from all sides

By United Press International

The government's standby gasoline rationing plan is drawing criticism from all sides—either as being so stringent to be "absolutely ridiculous" or as being too little and too late.

The tentative plan, announced Thursday by energy chief William E. Simon, would go into effect only if other measures—such as motorists limiting themselves voluntarily to 10 gallons of gasoline a week —proved inadequate. It initially would provide every driver an average 32 to 35 gallons of gasoline a month.

"Absolutely ridiculous," snorted Robert Jacobs, an official of the Illinois and Indiana Gasoline Dealers Associations. "Millions of Americans use 25 gallons a week, not a month, just to get to work.

Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, said rationing should have been imposed a month ago.

"No rationing is a politically popular position," Moss said. "but in my opinion, three months down the road we will have to go to it. And by that time we will be in bad shape to implement it because we waited so long."

Los Angeles Mayor Tom Bradley said his vast auto-supported city could not thrive on the government's plan.

"There is a heavy dependence on the private automobile here and we have vast distances to travel," the mayor said. "Our circumstances are different."

Nebraska Gov. J. James Exon questioned the fairness of the standby plan. He called it "typical of the confusion that has come out of Washington from the beginning on this matter."

The National Safety Council said most motorists probably would have to buy an economy car or drive about 40 per cent less under the plan.

A council spokesman said the average motorist now drove about 875 miles a month, using an estimated 58 gallons of gasoline. To continue the normal mileage under the standby plan, the spokesman said a motorist would need to get 25 miles per gallon from his car or drive about 350 less miles per month in an auto that gets the estimated national average of 15 miles to the gallon.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said the next step should be an all-out crackdown on "the price gougers."

Charles Tapp, a member of the National Energy Commission and Louisiana's consumer protection director, said, "In my opinion, it simply will not work."

Tapp said Washington was taking a "behind-the-back, crossed-fingers approach" to the energy shortage.

Contending that rationing of any kind "won't work" because it "makes thieves of us all," Richard Messer, president of the Greater Indianapolis Dealers Association, said the standby plan was a "shock tactic."

"If they snuck in with rationing tomorrow, I think a mob would set the White House on fire," he said. "You can't take a person's freedom all away at once.

"But if they use scare tactics to keep you thinking your sacrifices and giving up a little freedom is best for all, then you wake up one morning and find you have nothing left."

Gas dealer low man on fuel priority list

WASHINGTON (UPI) — William Simon said today that new fuel allocation regulations to go into effect in mid-January will leave gas stations with about 20 per cent less fuel than their customers will demand.

Simon filed final regulations governing petroleum products Thursday for publication in the Federal Register. The regulations will take effect on Jan. 15.

Simon said today that the new allocation program will place the local gas station at the bottom of the priority list for fuel, and he acknowledged that the regulations would in effect amount to "a moderate form of rationing."

Coming ahead of gasoline for private automobiles will be essential services such as farms, hospitals, public transport and industries that produce fuel. Other business and industry would take next priority, and next would come gas stations.

Simon said on the CBS-TV Morning News the resulting shortage of gas would vary from area to area of the country, but "basically what we are looking at is a 20 per cent shortfall in our gasoline."

Can Hughes be forced to face an indictment?

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — It is a matter of question whether Howard Hughes can be hauled from behind the walls of wealth and foreign laws that shield his floating hermitage to face a federal conspiracy indictment, the first criminal charges brought against him.

Hughes, the recluse billionaire whose activities have become enmeshed in the Watergate investigation, and four of his former top associates, were indicted by a federal grand jury Thursday on charges of conspiracy and stock manipulation in the acquisition of Hughes Airwest.

Hughes, 68, who has not been seen in public in 20 years, may have been taking precautions against the possibility of such an indictment when he moved a week ago from London to Freeport in the Bahamas.

The 42-year-old extradition treaty between the United States and the Bahamas is aimed primarily at those charged with crimes of violence, or common theft, it was reported.

Hughes has said that he fears that if he ever surfaced in a court, a great number of legal papers would be served on him, and he would be a prisoner of lawsuits for the rest of his life.

The main target of the grand jury was the purchase by the Hughes Tool Co.—then Hughes' chief operating arm—of Airwest in 1968 for $130 million, including $40 million in liabilities. The grand jury looked particularly into charges that some stockholders received half, or less, than the $22 a share tender off Hughes made in his original proposal to buy the line.

The indictments returned Thursday, shortly before the statute of limitations ran out, charges conspiracy, stock manipulation, wire fraud, aiding and abetting, accessory after the fact and misprision of a felony.

There were indications the probe into Airwest would continue next year and possibly be expanded into other Hughes dealings in Nevada, which have also come under the scrutiny of the Senate Watergate Committee.

The airline transaction received the blessing of the Civil Aeronautics Board and President Nixon in 1969. Hughes officially took control of Airwest in April of 1970.

Watergate investigators became interested after it was learned Hughes gave $250,000 in campaign contributions—$100,000 of which went to Nixon's close friend Charles "Bebe" Reboso, who kept it in a safe deposit box in his Florida bank.

Others charged in the nine-count indictment Thursday were:

—Robert Maheu, former FBI agent and former head of the $300 million Nevada Hughes empire which includes seven gambling resorts. Maheu now has almost $70 million in lawsuits pending against his former boss as a result of his being fired from a $500,000 a year post in December of 1970.

—Chester Davis, a New York lawyer and naturalized citizen who is the general counsel and director of Summa Corp., a firm solely owned by Hughes.

Argument over tapestry ends in shot; man held

POMONA — An argument over a tapestry Thursday night ended with the shooting of a 26-year-old Fontana man and the arrest on attempted murder charges of a 23-year-old Pomona man.

Police reported Charles Elsworth Petree of 8419 Maple St., Fontana, was shot in the upper right leg with a .30-caliber carbine after he argued with Arthur Michael Earley, at Earley's apartment on 235 W. Grove St.

Police said Petree and his brother, Alan, had come to the apartment at about 7:30 p.m. to see Linda Lee Perry, 21, a former girlfriend, and claim some personal property, including a tapestry.

Petree argued first with the woman, police said, and scuffled with her briefly. At that point Earley reportedly went to another room of the apartment, secured the rifle and ordered Petree to leave.

Police said Petree then pulled a .22-caliber revolver from his waistband and was shot once in the leg by Earley.

Survey shows Ford over Ted, Jackson

NEW YORK (UPI) — A Harris Survey Thursday reported Vice President Gerald Ford running ahead of Sen. Edward Kennedy and Sen. Henry Jackson as top choice for the 1976 presidential election.

The Harris poll of 1,103 voters around the country showed Ford running ahead of Kennedy by 48 to 44 per cent.

Ford edged Jackson by 43 to 41 per cent, Harris reported.

Political prisoner swap in Vietnam

SAIGON (UPI) — South Vietnam and the Viet Cong have agreed to resume exchanges of political prisoners before the Jan. 23 Tet Lunar New Year, military sources said today.

Officers close to the two-party Jount Military Commission (JMC) said both sides agreed "in principle" to release all 3,768 civilian political prisoners in time for the Tet holiday.

Ray filed a $500,000 damage suit in federal court charging he was being held in "oppressive" confinement for a crime he did not commit. He asked to be removed from solitary confinement and to have his case reopened on the grounds his former attorney mishandled some evidence.

Ray pleaded guilty in March, 1969, to the 1968 murder of the civil rights leader. But in an interview with the Nashville Banner Thursday, he said:

"I never saw anybody shoot King. But that's as far as I want to go. As far as the crime, I contend I'm not guilty. But there is no use for me to make statements to the newspaper that I'm not guilty. I've got to get in a courtroom for that."

A Nashville television station, WSM-TV, reported Wednesday night that Ray was to file a document with federal court naming his co-conspirators in the King assassination. No such document had surfaced by early today.

Ray charged his former attorney, Percy Foreman of Houston, took two telephone numbers from him then gave the numbers to another attorney, the late Z.T. Osborn, who later was disbarred.

Blaze routs scores at Sun Valley lodge

SUN VALLEY, Idaho (UPI) — An early morning blaze destroyed the roof and attic of the historic Sun Valley ski lodge today and forced scores of guests into a raging snow storm.

The fire burned through the upper floors of the four-story concrete hotel, sending up billows of heavy acrid smoke.

One person was treated for smoke inhalation, but there were no other injuries.

People in today's news

Jackson says he's target of Arabs

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., Thursday called himself "an obvious target" of Arab terrorism and claimed he had been threatened because of his support for Israel.

Jackson declined to give details but said at a news conference, "I've been threatened by them and I've had to deal with that problem."

Jackson has been honored by several U.S. Jewish groups for his strong support of Israel in the Middle East conflict.

Berrigan rejects Gandhi award

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Rev. Daniel Berrigan, who has been criticized recently for a speech attacking Israel, Thursday refused the Gandhi Peace award from Promoting Enduring Peace, a multi-religious group.

Berrigan called Israel a state created by "millionaires, generals and entrepreneurs" in a speech he made Oct. 19 to the Arab University Graduates Association.

In a letter to the Rev. Roy Pfaff, head of the group, Berrigan said he objected to a poll Pfaff was taking among directors of the group to reevaluate their choice for the award.

Berrigan said he resented being a "bystander at a degrading consensus game" and added that "my conscience is not subject to your constituency. I hereby resign from your prize."

Rabbi Arthur Hertzberg, president of the American Jewish Congress and one of three persons chosen to award the honor, has called Berrigan's position "old-fashioned theological anti-semitism."

Biblical name

OTTAWA (UPI) — Alexandre Emmanuel was the name chosen for the son born Christmas Day to Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau and his wife, Margaret.

The seven-pound, nine-ounce baby boy was born two years to the day after the birth of the Trudeaus' first son, Justin Pierre.

The 54-year-old prime minister said his wife, 25, wanted to name the baby Alexandre. He added she could have been thinking of a saint, a czar or a pope. He said he wanted the name Emmanuel because "it's a good biblical name."

Asked who the baby most resembles, Trudeau said with a laugh, "my wife says he is virile, strong-willed and he'll have a great future. My wife sees all kinds of good things in him."

Congressman will not run again

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Calif., said Thursday he will not run for re-election to Congress next year.

First elected to Congress in 1952, Mailliard is serving his 11th consecutive term.

Newsman attacked by angry natives

PORT MORESBY, New Guinea (UPI) — George Weller, a Pulitzer Prize-winning, recently retired American foreign correspondent, was set upon by natives while investigating secret practices on Bougainville Island, police said Thursday.

A police spokesman said the incident occurred Dec. 21 as Weller, 66, was trying to interview Joseph Habisiria, leader of the Hahalis Welfare Society. He had apparently ignored a request to stop taking notes and was assaulted and robbed by a group of men, the spokesman said, adding that Weller had asked that charges be brought for assault and malicious damage.

Weller, recently retired as the Chicago Daily News correspondent in Rome, also worked for several other U.S. newspapers, including the New York Times. He won the Pulitzer Prize in 1943.

Bone is bear's— 6 million years old

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — Paleontogists at the University of California Thursday said a bone that a 7-year-old boy discovered once belonged to a giant bear that roamed about the Western states six million years ago.

The find was the first evidence that the bear, called the agriotherium, was ever in Northern California, they said.

Burned-out car found; youth held

CHINO — A 17-year-old Chino youth was arrested this morning after West End sheriff's deputies found a burned-out car that had been deliberately set on fire Thursday morning at the Pomona Valley Water Co., 1475 Pipeline Ave.

Deputies said the youth was arrested on suspicion of arson and will be referred to juvenile authorities. Deputies said the car owned by Mark McDonald, 18, of Los Serranos, was found burning in the water company yard about 2:15 a.m. Thursday. Deputies said the car was deliberately set on fire with gasoline following a fight between two rival youth groups in the Los Serranos area Wednesday night.

Two men rob gas station attendant

MONTCLAIR — Two men, one wearing a stocking cap, robbed Jimmy's Self-Service station Thursday of a small amount of cash, police reported.

Police reports said the two men, both Negroes, in their 20s walked to the cashier's cage and confronted the attendant, Doug Adams. One of the men told Adams he had a gun and wanted the money from the register. Adams handed over the money and the two men ran to a nearby building. They got into a car, described as a green or gray 1961 or 1962 Ford Falcon, and sped away.

CGS prof to speak in Los Angeles

CLAREMONT — William H. Brownlee, professor of religion at Claremont Graduate School, will address the monthly general meeting of the Greater Los Angeles Area Mensa tonight at 8:30 in Great Western Savings and Loan, 3660 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles.

Brownlee, who made some of the first translations of the Dead Sea scrolls, will discuss his findings in "Comment on a Startling Commentary from Qumran."

Man facing charges in kidnap-rape

ONTARIO — George Phillip Youngblood, 18, of Upland Thursday was held to answer to West Valley Superior Court on charges of kidnapping, rape, and robbery following a preliminary hearing in West Valley Municipal Court.

Youngblood is accused of kidnaping 17-year-old Ernie Luna of Upland and a girl companion from in front of the Circle K Market at 1111 Ninth St., Upland, on Nov. 17 and ordering them at knifepoint to drive to the Etiwanda area. Sheriff's deputies said that the suspect forced Luna out of the car and then raped the girl in Summit Park.

Judge Kenneth Ziebarth increased the bail for Youngblood to $20,000 after the preliminary hearing, and ordered him to appear in West Valley Superior Court in two weeks for trial.

Rationing could force third of state's gas stations to close

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — If the federal government implements a gasoline rationing program it could mean trouble for California's 25,000 service stations.

Ray Ashwill, chairman of the California Coordinating Council of Service Station Associations, said Thursday a 35 gallon limit per driver could put one-third of stations in the state out of business.

"It would also mean those remaining in business would have to increase their costs substantially," said Ashwill, who speaks for eight major service station associations in California. "The cost of gasoline could go as high as 75 or 80 cents per gallon by June.

The Nixon administration amounced a stand-by gasoline rationing plan Thursday which would limit drivers to 35 gallons a month. The rationing plan would go into effect by March if voluntary efforts failed.

Ashwill said if he were given the choice between rationing and a voluntary limit he would favor a mandatory system.

"At least the service station operators would be able to plan on the number of gallons pumped each month,' he said. "Now it is a hit and miss deal."

He forecasts that about 8,000 service stations would close if motorists are limited to 35 gallons each. He said there are between 24,000 - 26,000 stations in the state and each employs about four persons.

He said those remaining in business would have to raise their prices or they too would die a natural death. He said the labor and overhead costs of service stations are increasing as fast as other businesses.

At the same time, Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr. said thousands of Californians would be thrown out of work if the Nixon Administration limits drivers to the 35 gallons per month.

"Rationing of gasoline is inevitable," Brown said in a letter to federal energy czar William Simon, "but it is preposterous to suggest that Californians should be limited to only 35 gallons a month."

He said many residents in Los Angeles must travel over great distances to get to work and absence of adequate public transportation in that area will make it impossible for those people to get to their jobs if they get only 35 gallons a month.

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Southern California food strike talks bounced back to Los Angeles today amid angry charges and countercharges and a pessimistic feeling that the 24-day dispute would not end soon.

Federal mediator Dick Hughes called for officials of the four unions and the Food Employers Council to return into session today for the first time since their talks collapsed in Washington, D.C., one week ago.

The third round of talks is taking place under escalating pressure from organized labor on the more than 60 affected supermarket chains. The stores have managed to stay open but with growing food shortages.

In a week the county AFLCIO Federation of Labor is scheduled to meet to decide whether to throw its support to the coalition of four striking unions.

Since the supermarket dispute began Dec. 3, more than 23,000 employes have been idled. One of the chief hurdles to settlement has been a cost-of-living contract clause which the Southern California unions point to as the major concession given to unions in Northern California.

"That offer (cost-of-living clause) up there was probably made because it was a necessary one to end the strike," said Robert Fox, president of the Food Employers Council.

"But," said Fox ". . . there has never been any relationship between the Southern and Northern California (union) scales, and we're not about to start now."

Involved in the work stoppage are the Teamsters, the meat cutters, the operating engineers and the machinist unions.

Simon calls for volunteer effort

Don't drive, nation's students urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government has asked the nation's high school students voluntarily to give up driving to school in order to ease the energy shortage.

"The same students who responded so admirably to the environmental concerns in the past few years now have the opportunity to help relieve a related problem—the energy crisis," federal energy chief William E. Simon said Thursday.

He urged school boards and principals to ask students to cooperate and suggested that schools could restrict the use of parking lots and limit the number of pupils permitted to drive.

Simon emphasized that the "program is voluntary at this time," and any students who cannot use a school bus or public transportation should continue to use cars. He also exempted students who need cars to get to and from jobs.

Simon said that before making his announcement he checked with John R. Ottina, commissioner of education for the Health, Education and Welfare Department. Ottina endorsed the plan and urged school boards to take whatever action they deemed appropriate.

In a related development, the National Student Lobby said Thursday that a recent survey of 300 colleges and universities indicated that the energy crisis is affecting students "in nine major ways, any one of which could force the discontinuation of higher education for thousands of students."

Arthur Rodbell, executive director of the organization, listed such problems as winter closings of some campuses to conserve fuel and loss of summer employment through forced makeup sessions. Rodbell urged the administration and Congress to "treat students with the same priority given the American worker.

Skies to clear, mercury to rise for New Year's

Cloudy skies will clear by Sunday, according to the National Weather Service, and temperatures will be slightly warmer for New Year's.

The moisture-laden clouds and fog are expected to begin dissipating Saturday afternoon, allowing temperatures to climb to a moderately warm 69.

High today will be about 60. The low tonight will be 38.

The extended outlook calls for clear, sunny skies with near 70 highs Sunday and Monday, the weatherman said.

Open manhole thwarts plot for escape

NEW YORK (UPI) — Police suspicious of an open manhole Thursday said they stopped what appeared to be a plot to break into the Manhattan House of Detention to free members of the Black Liberation Army (BLA).

A spokesman said two officers, wary after spotting three persons loitering near the sewer, replaced the discarded manhole cover and hid a short distance away.

He said they saw the loiterers return to the scene and remove the cover. A fourth person climbed out of the sewer, and all were arrested. A knotted rope and an iron bar were found nearby.

At first, the pre-dawn incident was thought to be an attempt to plant a bomb in a building housing the police ambulance dispatcher's office and units of the Department of Correction.

Later, however, the spokesman said the four may have been trying to get at blueprints of the jail, or possibly to slip into the jail, two blocks away, through the sewer.

BLA members being held at the jail include Joanne Chesimard, Fred Hilton and Herman Bell. The group has been charged with killing policemen and staging bank robberies.

The four arrested Thursday were identified as Bernice Jones, 23, and Harold Simmons, 29, both of New York, and Neil O. Thompson, 18, and Michael M. Alston, 19, both of Plainfield, N.J..

All were charged with burglary, criminal tampering and possession of burglar's tools.

Police said Miss Jones may be the widow of Twymon Myers, an alleged leader of the group who was killed in a gunbattle with police Nov. 14. She was carrying what appeared to be a valid marriage license showing she was Myers' wife, they said.

Texas legislator to ride horse 286 miles to opening session

MARSHALL, Tex. (UPI) — State Rep. Ben Z. Grant of Marshall figures it takes a horse to dramatize a horse-and buggy situation, so today he begins a 286-mile trip by horseback to the state capitol.

The idea began as a joke, and then became more and more real until Grant decided early this month he would ride a horse instead of a car to the Jan. 8 opening of the Texas Constitutional Convention.

"The reason I'm doing this is to dramatize the obsoleteness of the present constitution," Grant said.

The East Texas Democrat will—as best he can—mirror the first Texans who rode to the first constitutional convention in 1876. He'll carry a pistol, a Bible, be safe from arrest as long as he travels 20 miles a day and keep a watch for "Indians or other predatory bands." He's been practicing a month.

"I'm not carrying any food, but I'll try to find some places along the way to buy food," he said. "I'm carrying a lot of credit cards."

Grant, 34, said it should not take him more than 10 days for the trip, which would take six hours by car. He said he won't worry about the fuel shortage, service stations being closed or high gas prices.

There might be other problems, such as no blacksmith shops.

"One (horse) I got was named 'Miss Entertainer,' but in politics that may have a name her 'Miss Liberty' or something like that," he said.

"I'm going to take a copy of the old constitution, the new constitution (prepared by the Constitutional Revision Commission), my father's old Bible and maybe a pistol if I can find one.

Some of the other laws in the 98-year-old Texas Constitution, all adding to the bulk and irrevelance of much of the document, are the reason for the trip.

Currently, the governor can call out the state militia to "suppress insurrections, repel invasions, and protect the frontier from hostile incursions by Indians and other predatory bands."

Grant must keep a steady pace, according to the old constitution.

"Senators and representatives shall, except in cases of treason, felony or breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest during the session of the legislature, and in going to and returning from the same, allowing one day for every 20 miles such member may reside from the place at which the legislature is convened," the current law says.

Grant figures his mounts walking fast can average seven to eight miles an hour. He will shift back and forth across four Tennessee Walking Horses.

"About six representatives said they'd like to ride part of the way with me through their districts," Grant said. "A lot of people find the constitution basically dull. I hope this adds a little interest."

Justice Dept. files jobs-for-women suit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Justice Department has filed its first suit against state laws that discriminate against job opportunities for women.

The department, in a civil suit filed Wednesday against the State of Nevada in a Reno federal court, charged that the laws, if allowed to continue, would prevent women from working more than eight hours a day and more than six days a week and thereby restrict their employment opportunities.

The state laws, the suit said, violated provisions of the 1964 Civil Rights Act, which prohibit discriminatory employment practices based on sex, religion or national origin.

The suit said such laws constitute "a pattern or practice of resistance to the full employment of female employes and applicants for employment in Nevada to their right to equal employment opportunities without discrimination based on sex."

The Justice Department said in its suit that the state had taken no steps to repeal or limit enforcement of the laws and that the state legislature, which could repeal or amend the statutes, is not scheduled to meet again until 1975.

The suit asked the court to declare the laws in violation of federal statutes and that they be invalidated.

Pottinger said "although state authorities are apparently not actively seeking to enforce these laws, we do not know the extent to which they may nevertheless be used by employers to deny women job opportunities solely because of their sex. For this reason we are seeking to have the laws declared invalid, and thereby ensure that they will not be used unfairly."

Pottinger said the Civil Rights Division was reviewing similar laws in other states.

State official sees lowering of car insurance rates

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Lower speed limits which go into effect Jan. 1 may result in as much as a 10 per cent reduction in California automobile issurance rates, according to the state's insurance commissioner.

The commissioner, Gleeson L. Payne, said that he expected reductions in California similar to the 10 per cent cut ordered in Rhode Island recently.

But unlike Rhode Island where the state ordered the cut, Payne said he expected reductions in California to come about through competition among insurance companies.

"I feel certain that there will be reductions," Payne said, "but I don't believe that anyone has the knowledge at this point to make definite statements as to what they will be."

Payne said a study was underway to determine what the accident rate in California might be after the maximum speed limit is reduced to 55 miles per hour Jan. 1. The study also is taking into account the probability that fewer vehicles will be on the road because of the energy crisis.

The information will be turned over to insurance companies for guidance in setting insurance rates, he said.

Payne said California has an "open rating" system under which carriers could offer competitive rates but that the rates are screened by the state to make sure they are neither excessive nor too low for normal competition.

Quentin inmates get Yule dinner

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (UPI) — Inmates at San Quentin Prison enjoyed a traditional Christmas roast turkey dinner despite a month-long general lock-up because of prison violence.

Candy and peanuts were handed out Christmas Eve in what a prison spokesman called "an atmosphere of stoic fortitude."

About 300 relatives and friends visited the prisoners Christmas Day and inmates saw a movie after their evening meal.

Police give 30 jackets to Indians

SAN MATEO (UPI) — A small band of mountain dwelling Indians were given 30 wool jackets Wednesday by the San Mateo Police Department.

"We hear they lose 20 per cent of their number each winter and we wanted to do something to help," police Sgt. Lamon Ryan said of the group, which live in unheated shacks near Bridgeport in Mono County.

Officer Ed Smith said the project was organized after the force switched from wool tunics to Eisenhower jackets.

He said the Indians were not a tribe officially recognized by the Bureau of Indian affairs and were therefore ineligible for welfare benefits.

Police wives contributed warm dresses sweaters and underclothing to the shipment.

"We hope these winter clothes will be a start," Smith said. "Then we'll see what else we can do to help."

The Indians presently live in unheated clapboard shacks on private land and are being threatened with eviction.

Board okays expansion of S.F. airport

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — By a narrow margin, the Board of Supervisors voted recently in favor of a proposed $330 million expansion of San Francisco International Airport.

By a vote of 6-4, the bare minimum needed, the supervisors adopted an environmental impact report that was required before the expansion could go ahead.

Opponents charged that the environmental report failed to deal with recent developments in the energy crisis, fuel shortages and declining passenger volume.

But William Dwyer, the airport's general manager, said it would cost $1.5 million in inflation for every month the expansion was delayed.

Dwyer said the report approved only the general expansion and that each step would be evaluated before it was carried out.

The expansion calls for construction of a new north terminal, a new control tower, enlargement of the parking garage from 3,900 to 7,800 car spaces and modernization of present terminals.

MSU ski slope crisis victim

EAST LANSING, Mich. (UPI) — Michigan State University's proposal for a ski slope built from a mountain of trash is the latest victim of the nation's energy crisis and rampant inflation.

The slope, which was banking on paper to fill a good part of its 120-foot height, is no longer a reality, according to Mark Rosenhaft, director of Michigan State's Waste Control Authority.

Paper is just too expensive to throw away, Rosenhaft said. He said that a year ago newsprint cost $6 per ton, but now it costs $38 per ton.

Michigan State is also heavily engaged in recycling paper, which is cheaper and uses less energy than creating new newsprint. The school recycles 30 tons of paper a week, making it one of the major paper recyclers in the nation.

P-B course to explore population issues

Dr. GARRETT HARDIN

Copley News Service

Dr. Garrett Hardin, whose lecture on "Was Malthus Right? The Ethical and Scientific Problems Posed by Overpopulation" will be published in the Progress-Bulletin Sunday as part of Courses by Newspaper, has distinguished himself equally in the fields of education and literature.

Dr. Hardin, professor of human ecology at the University of California, Santa Barbara, attracted national attention in 1968 with his essay, "The Tragedy of the Commons." It has been reprinted in more than two dozen anthologies.

Dr.Hardin's book, "Population, Evolution and Birth Control," has been described by his faculty colleagues as "a brilliant summation of his lifelong willingness to speak, as a biologist, on the social issues to which biological research is relevant, and to defend his unorthodox and not universally popular conclusions with the patience, objectivity and honesty that characterized the research itself."

The UC professor's best-known book is "Nature and Man's Fate," a geneal introduction to the problems of evolution. He also has published more than 150 articles and reviews.

After receiving his B.S. degree in zoology from the University of Chicago in 1936, Dr. Hardin went to Stanford University to earn his Ph.D. by 1941. During the same years he served as a Stanford research and teaching assistant.

From 1942 to 1946 he was associated with a biochemical group attached to the Division of Plant Biology of the Carnegie Institution in Washington, D.C. He has been a visiting professor at the Los Angeles and Berkeley campuses of UC, Stanford and University of Chicago.

Science for You

By BOB BROWN

PROBLEM: Molecular motion.

NEEDED: Two water glasses, water, salt, food color.

DO THIS: Put a tablespoonful of salt into a half glass of water, stir, then let the glass be still until motion of the water has stopped. Put a drop of food color into another half glass of water, then pour it into the glass of saltwater. Use a paper to prevent immediate mixing, and the colored water will be seen seen to remain above the clear saltwater.

HERE'S WHY: The saltwater is heavier. But the two liquids will not remain separated. Their molecules are in constant motion, moving in all directions, bumping into each other. This is molecular motion, also called Brownian motion, after Scottish botanist Robert Brown who first observed it.

Brownian motion takes place in all liquids and gases. A familiar example: Perfume odor soon spreads through a room even when there is no draft.

In this experiment, if not enough salt is in the water the two liquids will mix too quickly. If too much, they may remain separated for days since the mixing will be very slow. A pinch of salt may be enough. Try it.

Erma Bombeck

I just got rid of an old station wagon that used to hold eight chubby Girl Scouts, a shaggy dog, nine bags of groceries and a soft drink cooler to the gallon.

But thanks to the new energy czar, William E. Simon, my husband became convinced that I should replace my wagon with a compact.

Women usually define compact as "a small case fitted with a mirror and usually designed to be carried in a purse." That's exactly what my husband bought me to carry around eight chubby Gril Scouts, a shaggy dog, nine bags of groceries and a soft drink cooler.

Don't get me wrong. I've always had nothing but respect for small cars. I think they're neat the way you park them in hotel lobbies, and women have babies in them if they are pressed for time, and how, when they wear out, they make wonderful planters for the bathroom, but they take a lot of adjusting to.

The other night I dropped by church with my big shaggy dog, my nine bags of groceries and my soft drink cooler to pick up my eight chubby Girl Scouts. "Okay, girls," I said, "we're playing a new game tonight called 'Simon Says.'"

They giggled and clapped their chubby hands. "Simon says take eight giant steps forward and prepare your bodies for the car. Simon says we will all lift our knees to our chests and at the same time touch our left ears to our shoulder blades.

"Wonderful, Simon says empty your pockets, point your body inward and tuck in all the flapping appendages like arms, elbows, heads and legs.

"Now, Simon says back into the car, being careful not to impale yourself on the stick shift or crack your skull against the door frame and at no time should your body touch the seat.

"Simon says stagger yourselves on the seat with one sitting back and the other sitting forward and the two on the ends with their legs slung through the door handles to relieve the tension.

"Girls," I said, "I'm proud of you. Simon has one more request. Simon says you must all stop breathing until the driver is wedged in her seat and has the only foot in the car on the accelerator pedal."

It took a while, but the car was finally loaded and we were off. "Okay, gang," I said, "you can breathe now."

The dog let out a sigh and I jammed on the brakes and we shoved him out the door. "I didn't say Simon says," I explained.

Sometimes I get the feeling he doesn't take the energy crisis seriously at all.

If passing blood,

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Approximately three years ago I started being constipated. I was advised by my doctor to take one Dulcolax a day. Then I had to take two and finally three a day for action. The doctor changed me to another laxative, but it did not have the same results for me so I continued the three Dulcolax with one of the new laxative tablets each day. The contents were red and I assumed the coloring was from the new laxative which was red tablets. Now after reading one of your columns I suspect it was blood. If I take nothing I am constipated and with the laxatives I have blood.

Is cereal fiber in my daily diet advisable? What laxatives are bulk expanders?

DEAR READER — You've got a problem. The first thing to do is find out for sure if you are passing blood and what it is caused by. No one should neglect to see a physician as soon as possible after passing blood. I don't mean to scare you, but people must understand that unexplained bleeding is one of the signs of cancer and the only way you can be sure whether it is or is not by a good examination. If it is and is treated early, many of these problems can be cured.

It's true that you can have simple bleeding from internal hemorrhoids. But, never make the mistake of presuming that is the cause of your blood. Some hemorrhoids develop because of pressure inside the rectum. This may be from constipation, but it can also be from a tumor mass above the hemorrhoids. A good examination may save your life in that case.

Hopefully you really don't have such a serious problem, but you will still have the problem of a chronic laxative habit and you can't do much for it by taking more laxatives. You will need careful supervision, a proper diet and training to develop a good bowel habits.

Yes, most normal people require, a reasonable amount of bulk in their diet. You can get it by including branflakes and whole grain cereals in your diet (ordinary rice, however, does not have much residual bulk). Oatmeal, whole wheat products and bran flakes are all good for this purpose. You should also make it a point to include in your diet whole wheat baked products such as real whole wheat bread made exclusively from whole wheat flour. Avoid all white flour products.

The bulk laxative products are those that are agar-agar or those made from pysillium seeds. A common one available is Metamucil. Even these should be repalced by a good normal diet and good bowel habits, where possible.

You had better see a doctor about that bleeding pronto, and let him help get you on the right track for good bowel habits. And in the future, don't build up on laxatives. It can be a bad habit regardless of what product you use.

Family trades city dwelling with rats, for a tent along lake's shore

DALLAS (UPI) — Matthew, a pudgy, red-haired boy, giggles behind the green flap of the main tent while his three brothers race along the shores of windy Lake Ray Hubbard.

The Blackmans—Toni, Bob and the five children including a 6-month-old daughter, got fed up with noisy neighbors, heavy traffic and rats three months ago. They pitched a tent among the oak trees for a little peace and quiet.

"The neighbors were all the time drinking, and cursing and carrying on, and would yell through the walls," said Toni. "It was really a buildup over a period of years, and we finally got to the point where we'd really rather be out by ourselves."

Toni and her husband, both in their early 30s, set up the tent along a creek 100 yards from the lake and built a brick stove in the dirt.

"We've been out here about three months and the kids evidently are much healthier, getting fresh air and sun shine. If it was where we could, we'd stay here indefinitely."

The problem is the reservoir manager, Walter Lane, who said the Blackmans will have to move on.

"We can't let it (the camp) be there, one will bring another and the next thing we know we got a whole shoreline of migrants and squatters," Lane said.

"It's primarily a health problem, a health and sanitation problem," he said. "There's no personal animosity involved. Rules are rules. If you let one do that everyone will want to."

Mrs. Blackman said she understands about the health problem, but feels the family has been helping the lake rather than hurting it.

"We've been clean, in fact we cleaned up a bunch of junk when we came here. We keep it clean.

"People down here at the water utilities came out and told us that people have been coming out here and seeing us and they don't like the idea of us being out here," she said.

"We've been called hippies, but we're not. Really, we're just trying to enjoy ourselves— they don't like for us to do that."

She said the family spends most of the day fishing, hunting and dredging up returnable bottles. Occasionally, Bob Blackman takes the boys into town, when he's not working at a paint and body shop.

One thing she said she doesn't miss is television.

"I'd rather be here than be in town having the television going all the time, and never get out and never get any sunshine. When I was in town I was always watching television," she said.

Mrs. Blackman, who wears blue jeans, a long-sleeve plaid shirt and a faded white straw hat, said if it wasn't for the pressure from the water utilities, they'd probably be there indefinitely.

"If it wasn't for the problems we'd live here like this all the time, if there was no one telling us we couldn't do it."

She said they will either stay by the lake, or try to move further into the country.

"We are working on trying to get a small farm somewhere, getting a cow, some goats and sheep," she said.

"In the long run its a lot better, we're not missing a thing—really we're not."

How standby gas rationing plan would work—questions, answers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Some key questions and answers on how the standby gasoline rationing system announced Thursday would work:

Q. When would rationing be put into effect?

A. Energy Director William E. Simon would not give the exact "peril point" but said it could not be before March 1, and not at all unless the crisis deepens.

J. What factors go into the decision?

A. The amount of "leakage" of oil around the Arab embargo, the success of voluntary conservation, production changes in this country, and whether Americans wind up in long lines at gasoline stations for hours at a time.

Q. How will it work, if put into effect?

A. Each licensed driver over 18 would get an authorization card. Then he would get gasoline coupons monthly, based on a need-for-gas system, good for certain amounts. He would turn them in when buying gas. He could buy coupons from other individuals willing to sell.

Q. Why wasn't the standby rationing plan based on the number of autos, rather than the number of drivers?

A. Officials said there is less turnover of licenses, year to year, and the states generally have better systems of monitoring licenses. Also, being licensed to drive is not dependent upon one's income, as is ownership of a car.

Q. How much gasoline would a driver get?

A. Experts estimate if the system were in effect now, the supply would allow about 30 to 35 gallons a month per driver.

Q. Why not put the rationing into effect immediately?

A. Simon said Americans have responded well enough to voluntary actions that they may stave off rationing. Time will tell, he said.

Q. Who would administer the system?

A. Local rationing boards.

Q. How much would it cost?

A. About $1.5 billion a year, which officials hope would be paid for by fees for coupons. Each monthly package would cost $1.

Q. What price would a driver pay who wanted to buy more coupons from friends or somebody else?

A. Whatever the market will bear.

Q. What determines the need-for-gas criteria on which coupon distribution would be based?

A. Each driver would get coupons based generally on the population density of the are in which he lives, and on the availability of mass transit.

Q. Couldn't coupons be counterfeited?

A. "About as difficult as counterfeiting a dollar bill," one official said.

Southland VA chief replaced over snafu

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The director of the Veterans Administration Southern California region, Gordon Elliott, has been replaced in the wake of a massive snafu that delayed payments to thousands of student veterans for months, bringing down the anger of President Nixon.

In a continuing crash program ordered by Nixon to straighten out the foulup, the VA office has taken to handing out cash to disgruntled veterans because check processing procedures have become so tangled.

Expert help has been flown in from around the country, and under presidential orders, the staff is working weekends and holidays until the situation is straightened out.

Elliott, 57, a career VA executive with more than 30 years in federal service, has taken "an indefinite administrative leave," the chief VA benefits director, Odell W. Vaughn, said in Washington Wednesday.

"The present situation apparently got beyond Elliott's management control, although he has one of the best records among VA executives," Vaughn said.

John G. Miller, described as a top administrator from the Washington VA office, was sent to take charge of the tangle.

At one time, an estimated 5,000 veterans attending colleges in Southern California were up to four months behind in receiving monthly benefits of from $220 to $300. Campus veterans groups said many of them had to quit school to support themselves, and others are living on food stamps, or loans from families and friends, dodging notices and bill collectors.

VA officials said computers sent checks to the wrong schools, wrong persons, out of the state entirely or did not send any checks at all.

Workers began processing checks by hand last week, paying about 2,000 veterans. A veterans' group wired a complaint to Nixon. Saturday, Nixon ordered the VA to keep the Los Angeles staff at work through the weekend, Christmas eve, Christmas, and through the New Year's weekend if necessary.

About 670 veterans were paid off during the four-day holiday, including 93 who were summoned to the VA office Christmas Day and handed $89,000 in cash.

"These are extraordinary measures but these are extraordinary circumstances," said Emmett Brasseux, assistant regional director.

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Predicting that the price of gasoline would soon reach $1 per gallon, Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, today said the government should have begun gas rationing a month ago.

"No rationing is a politically popular position," Moss said. "But in my opinion, three months down the road, we will have to go to it. And by that time, we will be in bad shape to implement it because we waited so long."

Moss made the comments during a press breakfast at the same time federal energy chief William E. Simon announced he was setting up a stand-by system of rationing that would provide drivers up to 35 gallons per month.

Moss said if gas rationing had been set up a month ago the administration would have had time to work out the bugs before fuel shortages became critical.

"Gas will go to $1 per gallon here in Salt Lake City," Moss said. "But if it were rationed, we would have a better chance of holding the price down."

Tse Senator said one easy way to quickly set up a rationing system would be to convert selective service boards to rationing boards. The boards are still in operation, even though the military draft has been discontinued.

"Use the machinery that is already set up," Moss suggested. "Let the local boards issue coupons."

Informal quip on formal occasion

LONDON (UPI) — It was a happy, romantic scene—most of it, anyway.

In pictures shown on television during Queen Elizabeth's annual Christmas message, Princess Anne was about to take a second bow on the balcony of Buckingham Palace after her wedding, but first she had a quiet order to issue.

2 questions puzzle owner of pet skunk

By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: Two questions, please, about Stinky, our skunk. The first one, his nails seem rather long. Should they be cut? The second, if Stinky stays healthy, how long can we expect him to live? — K.L.

Dear K.L.: Yes, his nails probably should be cut. Overly long nails in this species as with many others, could, conceivably cause foot problems as with many others, could, conceivably cause foot problems even if they didn't ever become caught or snagged in something.

Stinky should make it, with luck, at least another two or three years and, hopefully, he can do even better than that. Some of the little Stinkers stick around as long as 12 to 14 years.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Do you recommend a dry shampoo or cleaning powder for dogs in the winter time so you can keep them dry? — A.Y.

Dear A.Y.: If your dog is one of those who goes out in the rain without a raincoat, and many do, he will get just as wet as if you hadn't used a dry shampoo. If he is kept inside, he could be considerably cleaner when a quality dry shampoo is properly used though not nearly as clean as when a wet shampoo combined with that liquid ingredient water is used for the cleansing process.

Certainly the wet approach is preferable, regardless of the season, if the dog is really dirty. In the colder months, considerably more care will have to be given to protect the bathed dog from chilling, particularly until he is completely dry.

DEAR DR. MILLER: If Lickety Split was an adolescent cat, we might understand his change of voice. But he isn't. It just seems strange for a middle-aged cat to suddenly change his voice. He used to have a very commanding call whether he needed something or not. Now the best he can do is a feeble, bird-like chirp. My husband's grateful for the change. My feelings are mixed. Do I need to worry that there is anything wrong with him when he seems perfectly healthy? Does such a voice change indicate anything in particular? R.W.

Dear R.W.: Lickety Split's loss of vocal power undoubtedly means something. Odds are the change is physical: A chronic allergy could cause his vigorless vocalizing; a cause of greater concern would be a malignancy. Adequate examination of the throat might require anesthesia and instrumentation. Certainly the doctor can't determine the significance of this voice change without a thorough examination. This is, of course, indicated.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, in care of the Progress-Bulletin, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on losing weight, send 50 cents to the same address and ask for "Losing Weight" booklet.

Murder trial continued to hear appeals

SAN BERNARDINO — Trial for three men accused of murdering four Grand Terrace residents Oct. 15 has been continued until Jan. 7 until appeals can be heard by the Fourth District Court of Appeal here.

Superior Court Judge Edward P. Fogg ordered the continuance Wednesday on the request of the defense attorneys, who said they are asking the District Court of Appeal and the California Supreme Court to overturn rulings made by Judge Fogg in pre-trial hearings.

Judge Fogg denied a request for a change of venue outside of San Bernardino County.

The three men, Norbert Deiter Meier, 31; Edward J. Montoya, 33; and Phillip Elwon Walters, 42, are accused of kidnaping and slaying Meier's estranged wife, Dorothy Sanchez, 34, her two children by a former marriage, Toni, 15, and David, 14, and a family friend, John McGrail, 19, all of Grand Terrace on Oct. 15.

All were found beaten and stabbed to death near Lost Lake in the Cajon Pass area three days after they were reported missing. A $7,000 ransom was paid for their release and later recovered by sheriff's investigators.

Further pre-trial hearings in the case were referred to Judge Richard C. Garner who will assume criminal calendar duties after the first of the year.

CLAREMONT —City Atty. William G. Bergman Jr. has reported that, in his opinion, "the city cannot legally charge property owners for the city's watering of trees in the front of their property."

The Parkway and Tree Commission has been considering additions to the city's street tree ordinance, and one such addition would be the city's billing a property owner when the city must water a city tree on private property.

But Bergman has said that such proposed billing could not be enforced because there is no enabling legislation to permit such action.

Parks and Recreation Director Fred Hawkins said it is possible that an attempt to create special districts would aggravate the existing problems.

Hawkins said that some property owners refuse to water the city tree in the parkway or in the city easement on their front lawn, and consequently the trees die and must be replaced.

Claremont has been a city noted for its 14,000 trees imported from throughout the world.

'One hell of a year for tornadoes'

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — The tornado season is like a migratory bird, says Allen Pearson of the National Severe Storms Forecast Center, and currently it's swooping down across the South.

Tornadoes were reported this week near Mobile and Sylacauga, Ala., and there were warnings of flash flooding in parts of Alabama, Mississippi, Tennessee and North Carolina.

Pearson said the storms are part of a 15-month-long stretch of unusual weather that has spawned more than 1,100 tornadoes in 1973 alone. That figure, Pearson said, is 1-½ times as many as the average figure of 700.

"In a five-day period in late May we had 13 more tornadoes reported than we had in the entire year of 1931," Pearson said. "We know there's better reporting now, but by any standard that's one hell of a year for tornadoes."

There were 115 tornadoes reported in the May period—known among forecasters as the "Memorial Day weekend outbreak," including one that was on the ground for 135 miles in southern Alabama.

Pearson said record numbers of Tornadoes were reported this year in Arkansas, Missouri, Mississippi, Kentucky, North Carolina, Tennessee, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, New Jersey and the country as a whole. The death toll stands at 89.

"We're delighted that the death toll isn't any higher than the 89 thus far. There've been several cases where effective warning has saved hundreds of lives," Pearson said.

The forecaster credited a tornado watch and warning for saving "several hundred lives" during the May storm in Alabama. Another example was in Sumner, Miss., where students were evacuated minutes before a tornado struck their school April 24. A mobile home park operator in Salina, Kan., alerted 80 tenants minutes before a twister destroyed 35 of the homes Sept. 25.

Average American paying more in taxes than for food or clothing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The average American pays more in taxes than he does for food, shelter or clothing.

President Nixon, of course, is not an average American. Neither are 18,645 other wealthy Americans who, in 1970, got caught, along with the President, by the minimum tax reform act.

That law was passed in 1969, the result of revelations that quite a number of wealthy Americans were getting a free ride in the United States, paying no federal income taxes.

It was all legal, merely making use of what popularly were known as tax loopholes, but which the tax writers called tax preferences.

Faced with a taxpayer revolt, Congress set to work to reform the tax laws. It became a losing battle against vested interests —although not all of the entrenched lobbies represented special interests. Some of the loopholes or preferences had broad public objectives as their original goals.

They ranged from oil depletion allowances to the capital gains tax which allows half of the income to go tax free, from quick depreciation for real estate to the tax free status of income from state and local government bonds. There are at least 54 separately identified tax preferences.

The pressures made it an impossible task for Congress. Instead of ending the preferences, Congress passed what became known as the "minimum tax payment" for the wealthy. It provided for a 10 per cent tax on incomes over $30,000 a year where use of tax preferences would have brought the federal income tax payment down to zero. In other words, a catchall to see that all the wealthy at least paid something.

It didn't quite work out that way.

When an analysis was made of the 1970 tax returns, it was found that 374 persons with incomes of $100,000 or more paid no tax. Twenty-two of those privileged people had incomes during the year totaling more than half a million dollars each. Three had incomes of more than $1 million apiece.

For them, the minimum tax payment didn't work at all. The reason: Congress didn't include all the tax preferences in the minimum tax payment, and the minimum tax alone had exemptions.

So it turned out that there were loopholes within loopholes.

The first year of operation of the minimum tax did catch 18,646 Americans, among them the President. For in that year, like the 18,645 others, Nixon was able to claim more deductions than income. In his 1970 return, Nixon listed $263,000 income, with $307,000 deductions.

In previous years, with deductions exceeding income, Nixon and the 18,645 others would have paid no tax. But under the reform bill, they paid their minimum tax. It amounted to $116,875,000.

Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., known as a leading reformer, figures out that those 18,646 wealthy individuals paid an average tax of less than 7 per cent —about what an individual with an income of about $6,500 would have paid that year.

Reuss labels that little more than "a love tap" for the wealthy. He figures out that the average payment under the minimum tax was $6,268.

Feel Egyptians don't want it

Israeli GIs pessimistic about peace talks

SUEZ CITY, Israeli-occupied Egypt (UPI) — The Israeli soldiers who fought in the October war don't seem hopeful about prospects of the Geneva peace talks.

"I don't think anything will come out of the Geneva peace conference," a 20-year-old soldier from Netanya said. He was guarding a small wooden plank bridge thrown over a sweetwater stream near this encircled city.

"I'm ready to give back everything—all the territories—if the Arabs want a real peace," he said. "But they're not talking about peace, just a peace settlement."

Israeli leaders on the homefront have said one priority at the talks was to get a definition from the Arabs on just what they mean by peace.

The military command has barred foreign newsmen from interviewing troops on the battlefield or using their names. The command had permitted interviews and the use of rank and first names of officers and troops until little more than a week ago.

One soldier looked across the Suez Canal to the Egyptian 3rd army trapped on the opposite Sinai bank. He came to Israel from the United States 18 months ago to live on a kibbutz.

"You know why I'm not so optimistic about Geneva?" he said. "These Egyptians in the 3rd army are the best example. They're in the worst state of all because we have encircled them but they don't believe it.

"We've drawn them pictures in the sand here when they come over to pick up supplies and we try to show them how they're encircled. But they think they're encircling us."

Finnish U.N. troops drive Egyptian trucks filled with supplies from Cairo to a former U.N. observation post on the west bank of the canal. Egyptian troops ferry across in a barge and amphibious armored personnel carriers to pick up the supplies. The troops are unarmed.

Another soldier, a university student from Haifa, watched as his buddies tested a bazooka on a grassy roadside field outside the shell-devastated Suez city.

"I don't know what will be at Geneva," he said. "We want peace. It's the Egyptians who don't want it. We're ready to compromise on many things. But they must be ready also."

Posted inside the city, a soldier stood by as civilians unloaded supplies from a U.N. brought relief convoy.

"We don't want this place," he said tersely. "That's why were hoping for good results at Geneva."

There's a catch to this tale

Fishing trip ends with ride aboard two wild porpoises

By LESTER C. KJOS

CAPE ELEUTHERA, The Bahamas (UPI) — A surprising part of it was that when we got back here, everybody believed us.

There were a lot of, "oh reallys' and even one simple, "gee," when we told how we had jumped in the water and played with two wild porpoises.

George Hartwell of Miami and this writer had just returned from a fishing trip several miles down the shore where we were accosted by two young dolphins out for a good time.

We hitched roller coaster rides by holding tightly to a dorsal fin or by hugging the seven-foot, 250-pound dolphins around the middle. We petted them on their backs, tickled them under the chin and were on the receiving end of some delightful nuzzling.

It went on for nearly 45 minutes and it was close to the experience of a lifetime. A boyhood dream come true.

It was nice to feel that there are some wild creatures— maybe a lot of them—out there, who are not afraid of human beings and even enjoy cutting up with them a little.

Wrong. I guess we knew all the time it was too good to be true.

Mercenaries, that's what they were.

First we were told by marine scientists that wild porpoises absolutely will not be that friendly without months and months of training.

Then Dr. Jesse White, a marine veterinarian hired to take care of the animals for a yet-to-be-released movie entitled, "The Day of the Dolphin," told us that our two friends were "Candy" and "Bubbles," highly trained underwater stars of the film.

The fun loving dolphins were captured off the Florida coast in the fall of 1972, trained for a year and then used for two weeks filming before they were released at the insistence of White and director Mike Nichols.

They were given their freedom between the out islands of Abaco, where the filming was done, and Eleuthera. After less than a day, the two young females started to get hungry, cast off their easy life of dead fish and began hunting again.

Perhaps their hunger and perhaps the approach of a tropical storm drove them more than 100 miles south to southern Eleuthera, an easy trip for aquatic athletes who can travel at speeds over 30 miles an hour.

Within nine days they reached a lovely, isolated inlet of clear water, mangroves and sand where they spotted a small boat carrying two fishermen and a wizened Bahamian guide.

Candy and Bubbles decided it was time to quit traveling and have some fun.

I saw the fins first. We had been wading unsuccessfully for bonefish and had run across a half-dozen small sharks, which added to the adventure, although not the danger. At first, I thought the fins were sharks.

"Hey, look at that," I said realizing as I spoke I was looking at a pair of porpoises. As if I had called them, they approached and did some diving and jumping, putting on a close range marine circus.

Then the idea hit Hartwell. "Hey, this is something I've always wanted to do—swim with dolphins." Lest our new friends decide to flee, George frantically ripped off his shirt, tore off his watch, emptied his pockets and splashed into clear water up to his chest.

As Hartwell describes it:

"I reached out, grabbed a dorsal fin and held on. I don't remember this part too well—just a surge of adrenalin and a burst of speed as the dolphin turned on their afterburners.

The dolphin shook Hartwell off then came back around again and he took another ride.

This looked like a lot of fun.

Forgetting to take off my shirt or empty my pockets, I was in the water. Bubbles came by and I petted her on the back.

Thinking about the family cat, I scratched her under the chin. She circled, but then came back, laid her head on my shoulder and nuzzled my neck.

The antics went on and on. George took a ride by grabbing Candy around the middle, but when she dived for a few seconds, he came up coughing and choking.

I tried a two-dolphin tandem by grabbing a friendly fin in each hand. That one didn't last too long either, because Candy and Bubbles decided to go their separate ways.

Strangely, personal safety never occurred to us. But in the boat we could hear Fred Wright, our guide, repeating, again and again; "I guess they wouldn't hurt a soul. I guess they wouldn't hurt a soul.'

Seawise Fred Wright was nervous.

It wasn't Candy and Bubbles that quit. We did. It wasn't fear, and it certainly wasn't boredom. I think maybe that after awhile we just didn't know how to act. Hartwell's theory is that "maybe we were too anxious to get back to the dock and tell our story."

Looking back, it was nice to think that it was possible to have that good a time with a pair of wild creatures. It was disappointing to learn they had been trained, but the disappointment quickly faded.

After all, nuzzling with a movie starlet ain't half bad.

Rattles & straws

An allowance for children

By JOSEPH FIRMAN

"Daddy, can I have my nickel allowance?"

Do you remember your child, a grimy little palm out thrust, coming to you with that innocent demand? Do you remember what a nickel was?

A nickel used to buy a candy bar, a soft drink, a cup of coffee. Maybe the Harding Administration wasn't the highlight of the 20th Century, but you could still get a good cigar for five cents.

Now we have what is called Inflation, and five cents won't even buy a nickel. A penny saved is .02 cents earned. Sound as a dollar means you should be in the intensive care unit at your local hospital (rooms $110 a day).

How much allowance a child should get—and when and why—is one of the most ticklish questions to arise the the cold war of American family life. It depends upon the family's economic status, the age of the child, and the guile or gullibility of the father.

When the lad is a toddler, he regards his father's pocket as a cornucopia from which flows an inexhaustible stream of those shiny coins that can be exchanged for an ice cream cone or a balloon or a comic book. As he grows older his outlook doesn't change, except that he begins demanding more and larger coins and eventually begins to take an interest in the folding green.

In desperation, many parents employ a stunt called an "allowance," in the vain hope that they will instill some responsibility and business acumen in the little leech, or at least get some work out of him in exchange for the weekly banditry. Alas.

"If you don't sweep the sidewalk, son," you say, "you won't get your allowance."

"That's okay. I got $3 for baby-sitting last night."

"Well you're going to sweep the walk anyway, see?"

This sort of breakdown is bad for parental morale even if it does get the sidewalk swept—no more than a 50-50 chance.

Some fathers put their youngsters on a clothing allowance. This does not work. The kid spends the money on Beatles records and double malts and marches off to school with his toes sticking through his tennies. Well, the child HAS to have shoes, of course, so. . . .

"Gee, Dad, all the other guys in my class get a dollar a week allowance" is such a popular refrain it ought to be part of the national anthem. Let one father weaken, and he betrays every other father in Room 4-B.

The original cornucopia came from a goat, too.

Energy crunch hits Pitcairn islanders

GLENDALE, Calif. (UPI) — The energy crisis has penetrated to one of the worlds remotest communities — Pitcairn Island, where live the descendants of the British sailors who staged the mutiny on the Bounty.

It's back to walking and doodwinut torches for them.

All gasoline-powered travel has been suspended on the tiny island in the South Pacific between Australia and South America, according to a report Wednesday by Tom Christian, the island radio operator. He is a seventh generation descendant of Lt. Fletcher Christian, who in 1789 led the mutiny against Royal Navy Capt. William Bligh which became the subject of books and movies.

The island has one four-wheeled vehicle and several motorbikes.

All of the kerosene powered refrigerators have also been shut off, Christian reported, and the shortage of fuel for electrical generators drove the islanders to revive a Christmas custom of their British and Polynesian ancestors — "We sang Christmas carols in the square of Adamstown using doodwinut torches for light,' he reported. "They give off a good light, but it's pretty smoky."

Milwaukee's Rose parade entry

40 tons of nostalgia on view at county fairgrounds

POMONA — Pomona Valley residents have several opportunities to view the famed Schlitz 40-horse hitch close up this weekend at the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds and again next Thursday on the Pomona Mall.

The 40-horse hitch will represent Old Milwaukee Days, a six-day celebration in Milwaukee in July, in Tuesday's Tournament of Roses parade.

The Belgian draft horses, one ton each, are harnessed four abreast and 10 deep, and are being stabled at the fairgrounds during their brief stay in the valley.

They may be seen Sunday and Monday at the fairgrounds from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Guards at the main gate will direct visitors to the stable area.

The mares and geldings, closely matching in size and color, are light sorrel with blond manes and tails, and from five to six feet tall.

The 40 horses will be taken to the corner of Eleanor and Second streets at the east end of the Mall between 1:30 and 2 p.m. Thursday, where they will be driven westward on the Mall about 3 p.m.

The team will make an appearance at Universal City Jan. 4, the Queen Mary Jan. 5, and start their homeward journey Jan. 7 back to Zearing, Iowa where they are taken care of by Dick Sparrow, farmer and draft horse breeder.

The 40-horse hitch is a re-creation of a 19th and early 20th century spectacle featured by major circuses in street parades, and the horses in the 1974 Rose Parade will pull a new five-ton, 22-foot-long, 12-foot-high bandwagon introduced in the 1974 Milwaukee Fourth of July spectacle.

The 1974 parade's theme, "Happiness is . . . " which grew out of the "Peanuts" cartoon strip, will be shown on the Forty bandwagon with "Happiness Is the Circus Parade" spelled out in fresh flowers. Charles M. Schulz, creator of "Peanuts," will be grand marshal.

Sparrow, 43, who drives the 135-foot-long team and bandwagon single-handedly, has driven big teams for years, including 12- and 16-horse hitches.

The Forty's appearance on the Mall has been scheduled through the cooperation of the Central Business District and Tuck McGuire, local Schlitz distributor.

About 500 persons turned out Thursday morning in the fairgrounds infield where members of the media snapped pictures of the huge draft horses pulling the giant circus bandwagon.

Sparrow's Forty is the first time a 40-horse hitch had been driven since 1904 when Barnum and Bailey ended an era of circus history by disbanding its Forty.

Brides must get rubella tests

POMONA — Beginning Jan. 1, all female applicants for marriage licenses must have a health certificate indicating that a test for rubella (German measles) has been performed, Los Angeles County Clerk Clarence Cabell announced.

The requirement satisfies new provisions of the state Civil Code and existing requirements for a marriage health certificate.

The only exemptions are women over 50; women who have had surgical sterilization; and women who can present laboratory evidence that they are immune to rubella.

A high percentage of young women who contract rubbella during pregnancy frequently deliver infants with hearing, vision or heart impairments, medical authorities have reported.

Outlook for '74 will be mayor's breakfast theme

POMONA — "The Outlook for 1974" will be the theme of a talk by Mayor Ray J. Lepire at a Mayor's Breakfast Jan. 10, sponsored by the Pomona Jaycees.

The program, at Buffums Palomares Room, will start at 7:30 a.m. and is open to the general public.

A question-and-answer period will follow the mayor's informal talk.

The breakfast will include juice, coffee, ham, egg souffle and a roll.

Tickets are $2.25 per person. Advance reservations may be made by calling the Pomona Chamber of Commerce office at 622-1256. Checks or money orders may be mailed to the Pomona Jaycees, Post Office Box 285, Pomona 91769. Tickets also will be sold at the door.

Welfare Department pays babysitting claim

I hope you can help me get some money from the San Bernardino County Welfare Department.

More than two months ago the department hired my wife to baby sit. She was to start at the first of the month, be paid at the end of the month and the first check would be two weeks late due to the paper work that needed to be done.

She still hasn't received the first month's check. First she was told there was an audit problem that woul delay her pay check. Then she was told that the paperwork was never processed. Next she was told there was a mixup as to which office was going to pay her.

Today I was told the department had switched to a new system and it would still take more time before she received her check.

We are not wealthy people and need the money for food and bills.

It doesn't seem right that an employer can go this long without paying its employes, especially for such poor reasons.

I would like to know what can be done to keep this from happening to us or to anyone else again. — J. K., Pomona.

When we talked to your wife on the phone, she was so angry it was difficult to get a lucid account of the baby-sitting arrangements.

We learned from Paul Morsen, public relations officer of the welfare department, that you had been hired to baby sit your sister's children while she participated in the work incentive program known as WIN at th Chino Airport.

He said the mixup was definitely the department's fault and the delay had resulted from a series of unfortunate incidents connected with procedure changes.

Morsen said your wife would be getting her pay within a week. It took a couple of days longer, perhaps because of the holiday mail, but she has received $182 for the baby sitting she did during the first two months of her employment.

A month ago I applied for an automobile insurance policy. The price given me was lower than the amount I was paying on my policy with another company.

I wrote a check in the amount of $47 and gave it to the agent. About five days later the same agent said he had made an error on the policy and needed another $33.

At that time I told him to cancel the policy because it was then more expensive than the policy I already had. I was told it would be taken care of and that I would receive a refund check for $47 within a week.

I went to my bank to cancel payment on the check but it had already been processed.

Today I received a bill for $33 "still owed" on the policy I was told would be canceled.

I still have not received my refund. I have called the agent several times and have obtained no results. I must admit I am very upset about this whole affair. — A R., Pomona.

Your agent told us the increase in the premium came about because he thought you were 30 years old. You are 29 and therefore are subject to a higher rate.

The bill you got for $33 apparently resulted from a delay in office procedures. You now have received your $47 refund.

Although I have written to the company twice, I haven't received the book. I would prefer the book to a refund.

In reply to an Action Line letter, we were informed that the book has been shipped to you. The answer was initialed by a Riverside Council representative but it arrived in a Climax Productions envelope.

New law career is starting for 1960 PHS grad

POMONA — Casimir A. Wilson, son of Mrs. Lorraine Wilson of 278 McKinley Ave. was admitted to the California bar during ceremonies recently in San Francisco.

Wilson plans to enter private practice in the Bay Area.

The young attorney was graduated from Pomona High School in 1960, and from Harvey Mudd College in Claremont in 1964.

He served in the Air Force from 1964 to 1970, leaving as a captain. He was a pilot. He attended law school at the University of Santa Clara and was graduated cum laude last May.

Telephone Co. pays $21.8 million taxes

The General Telephone Co. has paid nearly $21.8 million in Los Angeles County for city and county property taxes, officials said.

Statewide, the utility paid more than $30 million as its first installment on ad valorem taxes for 1973-74. Of that sum, $2.2 million went to San Bernardino County, $1.6 million to Riverside County and $14,363 to Imperial County.

The tax dollars paid by the utility come out of charges for services billed to General Telephone Co. customers.

Ex-Claremonter now administrator of L.A. County

A former Claremont city clerk is the new public administrator of Los Angeles County.

Bruce Allan Altman, 36, is resigning as city manager of Simi Valley to take the county position left vacant two years ago when the Board of Supervisors fired Baldo M. Kristovich for misuse of office.

Altman served as Claremont city clerk and assistant to then City Manager Richard Malcolm from 1961 to 1964.

He left to become city manager of Newark, Calif., the position he held before he moved to Simi Valley.

Altman is a graduate of Arizona State University where he majored in public administration.

He was chosen by the Board of Supervisors after he placed second on the list of eligibles in a civil service examination. He will be the county's youngest department head.

Fanciful cuts gone or going

Early findings in a seven-state survey indicate that consumers are responding favorably to the national voluntary standardized meat-labeling program introduced by the meat industry.

Gone, or going, are the fancifully named cuts — the "charcoal steaks," "his and her steaks," "London broils," "Pike's Peak roasts" — that are colorful but don't tell a shopper very much about what he or she is buying.

Many stores now display charts showing the different beef, pork and lamb cuts prepared by the National Live Stock and Meat Board.

According to the board, which has been co-ordinating the uniform meat-labeling program developed by an industrywide Meat Identification Standards Committee, consumer response has been "extremely favorable" in the nation's stores and supermarkets.

The labeling system was actually proposed long before the meat boycott of last April and the furor over beef prices during the summer. Executives from the meat industry and supermarket chains met for 16 months with representatives from the U.S. Department of Agriculture,the White House's Office for Consumer Affairs and the Council of Better Business Bureaus to refine the master list for uniform cuts.

A number of state and local government units have adopted or are considering adopting the industry's standards as the basis for new mandatory labeling codes.

"In the old days, the butcher behind the counter advised housewives on good, nutritious cuts of meat and how to prepare them," says the president of one supermarket chain, "but that personal touch disappeared with the spread of self-service markets. I think this new program will go a long way toward restoring a closer relationship between shopper and retailer."

Gerald Ford, super Veep

When Gerald Ford was greeted by the U.S. Senate as its new President—the sole constitutional prerogative of his new position as Vice President—it was rather amiably made perfectly clear to him that he was to be a presiding officer and nothing more; that the only two words he could speak as a participant in Senate procedures are "Yes" or "No," when casting a tie-breaking vote.

This is the fate of Vice Presidents. Or has been. In the case of the popular former Congressman it is beginning to look as if the "heartbeat" role will be expanded into a meaningful participation in executive affairs.

In the first place, Ford was selected in great part because of the high esteem in which he is held in the federal legislative branch, where he served for 25 years. President Nixon hopes that his new Vice President can actively repair and make much more productive and cordial the relations between the White House and Capitol Hill.

Additionally, it is evident that the President intends to place Ford in charge of his Domestic Council to coordinate the President's domestic program. That is the job Melvin Laird is leaving and it was his idea that Ford take over the responsibilities. Altho the Vice President is allowed to sit in on Cabinet meetings, the role as Council leader would make that participation very much more significant and productive.

Gerald Ford is shaping up as a sort of super Veep, certainly a unique one. The first to be put into office without a vote of the people he already is taking strides to shatter another tradition, that of anonymity.

A new year's resolution

Just in time for the season of merry-making, Listen magazine reports new findings about the nature of sleep and the effects of the familiar hangover.

Using an electroencephalograph, Dr. William Demont of California has found that when you sleep with dreams, there is a better chance you will wake up calm and relaxed. Dreamless sleep, on the other hand, results in an unusually tense and irritable feeling the morning after.

In France, studies by a Dr. Michel Jeuvet show that alcohol reduces the amount of dreaming time. He has found that dreaming cannot begin unless there are the right amounts of three brain chemicals present: serotonin monamine oxidase and noradrenalin. Alcohol, says Dr. Jouvet, prevents the formation of monamine oxidase, thus creating a non-dreaming state.

A possible explanation of a hangover then may be that too much drinking results in too little dreaming — of pink elephants or anthing else.

Congressman seeks to free Russians

WASHINGTON — In an international intrigue worthy of James Bond, a mild, bespectacled congressman has been called on by wild Burmese rebels to negotiate the freedom of two kidnapped Russian doctors.

The Capitol Hill 007 is Rep. Lester Wolff, D-N.Y., who won the Shan guerrillas' confidence last August during a trip to Southeast Asia. As chairman of a House narcotics subcommittee, Wolff brought back the Shan's offer to burn 400 tons of opium for $12 million.

This would have drained the opium from the world market and cut off part of the U.S. heroin supply at the source. Although the State Department rejected the offer, the Shans came to trust Wolff and have now asked him to help out with an even stranger deal.

Last April, at the isolated Burmese village of Taungyi, two humanitarian Russian doctors were working at the Soviet hospital when a force of Shan rebels descended on them and kidnapped them at gunpoint. The rebels, according to our Shan sources, had hoped to grab the Russian ambassador to Burma who was supposed to be visiting the hospital at the time.

Second best

Their purpose was to hold him as ransom for the return of several Shan leaders now in Burmese government custody. Finding no ambassador, they made off with the two physicians. Our sources say the pair have been moved from one remote camp to another while the Russians and Americans, cooperating secretly, have sought to free them. Meanwhile, the Burmese have refused the kidnap demands.

At one point, we started to break the story but yielded to State Department pleadings that publicity might endanger the rescue efforts and perhaps result in the doctors' deaths.

A few days ago, however, information reached us from the far northern regions of Burma that the rebels were interested in freeing the doctors.

"The two Russian doctors are (with) Kun Siang of the SUA (Shan United Army) who orginally captured them," said the cryptic message. "The Russian Embassy in Bangkok has asked (for mediation) with Kun Siang."

'Honest broker'

The mediator selected by the Shans is Lester Wolff. They feel if Wolff helps them to work out a fair deal on the Russians, it will increase the Shan's world credibility.

Reluctant at first to leave his congressional chores, Wolff has now decided to do the risky, humanitarian thing. He has agreed to serve as an "honest broker" and fly to the rugged Shan territory, if that is what it takes to free the two doctors.

FOOTNOTE: The Shans say they are also willing to burn a ton of opium for Wolff to prove they can deliver the deadly drug in tonnage lots. They promise to do it "without the cheating that went into (General) Lao Li's similar deal two or three years ago.

The "cheating" refers to a mix of opium and vegetation that was pawned off for $1 million on the United States in Thailand. When we exposed what happened, the White House staged a sound-and-light press conference to insist the opium was pure and to denounce us as liars. We backed up our story by quoting from the secret CIA account of the million-dollar swindle. Now we are happy to print this additional unsolicited substantiation of our original story.

MILLIONS FOR CHRISTMAS: Congressmen received a $2 million Christmas present from a benevolent House Administration Committee in the form of an increase in their office allowances.

Chairman Wayne Hays, D-Ohio, bestowed the gift in a letter to his colleagues. With "kind personal regards," he informed them that next session each congressman could dip into the stationery allowance for a total of $5,250. The increase will cost the taxpayers more than $438,000 next year.

Arms and USSR a matter of will

Former professor and Rand military analyst James R. Schlesinger—onetime head of the Atomic Energy Commission, then chief of the Central Intelligence Agency and now Secretary of Defense—is convinced Leonid Brezhnev and his associates in the Kremlin agreed to a ceiling on antimissile defenses because they were afraid of the U.S. Safeguard system.

The Russians did not believe all that Safeguard's detractors in Congress and elsewhere said about this heavily debated project, Schlesinger believes. They could see for certain that here the United States was far ahead of the USSR technologically and was, in addition, willing to match Russia numerically.

Therefore, the Russians made a deal which, in Schlesinger's mind, was fair to both sides. And it will save a whopping number of dollars in anticipated military expenditures.

The situation in offensive weapons was different. The Russians could clearly see they were in a position to catch up in strength if U.S. weapon production continued virtually to stand still and research and development of radically new forms of missiles moved ahead at a relatively slow pace.

The only way the second round of Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT II) now in progress can succeed, Schlesinger believes, is for the United States to push ahead on research and development so vigorously and imaginatively that the Russians see us as steadily pulling away ahead of them, and for Washington to show Moscow this country is willing to match the Kremlin's increases in missile numbers and power.

We must do this, he says, so convincingly the Russians will be certain that in any contest they will surely slip further behind. Then, if Schlesinger has analyzed the situation correctly, Brezhnev will come to an agreement that has meaning. Otherwise no.

There is no doubt in Schlesinger's mind that the U.S. can stay ahead technologically—and numerically if we must.

The problem is a question of will, he says. That will must be expressed by the President and by Congress. But back of these leaders there must be a will on the part of the citizenry. That is the way a democracy works.

Schlesinger believes it may not be necessary for the United States actually to put through a major buildup of new weapons for this strategy to be successful. If the Russians are convinced that we have the will and that we will carry out this major advance in weaponry if the USSR does not cooperate, this may suffice. The problem, of course, is convincing the Kremlin.

Schlesinger is certain Congress will do what is necessary when the chips are down if the legislators can be sold on the correctness of these arguments. The problem is to make sure the Russians do not misinterpret our necessary national and Congressional debates. Our present task is to show the Kremlin the fallacy of any such misinterpretation of the American will.

Waste is expensive

If you don't believe that your own daily waste has contributed to the high prices, think again!

We have had this awakening coming on energy and prices for 20 years. For a year I have been recycling newspapers, aluminum cans and glass bottles. This amounts to over 9 tons of paper and cardboard, 663 pounds of aluminum and 5,409 pounds of crushed glass.

Nearly all of these resources would have gone to the disposal area where we pay a crew and machine to pick it up, lease the land for cut and fill, and hire a bulldozer to bury them. With glass in short supply only about 2 per cent is being recovered on a national basis and 12 per cent locally which is the pilot program on glass recycling.

All of us who are using cardboard boxes each week for trash should be ashamed. We are sending our pulp trees out to the dump to be buried. Yes, I was guilty. At $28 per ton cardboard is nearly 1½ cents a pound.

How many times in your lifetime have you heard the expression, "There's plenty more where that came from." We must not agree with this philosophy.

The total waste occurring daily in this city is nothing short of phenomenal. It is time for Pomona to go on a total recycling program and hire the unemployed to operate the system.

Pomona is a beautiful city in this valley. It's fun to help keep it clean and beautiful. Try it; then turn your papers, aluminum cans and bottles in to a charitable recycling center where it will SAVE and HELP Pomona.—H.A. Curtiss, Pomona.

Gossip for today

The long suffering American male can take most shortages in stride but there comes a time when enough is enough. And so I feel sure that we are going to see some action soon in connection with the gasoline shortage. Now that it has gotten to the point where it is interfering with beer deliveries, the men of America will definitely rise in righteous wrath and demand that Congress get off the dime and provide the necessary gasoline to keep beer flowing or else.

INSIDE REPORT

GOPers stunned by attack on colleague

By Rowland Evans and Robert Novak

WASHINGTON — House Republican leaders are seething over a poison-pen letter, hand-delivered to most Republican Congressmen, just before the election of Rep. Barber Conable of New York as House Republican policy chairman, attacking Conable for joining an "ultra-liberal" organization—with signs that it orginated in the office of a conservative Republican House member.

Conable's unsuccessful opponent, conservative Rep. Del Clawson of California, had nothing whatever to do with the attack. Conable beat Clawson by 10 votes in the Dec. 13 party balloting for the post vacated by the new Republican House leader, Rep. John Rhodes of Arizona.

Intimates of Rhodes say he was livid, not because Conable had been attacked but because the letter attacking him, written to Conable and signed by a Chicago woman named Janice Blakely, was distributed anonymously—and surreptitiously—from the office of a Republican Congressman.

Rhodes told us that if he knew for certain which office had engineered the attack, he might recommend "disciplinary action" against the culprit.

But Rep. Sam Steiger of Arizona, a conservative Republican, was tougher. He fingered the office of this Arizona colleague, right-wing Rep. John B. Conlan, as the source of the concealed attack.

"An employee in Conlan's office told me that she was prepared to swear that his was done in that office," Steiger told us. Stieger and Conlan are mortal political enemies.

Denies any participation

Conlan denied to us any participation or knowledge of the low blow against Conable, a highly regarded moderate. But many of Conlan's colleagues, asking not to be quoted, told us they suspect Conlan's office.

The "Dear Congressman Conable" letter was a right-wing diatribe that could not have swung a single vote against Conable even if it had not appeared in congressional offices in untraceable and highly suspect white envelopes with no return address and no postmark. It said the writer of the letter "was shocked to read in the Council on Foreign Relations' annual report of 1973 that you had accepted an invitation to join this ultra-liberal organization."

It then listed several moderate and liberal Congressmen of both parties, including Republican Rep. John Anderson of Illinois and Democratic Rep. Thomas Morgan of Pennsylvania, as other new members of the Council, a New York-based foreign-police research organization and publishers of the qurterly magazine Foreign Affairs.

The phrase "CFR" is a scathing codeword in right-wing circles. The Council has been a pet target for years of the John Birch Society, which regards it as a sinister East Coast establishment conspiracy with connections to Moscow.

What has infuriated Rhodes, Steiger and other Republicans is the Watergate-style politics of using the office of a Conable foe to duplicate and transmit the attack on him.

"This is what Watergate was all about, and the American people won't stand for it anymore," one angry Republican told us. "If we can identify the source of this beyond doubt, we may censure him."

A footnote: The original letter, postmarked Washington and mailed to Conable, did not arrive until after he was elected to succeed Rhodes. The copies that were hand-delivered arrived the day before the election.

U.S. oil for the Saudis

The kid gloves treatment given Saudi Arabia by the U.S. government during the oil embargo was underlined by this Dec. 14 telegram from the Office of Petroleum Allocation in Washington to Continental Oil Co. in Houston:

"You are hereby instructed in accordance with the mandatory allocation program for the middle distillate fuels to supply 5,000 gallons of jet "A" turbine fuel to Saudi Arabian air force located in Tulsa, Okla., to be supplied as follows: December, 1973, for the purpose of aircraft use."

On Dec. 13, a weekly courier flight by a Saudi air force C-130 transport went to Tulsa to pick up spare parts for its planes back in Saudi Arabia. It needed to refuel three. A perplexed Continental Oil official queried the Allocation Office in Washington, which went to the Saudi desk of the State Department for help. The answer: give the Saudis what they need.

On its face, this is outlandish. With U.S. airlines furloughing thouands of employees and U.S. military aviators on reduced air time because of the Saudi oil boycott, the U.S. is allocating scarce fuel to the Saudis. In fact, however, the matter is not so simple.

U.S. policymakers know that a campaign of petty harassment against the Saudis won't get the oil flowing again. Predictably, Saudi courier flights will get their gas.

Rowland Heights schools honor retired teacher

ROWLAND HEIGHTS — Rowland Unified School District's educational media center has been dedicated in honor of Ada May Warner, a recently retired teacher.

At dedication ceremonies, Supt. Stanley G. Oswalt presented Mrs. Warner a framed rubbing taken from a bronze plaque bearing the inscription displayed at the center.

Mrs. Warner taught in the Rowland area from 1948 until her retirement. Currently she is active as a lecturer. A world traveler, she has utilized her interest in audio-visual aids by writing 18-minute lectures on her trips to the Orient, Alaska, Hawaii and Africa.

When the district unified in 1970, she was credited with compiling "A Century of Rowland," a comprehensive history of the area, and conducting extensive interviews of early residents and founding families.

Rowland's Ada May Warner Educational Media Center is a service agency to the district's 20 schools offering teachers access to a comprehensive professional library, help in preparing instructional aids for classroom use, access to lesson plans, workshops in creamics, laminating, over-lays, transparencies and museum realia and it also serves as a processing center for the purchase of instructional materials.

Professional board taps Merle Bolden

HACIENDA HEIGHTS — Merle Bolden of Hacienda Heights has been elected chairman of the Trailer Coach Association's 1974 supplier board of governors.

As supplier board chairman, he automatically becomes a member of the association's corporate board.

Bolden has been with Motor Rim and Wheel Service 21 years. He is married and has two children.

Motor development class for children

POMONA — A motor development class for youngsters with perceptual and conceptual difficulties will be held at the Pomona Valley YMCA beginning Jan. 5.

Objectives of the class, for youngsters from 6 to 16, are recreation and enjoyment, development of self-confidence and improvement of coordination.

Fee for the class will be $10 for members and $20 for non-members. The class will run 10 weeks and will be instructed by Tim Lewis.

21 schools combine forces to help needy on Christmas

ROWLAND HEIGHTS — The Rowland Heights Community Coordinating Council supplied Christmas toys, canned food and money for perishable food to 150 families.

Mrs. Carolyn Rosas, council president, was cochairman with David Huckaby of the holiday basket program.

Mrs. Rosas said the 21 schools in the Rowland district contributed canned goods, and Joe Surra, director of building and transportation services, supplied delivery trucks.

Donations came in from men's, women's and children's organizations as well as private individuals.

Students from Nogales and Rowland high schools filled boxes for distribution, loaded trucks and patroled areas where goods were stored, Mrs. Rosas said.

Opening date set for winter session

LA PUENTE — Winter quarter classes offered by the La Puente Community Adult School will begin Wednesday.

Free-on-campus child care and counseling will be available day and evening.

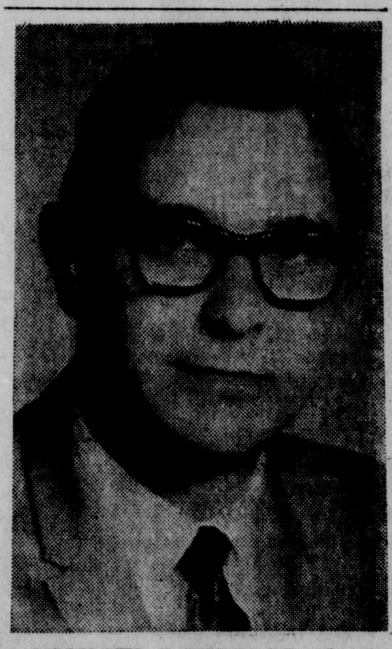
ROWLAND HEIGHTS — Employment preparation in the garment manufacturing industry is being offered by Con-Stan Industries and the Rowland Adult school beginning Jan. 7.

Enrollment will be open throughout the six-week commercial power sewing course.

Advance applications will be taken at the adult school office, 1830 Nogales St., between 9 a.m. and 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday.The office telephone number is 213 965-5975.



MICHAEL J. HISS of Rowland Heights has been promoted to assistant vice president with Security Pacific Bank's Pomona branch. Hiss, a native of Miami, Fla., joined Security Pacific as a teller in 1960.

Mrs. Wentworth named chairman of commission

WALNUT — Mrs. June Wentworth has been named chairman of the Walnut Valley Unified School District Personnel Commission.

Mrs. Wentworth has served on the commission for four years and was recently reappointed by the State Personnel Board to a three year term after her nomination by the school district.

The new chairman has served a term as vice chairman on the Personnel Commission which is responsible for developing the rules and regulations which govern the nonteaching staff of the district.

Church offering six-week course to help parents

DIAMOND BAR — Beginning Jan. 6, at 7 p.m., the Diamond Bar Congregational Church will offer a six-week "Positive Parenting Program."

Sessions will run consecutive Sundays through Feb. 10. Kenneth Green, director of counseling services at Cal Poly Pomona, developed the program for the National YMCA Family Communication Skills.

Cost of the series is $15 per person. Those interested in enrolling may send a pre-registration fee of $5 to Mary Kay Jenkins, 23847 Decorah Road, Diamond Bar.

The course is designed to provide parents with specific knowledge, information and methods to help them gain greater confidence in their parental skills.

Sertoma Club salutes worker in community

DIAMOND BAR — Orien Pagan of 23814 Twin Pines Drive is the recipient of the fourth annual Sertoma Club Service to Mankind Award.

She was cited for her "unselfish contributions of time and effort in service of the community." She will be honored at a banquet Jan. 18, at 8 p.m. at Orlando's Restaurant in Pomona.

Members of the Diamond Bar Sertoma Club are inviting Mrs. Pagan's fellow workers in her many community activities to join them in presenting the award. Reservations may be made by calling 595-4592. Tickets are $6 per person.

Mrs. Pagan was the charter PTA president at Diamond Point Elementary School. She has held many offices in PTA and on the PTA Council. She received the honorary life service award from the PTA in recognition for her work with youth.

She served on the ad hoc committee of the Pomona school board.

She is active in work at Gateway House, a home which aids unwed mothers and their children. She currently is second vice president, chairman of the staff for 1973-74, and a member of the board of directors.

Mrs. Pagan has been a Cub Scout den mother and a Girl Scout leader and has been active as an adult volunteer in Little League, Pop Warner Football and the Soccer League.

She has been an active member of the Diamond Bar Junior Women's Club since 1965. She has served on many projects including the Juniors' Tot-Time Enrichment, to which she contributed four years; Santa Claus, Inc., Christmas stockings, three years; the Diamond Bar Roundup; and Project Concern, a program to deliver baby clothes, food and medicine to needy persons in Mexico.

Mrs. Pagan works with the Junioretts and as a volunteer at Camp Glen Rocky.

She is active at the district level in the Juniors, and currently is president of the San Gabriel Valley District Women's Clubs—Junior Membership, and has been the district's third and first vice presidents.

The Sertoma Club gave honorable mention to Jack W. Liggett and Dominic F. Ruggiero for their services to their community.

Liggett served the community through youth activities and Ruggiero has been active on the Diamond Bar Home Owners Association's committee to study Diamond Bar school unification.

Bernice Bede Osol

For Saturday, Dec. 29

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You'll do yourself more good in the long run if you put the needs of others well ahead of your own. Be charitable.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Over the next few days contacts that you now have will, in various manners, help advance your interests in important areas.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Conditions that contribute to your basic security look especially favorable at this time. Build upon these solid foundations.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) This is a good period to rectify misunderstandings you may have had recently with a friend.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Someone you're associated with stands to offer more than just friendship. There's profit in this relationship, if properly developed.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) This is a much better day to make serious decisions than yesterday. Revise your thinking if you now see a clearer path.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) The next few days can be very productive, if you plan your schedule sensibly. Clean up work you've fallen behind on.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You're much more appreciated socially than you realize. Let your favorite people know you'd like a get-together.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) A good day to set up a conference on situations pertinent to the family as a whole. Something constructive will come of it.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Have more peace of mind. Get in touch with one you've neglected lately. Let her know she's important to you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) A small windfall is not unlikely over the next few days. It could be material, or a service one will do that saves you some bucks.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) This is a good cycle for you to tie a lot of loose ends together to further your self interests. Take the initiative.

Your birthday
Dec. 29

An active social calendar with more travel than usual is likely this year. You'll form an important association. It will prove advantageous as the year progresses.

Helicopters to do the logging

FORESTHILL (UPI) — Helicopter logging will be used for the first time in Tahoe National Forest when 7.88 million board feet are brought out by aircraft.

The Tahoe National Forest auctioned the logging project to Erickson Air Crane Corp., Marysville, for $359,330.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

More American presidents were born in Virginia than in any other state. Eight chief executives, Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, William Henry Harrison, Tyler, Taylor and Wilson, were Virginians, The World Almanac notes. The state with the second greatest number of native-son presidents is Ohio, with seven. Grant, Hayes, Garfield, Benjamin Harrison, McKinley, Taft and Harding were born in Ohio.

Three SAL clubs make Chino semis

By KEVIN CLOE
P-B Staff Writer

CHINO — It may be an all-San Antonio League finals at the 33rd Annual Chino High Lettermen's Club Invitational Basketball Tournament this year.

In fact, the odds heavily favor all five of the SAL teams competing in the tourney to reach the final day of play.

Three of those teams will get their chance tonight to slip into the championship finals, which will be held Saturday evening in the Cowboy gym.

Upland, Claremont and host Chino all made it into the semifinal round of the championship bracket Thursday after posting impressive victories over their opponents.

Upland knocked off Temple City early Thursday morning, 72-60, while Claremont disposed of defending tournament champion La Canada, 64-52, and Chino dumped University, 66-48.

Miraleste 41, Cerritos 40
Claremont 64, La Canada 52
Chino 66, University 48

Today's Pairings

Consolation Bracket

Ganesha vs. Pacifica, 12:30 p.m.
Montclair vs. Santa Ana, 2 p.m.

Fourth Place Bracket

Temple City vs. Cerritos, 3:30 p.m.
La Canada vs. University, 5 p.m.

Championship Bracket

Upland vs. Miraleste, 7 p.m.
Chino vs. Claremont, 8:30 p.m.

Upland will battle Miraleste, a 41-40 winner of previously unbeaten Cerritos Thursday, and Claremont and Chino will run head on in the two semifinal games tonight at 7 p.m. and 8:30 p.m.

Even if Upland should fall to Miraleste, either Claremont or Chino will advance to the championship game. But if the Highlanders pull off the mild upset over the Marauders, the Chino Tournament's championship game will be a San Antonio League exclusive.

Even the consolation championship could see two SAL teams battling it out.

Both Ganehsa and Montclair moved into today's second round on the consolation side of the brackets with victories. Ganesha easily ran over an outmanned Duarte team, 100-49, and Montclair streaked past Escondido by a 78-55 margin.

Ganesha was scheduled to face Pacificia, a 66-64 winner over Bonita Thursday, at 12:30 p.m. today in one of the semifinal matchups.

And then Montclair was to have taken on Santa Ana, 57-55 victor over Ontario, at 2 p.m. in the other consolation semifinal game.

Both SAL teams were favored to reach the consolation finals, which would mean another all-SAL faceoff.

At least one SAL team will also play for the tournament's third-place trophy this year, since the loser of tonight's Claremont-Chino contest will move into the third-place playoff.

There is one place on the brackets where a San Antonio League team will not have a chance to pick up a trophy. That will be for fourth place, where four non-valley teams are competing.

Temple City and La Canada bumped heads earlier today (3:30 p.m.) in one of the semifinal games for fourth place, and La Canada battled University in the other at 5 p.m.

Of the three SAL teams which reached today's semifinals, Claremont picked up what seemed to be the more impressive win.

The Wolfpack wasn't able to shake loose from the defending tourney champs until midway through the third period when it held a 10-point lead. The Spartans were unable to cut into that lead throughout the rest of the game, even though they did get to within seven midway in the fourth quarter.

Rip Sears, the 5-foot-11 Claremont guard, once again got the 'Pack going for the second consecutive night. Hitting from the 25-foot range all night long, Sears tallied eight of the Wolves' 13 first-quarter points against La Canada. He added six more in the second quarter and ended the game as the team's leading scorer with 22 points.

His counterpart, Dick Sinclair from La Canada, added 24 points to the 29 he scored in the opening round Wedneday.

Chino didn't waste any time in running away from University in the finale of the day.

The Cowboys jumped to a quick 13-2 lead halfway through the first quarter and never let up.

The big surprise from the Cowboy lineup came from center Dirk Story's 24-point performance, which was undoubtedly his best night as a Cowboy cager.

His moment of glory came in the third period when he score 11 of his team's 19 points after picking up eight in the first half.

Story, standing at 6-foot-7, was only averaging a little better than five points per game going into the tournament.

Both Claremont's Sears and Chino's Story have been hiding in the wings while the other players stole the show so far this season.

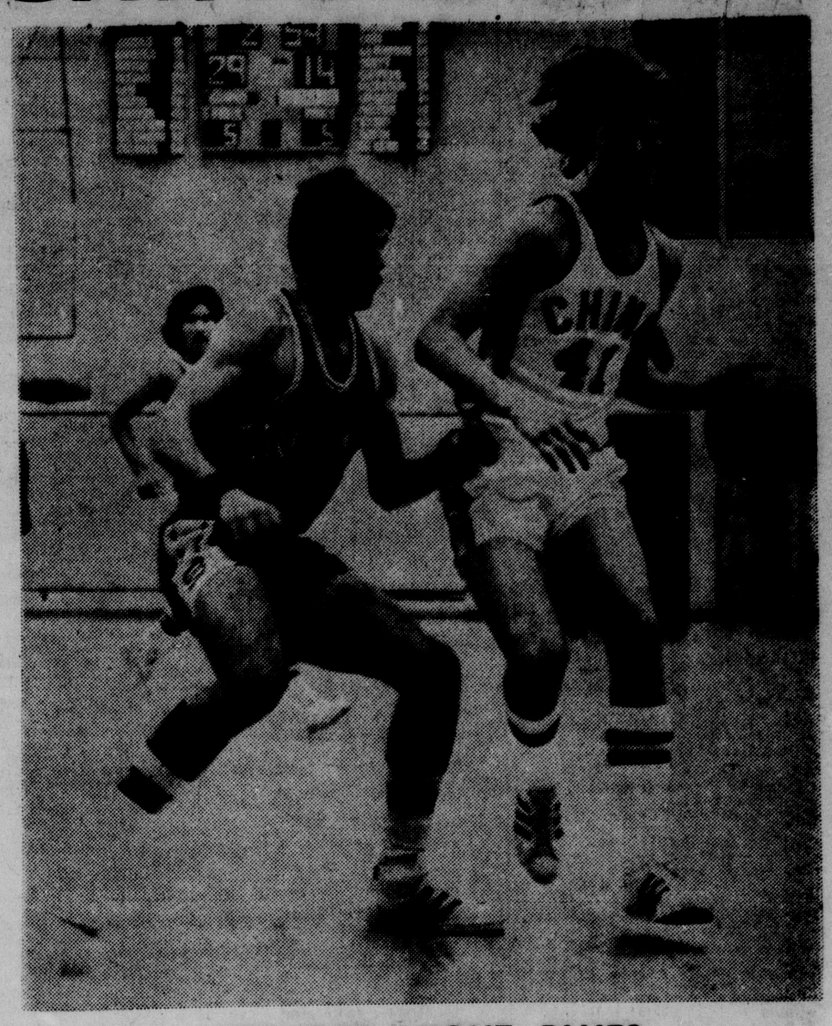
If those two duplicate their performances from Thursday night and the rest of the players on both teams play like they have been playing, the Claremont-Chino contest tonight should be very interesting.

After playing a close first quarter against Temple City, Upland used the full-court press to force Ram mistakes. The Scots were able to capitalize on seven second-quarter turnovers by T. C. and pull to a safe 39-24 lead by halftime.

The Rams were able to pull to within six points late in the third period, but that was as close as they got.

Forwards Orien Ogg (21) and Curt Oldenkamp (23) and center Stu DuVall (20) cleared 20 points for the game for Upland.

Ganesha, which defeated Duarte in the opening round of the Upland-Montclair Tournament this year by a 99-61 margin, finally found the 100-mark. Center Cleve Porter (31 points) and forward Broderick Hunter (22 points) paced the Giants.



MUNDEE NIGHT BLUES

Chino's Keith Mundee prepares to drive on University's Jeff Giese in Thursday's Chino Tournament action. The Cowboys downed the Trojan's 66-48, to advance to today's semi-finals.

USD's Vinci accepts Poly football job

By BILL LANGLEY
P-B Sports Editor

POMONA — Andy Vinci stole the show from Cal Poly.

Poly scheduled a press conference this afternoon to announce its new football coach but it's public knowledge now Vinci, the colorful coach at the University of San Diego, has the job.

The story was released Thursday night by the wire services in San Diego and it's obvious Vinci announced it himself.

Poly officials were stunned by the premature announcement and were unhappy about the way it was handled.

Vinci will be replacing Roy Anderson, who resigned last month after serving five years as the Broncos' head mentor. In two years at USD, Vinci turned in a 15-5-2 mark including a 9-2-1 record this past season when he guided the Toreros to the NCAA Division III national playoffs. His team lost to eventual national champion Wittenberg, 21-14.

USD led the national statistics in scoring (40.1 points a game), total offense (441 yards per game) and passing offense (231.7 yards).

"I regret very much leaving USD and it was a difficult decision to make," Vinci told United Press International. "But at this point in time, I feel it is the thing to do."

USD president Arthur E. Hughes added, "the opportunity presented by Cal Poly Pomona is an excellent one and will find him in a position that it would take several years to develop at USD."

Writers vote for Trojans

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

PASADENA — Woody Hayes was "Mr. Nice," and John McKay sent himself instead of Craig Fertig to the annual Football Writers Rose Bowl Luncheon at Annandale Country Club in Pasadena Thursday.

McKay, who has been acerbic at times this year, brought his famed wit and sense of humor. Speaking as USC Athletic Director and offering an official welcome to Ohio State, McKay quipped, "I did not vote for Ohio St. to come out here. I voted for Indiana. I would have voted for Ball St. if I could get them."

Later, speaking as USC coach, McKay was asked his reaction to Ohio St. being installed as a two-point favorite over the Trojans in Tuesday's Rose Bowl game.

"I guess it means we'll start out a safety behind and punt to them," he grinned. "Maybe that's the best way to play them."

Writers at the luncheon, about two thirds of them from Southern Calif., came out strongly for USC in a poll taken at the affair. Of the 99 balloting, 65 picked USC by an average margin of 8½ points with the largest margin 31 points.

There were 31 votes for Ohio St. with the average margin 7½ points and the largest 20 points. Two writers predicted ties and one picked the score 28-27 with the notation, "either way."

Running back Jim Farmer of Azusa Pacific was named College Division Player of the year and UCLA's Kermit Johnson was honored as University Division Player of the Year.

Farmer averaged 7.2 yards per carry this year. Carrying the ball 157 times, the 6-1, 200 pound junior set a school rushing record with 1,132 yards gained, an average of 125.8 yards per game.

Johnson, the under-publicized UCLA great, carried the ball 150 times and gained 1,129 yards, an average of 7.8 yards per carry. He scored 16 touchdowns.

When the Big Ten athletic directors and coaches were introduced, it might have been co-incidental, but the absence of Michigan and the three schools who voted for the Wolverines to go to the Rose Bowl made one wonder if the rift within the conference itself is not much bigger than anyone cares to admit.

When Hayes was introduced, a hint of Woody's other side surfaced briefly when the MC remarked that "he guessed he would take questions from the floor now."

Hayes eyes glinted and then he grinned. "Yes, you can do that and ask any question you want and I'll answer what I'd well please," he said.

The veteran of 23 years at Ohio St. said his squad has had great practices so far. "I'm just a little apprehensive about the possibility of warmer weather for the game," he added. "I think that would be to USC's advantage."

Hayes again seemed to go out of his way to establish that this year's Buckeye team is much better than last year's and one of his best ever.

"One thing I have to worry about with this year's squad," he said, "is that they will work too hard. That way I'll get a little softer . . . but not much."

Hayes said he has never had a team with better morale but he wouldn't reveal why.

"We've had better player morale, better understanding between players and coaches than we've ever had on our squad," Hayes admitted. "But I'm not going to tell you why. There's a definite reason. It's a team reason. I'm a nicer guy this year because the team is nicer."

In talking about his freshman players (10), he said, "our freshmen are much greater than a year ago, but Archie Griffon was the best freshman we've ever had."

As for an overall summation, Hayes said, "we have a great defense. It's true we haven't met a great passer. Next Tuesday we're gonna pass more . . . at least we're going to warm up like H - before the game and see if we can scare USC."

While Ohio St. apparently has had excellent practices, the same is not true for USC.

We ate a lot of turkey Christmas Day," McKay remarked, "and when we came out for practice, we looked like a bunch of turkeys. But I think we'll be ready New Year's Day."

Regarding the Trojans practicing only 12 days to Ohio State's 16. McKay said, "people assume we don't practice hard because we don't practice often. But get in all the work we need to get in."

McKay wasn't "on" as long as Hayes, but didn't spare the accolades in describing the Buckeyes.

"I think they are a very powerful football team," said the USC coach. "They make few mistakes. Remember, in a close game you don't win it. The other guy loses it."

"We'll have to play as well or better than we played against UCLA," he concluded.

East squad impressive says Dietzel

"I've coached good ones before but never as many top athletes as I have on this team," Dietzel said recently of the squad that will meet the West in the 49th Shrine game Saturday at San Francisco's Candlestick Park.

Dietzel is particularly impressed by Tennessee State defensive end Edward Jones, who is expected to be the No. 1 draft choice in the NFL.

Dietzel said that if he had to pick a quarterback right now, he'd split the playing time between Mississippi's Norris Weese and Gary Marangi of Boston College.

The game is a benefit for the Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children and has so far raised more than $7 million for the institution.

Lakers need to rebound

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Badly beaten at Phoenix and Seattle this week, the Los Angeles Lakers attempt to rebound tonight against the Suns in the first of three games in three nights.

Leading the NBA's Pacific Division with a 20-17 record, the Lakers are at Golden State Saturday night and host Buffalo Sunday night.

The Lakers are expected to be without the services of Jerry West for at least two more weeks. The 35-year-old guard, one of only three players to score 25,000 career points in the league's history, has been sidelined two weeks with an abdominal muscle pull.

Bruins seek nos. 82, 83 in Classic

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — UCLA's basketball machine, tuning up for its Pacific-8 openers, goes after its 82nd and 83rd consecutive wins this weekend in the third Bruin Classic.

In the opening round of the four-team tournament at Pauley Pavilion tonight, the Bruins face Wyoming (3-4) at 9 o'clock PST after Michigan (7-1) and University of San Francisco (2-5) play at 7. The finals are set at Pauley Pavilion Saturday night.

Coach John Wooden's club is 6-0 this year and its victims include Atlantic Coast Conference powerhouses North Carolina State and Maryland.

"December," said Wooden, "is kind of a proving ground in trying out things.

"It should be a good tournament. We're looking forward to it to find out a little more about our players before the opening of the conference."

Victories by UCLA and USF tonight would set up a rematch of last season's NCAA Western Regional semifinalists. The Bruins won that game 54-39.

"USF is the best 2-5 team you'll find anywhere," said Wooden.

Despite their record, the Dons are the favorites in the upcoming West Coast Athletic Conference season.

Wooden, of course, stresses the Pac-8 season and the Bruins must open their league schedule on the road—at Washington Jan. 5 and at Washington State Jan. 7.

After six games, Bill Walton is averaging 19.2 points and 16.7 rebounds for UCLA. Keith Wilkes is scoring at a 16.2 clip and Dave Meyers has a 10.5 scoring average.

Pass lives in NFL play

By United Press International

The pass lives.

Last year heralded the return of the running game as the dominant force in National Football League offenses. It was the year of the runner.

The trend has continued through this year if O.J. Simpson and the conservative offenses of most teams are any indication.

But look at the top two passers in both the American and the National Football Conferences. Oakland's Ken Stabler and Miami's Bob Griese led the AFC, while Dallas' Roger Staubach and Minnesota's Fran Tarkenton were tops in the NFC.

Try Oakland, Miami, Dallas and Minnesota.

Stabler is more prone to getting sacked than any other quarterback in the NFL, but he is also more likely to complete a pass any time he lets go of the ball.

The Raiders' southpaw takes an interminable time in the pocket, refusing to let go of the precious pigskin unless there is Oakland black and silver standing all alone somewhere on the football field.

But, if or when the running game bogs down, Stabler will retreat seven yards and stand and stand and stand. If he is given enough standing time, Stabler's passing will give the Dolphins' vaunted zone pass defense a fit.

Stabler led all NFL passers with a completion percentage of 62.7 this season and set a new league record for single-game efficiency against the Colts when he completed 25 of 29 passes.

In Miami's regular season finale, however, Griese got in a little target practice and threw four touchdowns passes to Paul Warfield in the first half.

Undoubtedly, the Raiders and the Dolphins will come out running Sunday, as is the custom, but before the day is over there will be some fancy flinging in the Orange Bowl.

Minnesota's battle at Dallas Sunday for the NFC title will follow a similar scenerio.

Scrambling Fran is not at all shy about putting the football skyward, particularly in the direction of John Gilliam. Another favorite target of Tarkenton's is rookie running back Chuck Foreman.

Staubach led the NFC is passing this season, completing 62.6 per cent of his passes. He also connected on 23 scoring passes, tying Philadelphia's Roman Gabriel for the NFL leadership in that department.

Passing profiency Sunday will play a critical role in the pairings for Super Bowl VIII.

Sabres trade Pratt, Gould

Pratt, 30, came to Buffalo as one of the original Sabres in the 1970 National Hockey League expansion draft. Gould played the last two seasons with the Sabres' farm club at Cincinnati and had four goals in 30 games with Buffalo this season.

Poly visits Sonoma

ROHNERT PARK — Cal Poly basketball coach Don Hogan is relieved his team doesn't have to face the likes of Arizona, Long Beach State or Nevada Las Vegas any more this season.

"It's very difficult to obtain any type of consistency when you play that caliber of opposition," Hogan said. "We need a total performance and we feel we can compete with the rest of the teams on our schedule."

Poly resumes basketball action here tonight against a strong Sonoma State team. The Broncos return to Kellogg Gym to host touring Purdue (Calumet) Saturday night.

Hogan isn't certain how his team will be physically following a four-day Christmas break but he is hoping Horace Aubrey, the team's top scorer with a 13.8 average, is able to play after

Chaffey High surprised in Kiwanis play

Western Christian and Ontario Christian both posted wins in Thursday's high school basketball action, while Chaffey was surprised by San Gorgonio in the Kiwanis' Classic Tourney held in San Bernardino.

Western got 21 points from center Sam Shumaker and 18 from forward Ron Morris to dump Rio Hondo by a 76-47 count. The Lancers led by only nine at intermission but outscored the visitors 46-26 in the second half.

Shumaker hit 15 of his 21 markers in the second half, while Morris had 14 of his 18 in the same half. Charles Parsons led Rio Hondo scoring with 16 points.

Western Christian is now 8-2 on the year and will play Chadwick Jan. 2 at Western.

Ontario Christian got 22 points from their center Don Heida to post an easy 81-59 victory over Rim of the World. Larry Sytsma added 18 for the Knights, who play Yucaipa Saturday night at OCHS.

San Gorgonio scored a surprisingly easy 64-45 win over Chaffey in the Kiwanis' Classic Tourney. Leon Jordon popped for 27 points for San Gorgonio to tag the Tigers with the loss. Chaffey will continue play in the tourney with a 5 p.m. contest tonight.

Mounties, Chaffey post tourney wins

The Mounties rolled over Modesto 70-54 and will face Foothill, a 83-76 winner over Ventura, at 7 p.m. tonight in the semifinals. In other JC games, L.A. Trade Tech posted a 76-52 win over Citrus in the College of the Desert Tourney at Palm Desert; and Chaffey beat Contra Costa 83-65 in the opening round of the San Joaquin Delt Tournament in Stockton.

"I thought our kids were very careless in the first half and made too many turnovers," said coach Gene Victor. "But I'm very much satisfied with the second half play. We showed we can play together and play solid basketball. We're a tough team when we play solidly like we did against East Los Angeles earlier."

The Mounties (now 4-9) held only a modest 29-24 lead at the half, but outscored Modesto, 45-30, in the second half. Center Gary Nash led the Mounties with 19 points and 14 rebounds. Gary Melugin from Ganesha High had 13 points and eight rebounds.

Bob Kovach set a tourney record at Stockton. The 6-7 Chaffey sophomore scored 42 points erasing the old mark of 39 set by Delta's Ellis Porter in 1970. The Panthers face the winner of Thursday night's Cabot-San Joaquin Delta game tonight at 9 p.m.

Citrus was tied with Trade Tech, 29-29, with four minutes left in the first half, but was outscored 14-2 and trailed 43-31 at the half.

The L.A. school shot at a 63 per cent rate for the game. Roy Hickman led all scorers with 20 points. Tim Conklin had 20 rebounds to go with eight assists.

LOS ANGELES — For the third consecutive year, KNX (1070) is carrying the exclusive stretch drive replays and results of each day's nine races from Santa Anita.

Rookie helps Atlanta beat Kings, 6-4

ATLANTA (UPI) — Rookie Tom Lysiak scored the winning goal and Bob Leiter had a three-goal hat trick Thursday night to lead the Atlanta Flames to a 6-4 victory over the Los Angeles Kings.

Leiter's hat trick was the first by a Flames player this season and the first by anyone in the two-year-old Omni, Atlanta's home rink.

The Flames took a 2-1 first period lead on goals by Leiter and Curt Bennett after the Kings' Mike Murphy scored first.

In the wild third period the Kings' Whitey Widing tied the contest at 2-2 and Murphy put Los Angtles ahead with an unassisted goal.

Leiter then scored his second of the night, which was offset when the Kings' Don Kozak scored his seventh of the season. Leiter's third goal tied the game at 4-4 and with less than two minutes to play, Lysiak scored the winning goal with a backhand shot as he streaked in from the right side.

With 45 seconds to play, Bennett got his second goal of the night with a long shot into the empty Los Angeles net.

By CRAIG TRAVIS
P-B Staff Writer

LA PUENTE — At this time of the season, the aura of Christmas tends to change scrooges into happier people. Afterall, everybody knows it's better to give than to receive.

Two local teams fell in second round action of the Nogales Christmas Basketball Tournament, both willing to give rather than receive.

Walnut dropped a 57-51 decision to Wilson while Rowland fell to Azusa, 64-51.

Walnut did everything but win its game with the Wildcats. The Mustangs outshot their opponents, shooting a poor 37.5 per cent from the floor to Wilson's 30.6 per cent. Walnut hit on 21 field goal attempts (out of 56 tries) while Wilson made 20 of 62 from the field.

Wilson won the game, that was tied eight times and saw the lead change on four occasions, at the foul line. The Wildcats made 17 of 22 charity tosses, 14 of 17 coming in the second half including 10 of 13 in the fourth quarter.

John Gagne's jumper, at the buzzer, gave Wilson a 21-19 halftime lead. The two-pointer held up throughout the third period until Joe Lopez' bucket with nine seconds left in the quarter gave the Wildcats a four-point cushion.

Wilson widened its lead to 49-39 with 5:35 to play when the Mustangs reeled off eight straight points to trail by a bucket. But Walnut proved to charitable the rest of the way.

Walnut's Kirk Christ took game scoring honors with 21 points and 12 rebounds while Lance Parrish added 12 points. Gagne paced Wilson with 20 points and 10 caroms while guard Mike Street chipped in 18 points, eight of those coming in the fourth stanza.

The Aztecs dominated the board play scoring at will underneath the hoop while the Raiders were forced to be content with their outside shooting.

Trailing 43-33 entering the fourth quarter, the Raiders whittled away their deficit to 49-44 with 3:33 left. But David Booze's three-point play, making the score 56-44, iced the game with 2:24 to play.

Rowland's Robert Malave won game-scoring honors with 26 points, to run his two-game total to 50 points, with center Steve Nichols adding 10 counters.

RICK NELSON

Rick Nelson to perform at Knott's Farm

BUENA PARK — The new music of Rick Nelson and the Stone Canyon Band comes to the John Wayne Theater as Knott's Berry Farm moves into the new year.

As Nelson moved into the 1970s and away from the image of Little Ricky in the Ozzie and Harriet television series, he became influenced by the music of Bob Dylan. He then recorded "She Belongs to Me" with the Stone Canyon Band. Since that time, they have recorded "Rick Nelson in Concert," "Rick Sings Nelson," "Rudy the Fifth" and "Garden Party."

Nelson performs at 7 and 9 p.m. Tuesday through Thursday; at 6, 7:30 and 9 p.m. Jan. 4 and 5; and at 6 and 8 p.m. on Jan. 6.

'Oh, Coward!' due at Forum

LOS ANGELES — "Oh, Coward!" will move to the Music Center's Mark Taper Forum for a three-week engagement with the original New York cast, beginning Jan. 22 and running through Feb. 10.

The confection, employing words and music by Noel Coward and devised and directed by Roderick Cook, will star Cook, Barbara Cason and Jamie Ross.

The Music Center Presentations attraction, in association with Stan Seiden, immediately follows James Whitmore in a four-week run of "Will Rogers' U.S.A." which closes Jan. 20.

Idols can't conquer TV on image alone

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Many big movie stars—perhaps most —used to sneer at television when considering projects and outlets for their talents.

They were foolish and couldn't see the future. They deluded themselves with a snobbism towards video. They regarded television as a possible retirement home when their stars began to fad.

Now, however, several seasons of network gambling with movie stars have exposed the fact that, in most cases, they mean little or nothing in attracting video audiences. The snobbism is a thing of the past.

Only a handful of movie names, such as Steve McQueen, Marlon Brando and Paul Newman, can afford at this point to bypass television when contemplating their film ventures.

A handful of major movie names—George C. Scott and Charlton Heston among them— have been wise enough to see the delusion in in the snobbism, and have successfully mixed in video roles with their motion picture parts.

What they knew, as intelligent performers, is that the sole factor of genuine importance is the quality of a production and their parts in it. The status nonsense associated with old-style movie star buildups is, for all practical purposes, dead.

The studios that once built up the stars now look forward to selling motion pictures to television, which is on a firmer day-to-day financial footing than the movie industry.

Many egos have been deflated in the last few years as movie stars of the past—and present—saw unimpresive video ratings result from their home screen projects.

Now, having sneered at television for a long time, some motion picture headliners wish they could cash in on its potentialy great economic rewards.

But there are indications that the networks have definitely wised up to the realities regarding movie star appeal in home screen shows.

And those ridiculous prices that have been paid to some film names who have turned to video are surely a thing of the past in most cases.

Television has learned that, in general, its biggest stars are the ones it has built up itself.

Disneyland plans New Year's Eve party

ANAHEIM — Highlighted by the musical offerings of The Spinners, Bob Crosby and Flash Cadillac and the Continental Kids, Disneyland will usher in 1974 with a New Year's Eve party from 8:30 p.m. to 2:30 a.m.

Guests will enjoy unlimited use of all park attractions, except shooting galleries, and, at 11:30 p.m., a special midnight countdown at the forecourt of Sleeping Beauty Castle hosted by the comedy duo of Skiles and Henderson.

The Spinners who have scored a number of hits including "One of a Kind" and "Could It Be I'm Falling in Love" will perform on the Tomorrowland Stage at 9 p.m 10:30 p.m. and 12:30 a.m.

Sharing the stage spotlight will be the early rock and roll sounds of Flash Cadillac and the Continental Kids.

Bob Crosby and his Big Dance Band, featuring the Bobcats, will play for both listening and dancing pleasure at Main Street's Plaza Gardens from 9 p.m. to 2 a.m.

The park's "Fantasy in the Sky" fireworks will announce the new year at midnight. Complimentary hats and horns will also be provided for all park guests.

Special New Year's Eve party tickets are now on sale for $9 each at Wallichs Music City, Ticketron and Liberty ticket agencies and Desmond department stores.

Other advance sale outlets include all Southern California branches of Bank of America, with BankAmericards, Buffums, the Immetta Ticket Agency at the Disneyland Hotel and the Disneyland box office.

If still available after 6 p.m. on Monday, tickets for the event may be purchased for $10 at the Disneyland box office only.

COMEDY DUO — The comedy team of Skiles and Henderson will provide humor during the New Year's Eve celebration at Disneyland from 8:30 p.m. to 2:30 a.m. New Year's Day.

'Snow White' tops French Yule shows

It was the second consecutive Christmas a Disney film took first place. In 1972, it was "101 Dalmatians."

"Snow White" drew 46,993 spectators Christmas Eve and Christmas Day in greater Paris. "Live and Let Die," the latest adventure of Ian Fleming's secret agent 007, brought in 32.877 for the two days.

Football player finds TV commercial appetizing fare

By VERNON SCOTT

He was making a television commercial for a soft drink firm.

The studio was dingy, small and uncrowded. A dozen people were involved in the 30-second spot. But Alex, all 240 pounds of him, was the focal point.

The script called for him to be interrupted in the middle of a bite of cake by an actor who says, "I thought you were going on a diet."

Alex was supposed to reply, "I am. Can't you see I'm drinking sugarfree Faygo Frosh." Or words to that effect. Karras has been huckstering the beverage for several years in the five state area where it is sold.

On the first take Alex said, "Sugarless Froshted Frost."

"Stop the tape," cried the director.

On the second take Alex said, "Sugafrost Lessless Free."

"Stop the tape," cried the director.

On the third take Alex said, "Frostless Sugar Fresh."

"Stop the tape," cried the director.

And so it went for more than 20 takes. Each time the tape was stopped Alex was supplied with another huge wedge of rich, gooey chocolate cake.

"Damn, this is good cake," he said, early in the going. He savored every crumb. It wasn't necessary for him to act as though it appealed to him. He didn't however, dispatch the Faygo Frosh with the same gusto.

About the 11th take Alex's enthusiasm for the cake began to diminish. He had already eaten one entire cake. There were others in reserve.

The candle on the table, which hadn't been snuffed between takes was about half its original length. No one seemed to notice.

Karras groaned and pushed the cake aside after take 13.

"I'm going to get my acne back," he complained. The crew laughed. The director persisted, "All right. Let's try it again."

The former pro football star never lost his cool. No matter how many times he said "Sugarfoot Froshless Frapes," he would grin and try again.

When the little company took a breather while the tape machine was reloaded, Alex lumbered out of the lights. "We have a lot of fun with these commercials," he said. "There's no sweat. It takes just the right attitude and sooner or later we get it right."

Karras still is a resident of his beloved Detroit. He comes to Hollywood for show business gigs, travels around the country giving speeches.

He recently completed a dramatic role in the movie, "The Tapioca Tree," playing a southern sheriff. He was so convincing that the mayor of the rural community of Beebe, Ark., where the picture was filmed, made him honorary sheriff.

"It was easy for me to do my lines with a southern accent," Karras said. "I played pro ball for 13 years, and there are more southern guys in the game than there are northerners."

Karras is the hero of author George Plimpton's new book, "Mad Ducks and Bears." A chapter of that tome involving Alex with a Pony League football team will be made into a television movie, starring Karras.

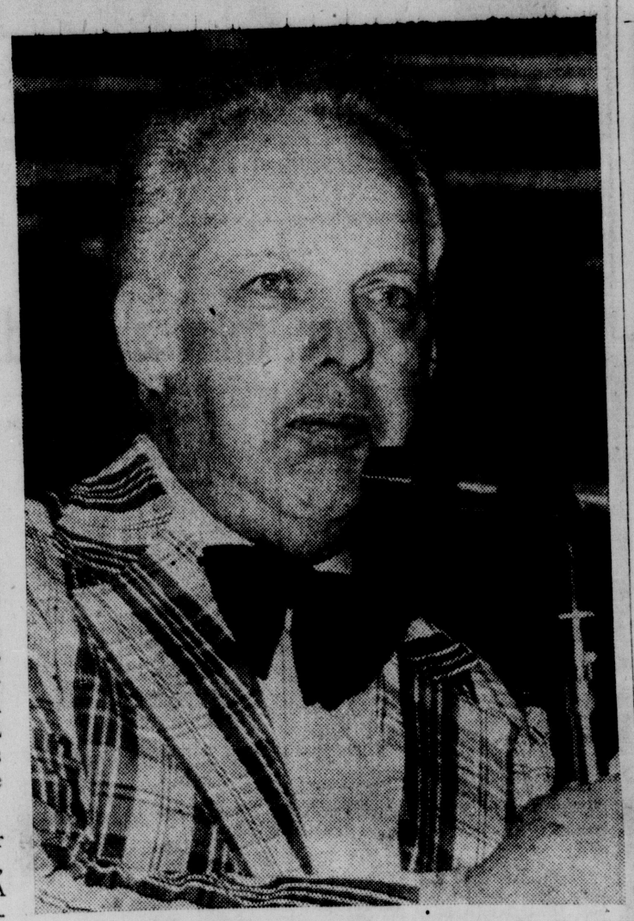
"I like acting," the giant said. "I think I have a future in show business. There aren't that many good actors who weigh 240 pounds. So I don't have to compete with the other guys who weigh 170 pounds."

The director called Alex back to the table, cake and Faygo. Karras promptly blew his lines again and grinned like a small boy.

"Please don't try to be an actor," the director said. "I like you better the way you are."



BAND MAESTRO — Bob Crosby and his Big Band, featuring the Bobcats, will play at Disneyland's Main Street Plaza Gardens from 9 p.m. to 2 a.m. for the New Year's Eve party.

Expanded coverage

The Eiffel Tower, made of bolted iron girders and standing 984 feet high, grows seven inches on a sunny day.

Shaft star subject of TV Week article

In the story, Roundtree tells of the progression of his career from football to modeling to acting and Shaft. He also discusses his feelings about his success, his role as Shaft and his long-term dream.

Shaft airs on a rotating basis as part of the CBS Tuesday Mystery Movie at 9:30 p.m.

Sports and a parade highlight the inside color page. The 33rd annual Bing Crosby National Pro-Amateur Golf Tournament from Pebble Beach will kick off the 1974 PGA Golf Tour. The tournament will be aired Saturday and Sunday afternoons on ABC.

Peter Marshall and Robert Morse co-host coverage of the 40th annual King Orange Jamboree Parade from Miami, Fla., Monday at 8 p.m. This year's theme is "That Broadway Magic."

NBA Basketball action resumes Sunday on CBS, when the network begins its regular Sunday afternoon broadcasts of the National Basketball Association games.

Bridge

Give the con man a hand

By Oswald & James Jacoby

This hand does not really belong in 1973. It made its first appearance at least 40 years ago. Undoubtedly it was concocted by some bridge player who sold gold bricks in his spare time.

South's three notrump contract is very normal.

West opens the six of spades and East puts up his queen. If South covers with the king, East will gain the lead with his ace of diamonds and lead a spade to his partner. The result will be down one.

It doesn't take much skill to see that South can do better if he lets the queen of spades hold that first trick. After this play there will be no way for West to cash his four spades. Eventually, South will score one spade; two hearts; three diamonds; three clubs and game and rubber.

At least that is what he would do in any normal bridge game. However, the gold-brick salesman who produced it would now bet that he could defeat the contract. After studying the heart suit carefully the victim would bet whereupon the defense would start with three rounds of spades. On the third lead East would discard his ace of diamonds.

Now South would have to let West in after taking only two diamond tricks and the last two spades would set the contract.

Thief takes pup, claims he's no pro

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (UPI) — "I am not a professional thief," said the note mailed to John and Anita Hutto at their Rancho California home after the disappearance of a puppy.

The letter arrived several days after someone stole one of the six puppies recently born to their basset hound, the Huttos said.

"I was looking for something to sell so my two little boys could have Christmas presents," the burglar said. But he saw the puppies and took one for his children, he said, assuring the Huttos the dog "will have a big yard and two little children to play with."

"You know, you really should keep your doors locked, because the next person may not give a damn and he'll clean you out," the burglar warned.

Gardener's Checklist

1. Many camellias are now in bloom. This is the time to pick them up. Those carried by your local nurseryman will be in top shape and ready to plant now.
2. Have you forgotten to get a gift for some friend? A living plant in full bloom, or an indoor foliage plant in a decorative container, makes an ideal "last minute" gift—one that can be enjoyed all through the year.
3. Here is a list of blooming plants to be found in most nurseries: fragrant daphne, rosy-red hearther, azaleas, cyclamen and camellias.
4. Many dormant trees—especially fruit trees—should be pruned now. Don't prune spring-flowering shrubs and trees until after their bloom, however.
5. Snails and slugs love the cool weather. Scatter snail bait to keep their population from building up.

Book has hints

Get back to earth without soil

High food prices are coaxing many cost-conscious consumers "back to the soil" with a strong motivation to "grow your own." But how about growing your own fruits and vegetables with no soil at all — and serve the interests of economy and ecology at the same time?

Raymond Bridwell's new book, "Hydroponic Gardening" (Woodbridge Press, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90213, $6.95) is a rare, popular treatment of the art of year-round, soilless food production for the home gardener.

A lecturer at Loma Linda University, near San Bernardino, Bridwell presents a richly-illustrated survey of labor-saving hydroponic techniques that will, he says, produce food of exceptional quality and quantity with only 15 to 20 minutes of work a day.

That alone could revive the horticultural interest of a lot of weary, former gardeners.

The author maintains that with balanced nutrient solutions, hydroponically-grown fruits and vegetables can be superior in appearance, flavor, and nutritive value — plus being relatively disease-free and with better-than-average keeping qualities.

He also believes strongly in devoting space in a hydroponic garden to flowers and other ornamental plants; some for beauty, some for their surprising insecticidal properties.

Stated simply, Bridwell explains how to grow food plants in trays filled with clean gravel and irrigated at regular intervals with a water solution containing both basic and trace elements, all of which may be obtained at many local garden shops.

The author gives simple but highly valuable formulas for preparing the nutrient solutions. Plant irrigation can be performed manually, or automatically with a simple recirculating pump. The trays may be indoors near a large window or in a backyard greenhouse — simple or elaborate, as one's interest and purse suggest.

Bridwell provides a brief outline of basic plant nutrition as a foundation for the home hydroponic gardener, then gives more detailed information on nutrient solutions, various growing media (gravel is not the only possibility), greenhouse design, planting patterns, starting seeds and plants, and the prevention of plant disease and insect invasions.

One secret of Bridwell's own success in both commercial and home hydroponic gardening is his careful attention to simple housekeeping. He will not bring grossly unsterile materials into his greenhouse. Even visitors are asked to shuffle their shoes on a small platform sprinkled with a powder disinfectant to intercept any stray organismsm that could injure plants.

One of the author's important contributions are the systems and techniques he suggests for making any kind of greenhouse growing more free of disease and insect problems.

Bridwell emphasizes that ordinary good housekeeping, plus good nutrition, and attention to environmental factors will make for truly successful soil-less gardening — a high quality product, a minimum of work.

A bonus is the fact that the continued re-use and aeration of the nutrient solution serves ecological interests in conserving both water and minerals.

Bridwell's book has an easy-to-read, conversational style, deriving from his popular lectures on which the book is based. It is virtually unique in its field, offering practical help to the home gardener in exploring the new world of modern hydroponics. It may be obtained at many libraries and at bookstores and garden shops or from the publisher, Woodbridge Press, Box 2053, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90213, at $6.95, cloth, 224 pages.

African Violet Society plans Monday meeting

The Pomona Valley African Violet Society will meet Monday, at 1 p.m. at the United Methodist Church, 3205 D St., La Verne.

Mrs. Talbot Frie, president, invites all who are interested in violets to join in the festivities and stay for refreshments following the meeting. All are asked to bring a homemade Christmas Card and a small gift for the annual gift exchange.

Blooming plants, supplies and accessories will be for sale at the meeting.

By WILLIAM L. MEACHEM
Former editor of
Home, Garden Magazine

In a few weeks I will be making my morning and nightly visits to the basement. That's where I have my flourescent light "garden" and a window that gets good sunlight where I start my seedlings for the outdoor garden.

Some of my gardening friends—and nameless members of my family—think this is too much work. Why bother, they claim, you can buy all the started plants you need in the spring.

But when summer comes they can see the difference. It is surprising how a few odd or unusual plants can catch the eye, especially some of the new hybrid annuals and vegetables which you can't buy as started plants in the local nursery.

I think my efforts are well worth while, and starting seeds early isn't that difficult. In fact, this can be one of the most fascinating parts of gardening. And it can be profitable since flower and vegetable plants in my neighborhood cost as much as a dollar a dozen.

There are a lot of seed-starting kits in stores, but you can start seeds in containers you may already have around the house. I have used discarded plastic cottage cheese containers—after holes have been poked in the bottom for drainage. You don't need fancy soil, either. Packaged potting soil mixed half and half with peatmoss is excellent. Then all you need is a window with good light.

Most important when starting seeds indoors is the timing. Some seeds take a long time to germinate; others take a long time to grow large enough to be planted outside. These slow plants should be started two months ahead of outdoor planting time. These would include "annual" geraniums, petunias, begonias and asters, and, among the vegetables, tomatoes and peppers.

"Quickies" like marigolds and zinnias need only a few weeks before the seedlings are large enough to plant out. Start these three to four weeks before planting-out time. Start them too early and they will become stringy and weak because of poor light.

If you use some leftover potting soil you found around the garage, spray the surface with an insecticide before seeding to deter any soil insects that may be around.

Sprinkle seeds on soil surface. Push large seeds like tomato and pepper into the soil. Water with a fine spray or light sprinkle and cover pot with a pane of glass or sheet of plastic. Leave cover on until seeds sprout and then remove. Give seedlings ample light when they are up and don't let the soil dry out.

With a little tender loving care you will have good plants to set outside when the weather becomes warm.

Q. When is the best time to feed house plants?

In late winter, when growth starts more vigorously. Feed every two weeks throughout spring and summer. Ease off when growth slows in the fall.

String mural is a thrifty project

By STEVE ELLINGSON

No knitting! No crocheting! No stitchery! Anyone can do this cute owl mural . . . and the cost of the materials is so low it fits any budget. It's the latest in a series of string mural patterns that have proven so popular with our readers. Just use common everyday bits and pieces of yarn or string, nails, some fabric and plywood to create an artistic conversation piece for any room in your house or apartment. A real decorator item. Great for gifts too.

Even if you don't give a hoot for owls you'll love this eye-catching bird. We call him Mr. Whoozit for obvious reasons, and he's sure to make the "hoo's who" list of this nation's best-dressed birds (we chose a mohair suit for him). Now we won't string you along by saying your first effort at string murals will look as good as this . . .it will probably look better. Mr. Whoozit's looks and personality are limited only by your ingenuity. And remember, he'll look as good in your living room or den as in the children's room.

So give this cute little fellow a home. To obtain the easy-to-follow Mr. Whoozit pattern number 496, send $1 (add 25c extra per pattern for airmail delivery) by currency, check or money order to: Steve Ellingson, Pomona Progress-Bulletin Pattern Dept., P.O. Box 2383, Van Nuys, Ca. 91409.

One of the joys of living in California is that spring comes early to the garden and even sooner for those who start planting now.

Local nurseries will have available a wide variety of bedding plants this month and next—to enhance camellias you may have had blooming all winter and the flowering quince that will surprise your neighbors soon.

The brighestst calling card ever—may be a Valentine bouquet—is a bed or pansies, calendulas, Iceland poppies, sweet alyssum, violas, fairy primroses, snapdragon and stocks. The last two probably will bloom latest.

For planting this time of year, provide well drained soil. A slightly raised bed is recommended. Each time of planting renew the soil by adding organic soil conditioners.

Winter-planted annuals—and all annuals for that matter — are happiest in full sun. Don't let the fact that they perform in cool weather fool you. Sun is more important in winter than in summer.

In some areas, winter rains are heavy enough to carry the plants after they've been well watered in planting. However, in the valleys, extended dry spells are common and frequent watering will be important.

PSA allowed fare increase

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The State Public Utilities Commission has authorized Pacific Southwest Airlines to increase fares by 1.42 per cent to offset recent increases in the cost of aviation fuel.

The PUC said Tuesday even though PSA got a fare increase Aug. 21, it "has experienced unprecedented increases in the cost of aviation fuel."

PSA said it expects to lose $22 million next year because of the fuel shortage.

Oil enshrined

OIL SPRINGS, Ontario (UPI) — The Oil Museum of Canada is located at Oil Springs, where the first commercial oil well in America went into production in 1858. The museum is open May 15 to Oct. 15.

Make use of 'no hassle' wintertime

Winter means less hassle and better value for the novice gardener. This is the time to plant in the dormant state the shrubs, flowers and trees that will provide color and fragrance for much of the year.

This is because many old favorites are easily planted while dormant, as they can be safely planted bareroot. But even more exciting, they usually are less expensive in bareroot or balled and wrapped in burlap.

Recommended for dormant plant are roses, flowering quince, weigela, golden bells, forsythia and a variety of deciduous magnolia trees. Among the vines, wisteria should go in now.

Aside from shrubs, deciduous flowering trees, like plum, crabapple, and flowering peaches can be planted dormant, as well as shade trees like maples, locust and mulberry, to name a few.

In home orchards, nearly all fruit trees are best planted as young bareroot trees: peaches apples, nectarines, apricots, plums, pears, cherries, almonds, walnuts.

To plant bareroot shrubs and trees, spread the roots over a cone of soil in the planting hole and gradually fill in with loose topsoil. Pack firmly with your foot when the hole is filled. Prune if necessary, under instructions from your nurseryman.

Rose Hills sets pruning program

What is the best method to prune rose bushes to get maximum bloom throughout the year? What sprays should be used to keep bushes healthy and productive? How often should roses be fed?

The answers to these and other questions often asked by home gardeners about proper care of roses will be discussed at the 13th free rose care demonstrations, an event held annually in the Pageant of Roses Garden at Rose Hills Memorial Park.

The dates for this year's demonstrations have been set for two successive weekends, Saturday and Sunday, January 5 and 6 and the following weekend, Saturday and Sunday, January 12 and 13. A single session will be held on each of the four days, beginning at 1:30 p.m.

R. L. McNitt, Jr., president of Rose Hills Memorial Park, has issued an invitation for all home gardeners to attend the sessions.

James Kirk, rosarian at Rose Hills and past district governor of the American Rose Society's Southwest District, will again use a special mechanical board to show proper rose pruning methods. He and his staff willl share their successful growing secrets and will be happy to answer questions on care of roses at the conclusion of each session.

A special added feature of the January 5 and 6 sessions will be the appearance of Mary Armstrong, pruning specialist from the Corona Clipper Company, who will demonstrate proper use of equipment in pruning bushes.

At the conclusion of each session, there will also be drawings held for free rose bushes and pruning equipment.

McNitt said there is ample free parking for the garden, which is located immediately inside the main entrance of Rose Hills, 3900 S. Workman Mill Road, Whittier.

Chino pulls upset in soccer tourney

By TOM FAHEY
P-B Correspondent

LA VERNE — After the first two rounds of the Damien Invitational High School Soccer Tournament, only Chino remains in position for a chance at the championship.

The Cowboys won both of their games by way of the peanlty-kick rule that is implemented during tournament play. After regulation time, if there is a tie, both teams take five penalty shots.

Chino, after nipping Alemany in the morning 4-3, pulled an upset by handing the Damien Spartans their first loss of the season 3-2.

Chino's victory was due largely to the outstanding play by goalie Salvador Aguilera who came up with some spectacular saves.

Whereas Chino won both their games with the penalty-kicks, Ganesha lost both of theirs at it. They fell to Pasadena 2-1 in the opening round and wound up on the short end again to Pomona by the same score.

In other opening day action by the local teams, Pomona was defeated by Nogales 4-0. Montclair fell victim to the Damien J.V.'s 2-1 by penalty kicks, and then were defeated by Corona 3-0.

Fans not 'peachy' on bowl contest

By United Press International

The people in Georgia are showing good sense this year. They're staying away from the Peach Bowl "classic" in droves, and maybe there's a message there somewhere.

Even with the homestate Georgia Bulldogs in the game, Peach Bowl officials have some 20,000 or so unsold tickets for tonight's game against Maryland at Atlanta Stadium.

In the past five years, the Peach Bowl has regularly been played before crowds of about 50,000, even in cold, rainy weather and usually without the local "attraction" it has this year.

Maybe the stay-aways are just the fans' way of telling the Peach Bowl they have had enough of the hypocrisy of bowl games so meaningless they're simply an extra game on many team's schedules and nothing more.

Already this year we have seen the Liberty Bowl, matching two teams with six losses, and the Fiesta and the Tangerine, each of which presented a team with four losses going down to another one-sided defeat.

After tonight's epic between three-times beaten Maryland (ranked No. 18) and four-time loser Georgia, which earned its bid by stomping six-time loser Georgia Tech 10-3 in the final game, television watchers can see a bowl tripleheader of also rans Saturday.

It begins with four-time loser Missouri against five-time loser Auburn in the Sun Bowl at El Paso, Tex. Those two teams celebrated their bowl selection by losing their last five games between them.

Then it's No. 13 Houston against No. 15 Tulane, coached by coach-of-the-year Bennie Ellender, in the Bluebonnet Bowl at the Astrodome, which is where Houston plays its home games.

And another of the half dozen or so East-North-West-South classics is also on tap Saturday, the East-West Shrine Game at San Francisco. That's not to be confused with the East-West Hula Bowl, which isn't until Jan. 6, or the North-South Shrine Game, which was played Christmas night.

When will it all end?

Well it won't end until Jan. 12, with the Senior Bowl at Mobile, Ala., but as far as football purists are concerned the seemingly endless parade of post-season games really begins and ends in one 27-hour period Monday night and Tuesday.

The real football starts with the match of national champion Alabama and No. 4 Notre Dame at the Sugar Bowl in New Orleans on New Year's Eve. That is, truly, the year's big one, but on New Year's Day it will be, in order, Texas-Nebraska at the Cotton Bowl, Ohio State-Southern Cal at the Rose and Penn State-LSU in the Orange.

Harley Stark makes CIF 4-A squad

Harley Stark, Chaffey High's tight end who made the All-Pomona Valley team for the past two football seasons, was named to the second team of the All-CIF 4-A selections.

Stark was the only valley player to make it onto the 4-A teams this year, which were chosen by the Citizens Savings Athletic Foundation's All-Southern California Board of Football.

Stark (6-foot-5, 210 pounds) caught 36 passes this year for 556 yards, averaging 15.4 yards per catch.

Dennis Sproul, the 6-foot-3, 195-pound quarterback who directed the Los Altos Conquerors to the CIF 4-A grid championship this year, was selected the 4-A Player of the Year.

Los Altos became the first high school in CIF history to win back-to-back titles in 3-A and 4-A division play.

Champion Los Altos placed six performers on the offensive and defensive units—five on offense and one on defense. Runner-up Crespi had four players honored, two on offense and two on defense.

Santa Anita heads into second day

ARCADIA, Calif. (UPI) — Cutlass and Crown the Prince, two offsprng of former horse of the year Damascus, go to post today at the head of the split divisions of the $37,500-added La Habra Stakes at Santa Anita Park.

Other entries in the opening division are Village Common, Driftin' Along, Chios, Tumble Lane, Dawn Flight, Viva La Vivi and Against the Snow.

Crown the Prince, with two victories at Santa Anita last season, goes in the second half against Mariache II, Free Space, Security Aim, Old Memories, Stick Boy, Spin Lightning, River of Fire and Anonimo II.

Santa Anita's winter thoroughbred meeting was opened Thursday with Woodland Pines' length victory over Tragic Isle in the $34,300 Palos Verdes Handicap.

Woodland Pines, with veteran Don Pierce at the reins, paid $26.60, $10.20 and $5. Tragic Isle returned $13.20 and $6.20 and Ancient Title earned $2.60.

UPI writer heads group

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Jim Cour of United Press International, Los Angeles, has been elected president of the Southern California Football Writers, it was announced Thursday.

He succeeds Rich Roberts of the Long Beach Independent Press-Telegram.

Frazier suffers acute tendonitis

Frazier, who scored 20 points and played 45 minutes in the Knicks' victory over the Detroit Pistons Saturday night, will wear a small splint on his wrist and will not practice with the team on Monday.

The Knicks said there was a "50-50 chance" Frazier would be able to play against the Capital Bullets on Tuesday.

4 Room Guest House

Happiness is a parade

PASADENA — "Happiness Is . . . ", the theme for the 1974 Tournament of Roses Parade, will be depicted in 60 floral floats and carried out in music by 21 bands.

Also fetured in the parade which will be seen by 1.5 million in person and another 110 million on television, will be 250 equestrians.

Charles M. Schultz, creator of the famed "Peanuts" comic strip, will be the Grand Marshal of the New Year's Day festivities. And the honor is quite fitting, for it was Schulz's book, "Happiness Is a Warm Puppy," which inspired the 1974 Tournament of Roses theme.

The parade will begin at 8:30 a.m. at Maylin Street and South Orange Grove Boulevard and will proceed north to Green Street on Orange Grove Boulevard and reach Colorado Boulevard and Orange Grove at 8:38 a.m. Traveling east on Colorado Boulevard the parade will reach Sierra Madre Boulevard at 10:05 a.m. and then turn north traveling up Sierra Madre to Villa Street reaching the post parade area at Victory Park at 10:36 a.m.

With a route approximately five miles long, the parade takes about two hours to pass any given point.

Reigning over the parade and the Rose Bowl Game will be the 1974 Tournament of Roses Queen Miranda Barone and her court of six princesses. Princesses are Joyce Alaine Hawkins, Janet Marie Smith, Sue Cary, Ceci Gulledge, Melinda Kirkpatrick and Kim Louise Latham.

The Rose Court is made up of four coeds from Pasadena City College and three seniors from high schools in the Pasadena area.

Queen Miranda is the youngest monarch in recent tournament history, turning 17 only three days after the age deadline set by the Tournament officials for the Rose Queen.

Italian-born, the queen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sebastian Barone of Pasadena and is a senior at Alverno High School in Sierra Madre. Miranda hopes to pursue a course of medical studies and hopes to be a pharmacist. She is a talented pianist and gives lessons to young relatives and friends.

Miranda has brown hair, hazel eyes, stands five feet and six inches and weighs 124.

In the past two months Miss Barone and her court made 80 public appearances as representatives of the Tournament of Roses.

Princess Joyce, 19, is a freshman at Pasadena City College and is planning a career in education. A native of Detroit, Joyce is one of 11 children born in the Hawkins family and is very outgoing. She has hazel eyes and chestnut-colored hair.

A senior at Pasadena High School, Princess Janet is the most petite member of the 1974 court standing five feet and three inches. The brown-haired, hazel-eyed native of Pasadena is 17 and enjoys outdoor sports such as surfing, horseback riding and tennis. Her career goal is to be a physical therapist.

Miss Cary, 18, is a sophomore at Pasadena City College and plans to make a career of her interest in art as a teacher. Born in Savannah, Ga., she now is a resident of San Marino. The princess has brown hair and blue eyes.

Princess Ceci hopes to use her ballet training and her fondness for dancing as the basis of a career. She was born in Riverside and is now a senior at La Canada High School. Ceci has dark blonde hair and blue-green eyes and is 17.

Melinda Kirkpatrick is 17 and is a senior at Pasadena City College. The only girl of four children in her family, the princess is blonde and has green eyes. She is studying for a career as a medical assistant.

Princess Kim, 19, was born in Hollywood and is now residing in San Marino. She is a sophomore at Pasadena City College and is planning a career as an interior designer. Kim has brown hair and brown eyes.

Following the parade all floats will be on display at Victory Park in the post parade area, Paloma Street and Sierra Madre Boulevard, from 1:30 to 5 p.m. on Wednesday floats may be viewed from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The 85th annual Tournament of Roses, what to look for and how to get there are the subject of a fact-filled "complimentary souvenir booklet" issued by the Automobile Club of Southern California.

The Auto Club publication — illustrated with four updated maps of the 5½ mile line-of-march, the Rose Bowl stadium, and routes to Pasadena — shows a sharp reduction in parade-viewing sites and parking spaces on the western side of the city since the last parade, due to freeway construction in the area. As a result, the Auto Club advises that the best viewing areas will be found east of Fair Oaks Avenue.

The 1974 parade is scheduled to roll promptly at 8:30 on Tuesday morning, January 1, starting from the corner of Maylin and South Orange Grove Blvds. The 60 floats, 21 bands and 36 equestrian units will move north on Orange Grove, turning east onto Colorado Blvd. beginning at 8:38, if all goes according to plan.

At 10:05 the first units of the parade are scheduled to turn north on Sierra Madre Blvd., arriving at the Victory Park post-parade area by 10:36. The floats will be on display in Victory Park from 1:00 to 5 p.m. on Tuesday and from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Wednesday according to the Auto Club.

Kickoff time for the Rose Bowl Game — the 59th in this continuous series of football classics — is 2 p.m. The coming game marks USC's 19th appearance in the Rose Bowl and Ohio State's 8th. The two schools have clashed there three times before (in 1955, 1969 and 1973).

Theme for the 85th annual Rose Parade is "Happiness Is . . .". Creator of the "Peanuts" comic strip, Charles Schulz, will serve as the Tournament's grand marshal. Shulz will travel the parade route in a rose-draped convertible, the 7th unit in the lineup.

Among the 20 cities entering floats in the 85th Rose Parade are five located outside California, including the Canadian city of Calgary. In addition, the Canadian province of Nova Scotia, Mexico, the U.S. territory of the Virgin Islands, and the state of Georgia will each sponsor a float.

Of the scores of beauties riding atop the floats, none will receive more attention than Miranda Barone, the youngest monarch in recent Tournament history. The Rose Queen, a 17-year-old senior from Alverno High School in Sierra Madre, and her six princesses will be seen on their float early in the parade, and later will appear at the Rose Bowl Game, culminating some 80 public appearances during November and December.

"Peanuts" creator is Grand Marshal

"Happiness Is . . . ," the theme for the 1974 Tournament of Roses, comes from the title of a book by the parade's Grand Marshal, Charles M. Schulz, "Happiness Is a Warm Puppy."

Cartoonist Shulz is the creator of the famous "Peanuts" comic strip with its well-known characters Charlie Brown, Snoopy, Lucy, Linus and Schroeder.

The 50-year-old native of St. Paul and current resident of Santa Rosa, has been called "the most successful coming strip artist of all time." The record of his cartooning accomplishments bears out that claim.

In the 25 years since the "Peanuts" characters made their debut, Schulz has amassed a total daily readership of more than 100 million. His strip is translated into 19 different languages and is carried by some 1,340 newspapers worldwide.

The Peanuts characters have appeared on more national magazine covers than any other comic strip personalities. And, in a single year, 15 of the top 58 paperback books sold were "Charlie Brown" editions by Schulz.

Moreover, Peanuts has won Schulz an Emmy for the TV special, "A Charlie Brown Christmas," has served as the inspiration for a hit Broadway musical, "You're a Good Man Charlie Brown,"

The comic strip achieved its greatest fame in 1968 when the Apollo 10 astronauts chose Snoopy and Charlie Brown as their mascots.

Reportedly, Charles Schulz was reluctant to accept the honor of leading the Rose Parade, believing that his characters "are inherently more interesting" than the man who creates them.

1890 was start

The New Year's Day spectacle which was begun in 1890 by the socially elite members of the Pasadena Valley Hunt Club has evolved to the Tournament of Roses, an event viewed by more than 125 million people around the world each January 1.

In addition to the 125 million viewers television audience, nearly one and one-half million spectators watch the parade from Pasadena's sidewalks.

The first football game was held in 1902. A mighty Michigan team swamped Stanford, 49-0. No western team could be found to play the fearsome easterners, so football was abandoned until 1916. During the intervening years, Pasadena businessmen became toga-clad charioteers as chariot races held sway each January 1st.

Highlights of games from 1916 on, include Cal center Roy Riegels' run in 1929, when he gave away a Rose Bowl victory by running toward his own goal line!

In 1920, Harvard's only Rose Bowl appearance was a 7-6 victory over Oregon, and the idea of a great football stadium was born in the minds of Tournament officers. On January 1, 1923 the Rose Bowl was ready, built at a cost of only $272,198!

On the job during tournments are the Men in White, Pasadena-area volunteers who stage the parade and football game. This year, for example, they will put in more than 50,000 man hours of time to present Pasadena's New Year's present to the world.

Famous people have been associated with the Tournament down through the years. Grand Marshals have included Shirley Temple, Herbert Hoover, Apollo 12 Astronauts, Dwight D. Eisenhower, Walt Disney, Richard Nixon (twice), Bob Hope (Twice), John Wayne and dozens more. This year's Grand Marshal is cartoonist Charles Schultz, and the 1974 Rose Queen is Miranda Barone.

Residents offered bus service

Pomona Valley residents traveling to Pasadena New Year's morning for the Rose Parade will be able to take Southern California Rapid Transit District buses direct to the parade area.

Special early-morning service will be provided at frequent intervals on Lines 60 and 402 departing from the Pomona Station at 156 W. Commercial Street between 6:10 a.m. and 6:55 a.m. Line 402 Freeway Flyers will depart La Verne at 6:40 a.m. from Bonita Avenue and D Streets. Buses will serve San Dimas from Bonita Avenue and San Dimas Avenue at 6:43 a.m.

Passengers are reminded to have their exact fare or use monthly passes, tickets or tokens, as operators no longer carry money and provide change.

The buses will return along the same route following the parade.

Troy puts Rose Bowl on regular schedule

By BILL LANGLEY
P-B Sports Editor

Playing in the Rose Bowl is getting to be old hat for coach John McKay and his USC Trojans.

It's almost as if the Jan. 1 date in Pasadena can be put on Troy's annual schedule.

But McKay doesn't mind. Playing in the Rose Bowl is the chief target each season.

USC doesn't have any national championship to shoot for this year but the men of Troy have enjoyed a successful 9-1-1 season, losing to undefeated Notre Dame and playing another unbeaten power, Oklahoma, to a 7-7 deadlock.

For awhile, most West Coast football experts didn't expect to see USC back in the Rose Bowl this January. Cross-town rival UCLA, with its explosive Wishbone offense, was the favorite when the two L.A. rivals met at the Coliseum in the showdown battle for the Pacific-8 Conference championship.

As all football fans know, the Trojans won, 23-13, to give McKay his seventh Rose Bowl appearance—a record—and sixth in eight years.

Like most McKay teams, the current Trojan squad claims several All-Americans plus exceptional balance. Ohio State's highly-touted defense will face a severe test in stopping McKay's I Formation attack.

Of course, Ohio State's Woody Hayes saw enough of the Trojans last year in a 42-17 loss to McKay's club.

Junior quarterback Pat Haden, the former Bishop Amat star, has developed into one of the top QBs in Trojan history. He has completed 116 of 208 passes—56 per cent—for 1,603 yards and 13 touchdowns.

"Haden is one of the finest passers I've ever been around," McKay has said of his QB. "I've never seen a passer with more accuracy than Haden."

The Trojans also got the runners to go with Haden's passing.

Junior Anthony Davis is USC's top threat with 1,038 rushing yards and 13 TDs on 262 carries. Proving USC's depth is back-up tailbacks-Rod McNeill (717 yards on 134 carries) and Bonita High product Allen Carter (294 yards on 43 carries).

All-America flanker Lynn Swann is USC's most versatile star. Besides catching 37 passes for 667 yards and six TDs, Swann was also among the nation's leaders in punt returns.

Haden's other chief targets are wide receiver John McKay Jr., his Bishop Amat buddy, and tight end Jim Obradovich, who made the clutch catches from Haden in the final seconds to help beat Stanford in a game the Trojans had to win to get into the Rose Bowl.

Locals eager to test Bucks

LOS ANGELES — Aside from being teammates at USC after having played for Pomona Valley high schools, Dean Lingenfelter and Joe Davis have three other things in common.

(1) Neither got a lot of playing time for the Trojans this year. (2) But, they don't regret coming to a major university like USC, and (3) both are looking forward to Tuesday's rematch with Ohio State.

Lingenfelter, a 6-3, 225 pound tight end from Ganesha High in Pomona, caught just one pass this year. But it resulted in a 30-yard touchdown play.

Davis, a 6-3, 249 pound offensive guard from Claremont High, was the backup to Bill Bain at weakside guard.

"There's more to going to college than just playing football," said Lingenfelter. "I think it's been a good experience for me coming to a big school because I've learned a lot."

The former Ganesha star is a senior while Davis is only a sophomore. Davis is looking forward to playing more for a Trojan team he hopes will be even better next year.

"Playing at USC is really big time football and it required quite an adjustment," Davis admited. "But if I had it to do all over again, I wouldn't go anywhere else except here because I know if I can make it here I could have made it anywhere else," Davis explained. If I had gone to a smaller school and had made it there I'd always have in the back of my mind that I could have made it at a bigger school if only I'd gone to one. I didn't want any doubt at all in my mind. And I'm satisfied with my progress so far."

As for next year, Davis feels that USC's chances of going to the Rose Bowl are as good or better than this year.

"We have a lot of people coming back," he grinned.

"I'm a business major," he remarked. "I presume if I graduate I'll be looking for a job. I've made a halfway connection."

Well, then, what does he think he'll do?

"For the ball players that don't go into pro football, and I don't think I am, there are some jobs around Los Angeles in public relations," he replied.

Would he play pro ball if given the opportunity?

"If I got drafted or was offered a tryout, I'd make a decision then on pro ball, but I don't think the chances are too great," he said.

"Since we went last year and won and a had a good team, I'm just looking forward to it,"said Lingenfelter.

"We worked hard all year for this," replied Davis. "Going to the Rose Bowl is a kind of gift. It's not just another game."

Lingenfelter offered some thoughts about this year's 9-1-1 season which some felt was a letdown after 1972's 11-0 year.

"There were a lot of factors that contributed to what happened to the team this year," he said thoughtfully. "Personally, I just think we didn't have as much unity this year on the team as we had last year."

"Last year," he continued, "we had what I feel was really good unity with some of the seniors. It all started with Dave Brown and Mike Ryan and some of those fellows. They had a Christian fellowship going and they really got the team together. I think that was the main difference."

Did he mean the seniors this year didn't supply much leadership or that the seniors themselves just didn't get together?

"Well, it's hard to say," he replied. "A lot of seniors weren't playing so it's hard to get a lot of unity, going when the seniors aren't playing."

USC's Rose Bowl roster lists only 20 seniors among the 64 players. Of those only 12 could be considered regulars, and two, Chris Limahelu and Dave Boulware, are kickers.

Both Lingenfelter and Davis expressed similar thoughts about Tuesday's opponent, Ohio St. and the Buckeye defense.

"They should be tough," said Lingenfelter. "They have a good defense and they'll probably stop our run pretty well. But they have to con-

Woody sees less of press, enjoys it

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

PASADENA — Woody Hayes apparently is seeing less of the press this year and enjoying it more.

It isn't that Woody is discourteous. He has been gracious and accommodating when he has made himself available. But the times he has been available have been rare.

In fact, Ohio St. will probably go into Tuesday's Rose Bowl game having had less actual contact wiht the press than any team and head coach in any bowl anywhere.

The day the writer was scheduled to do this story is a case in point. Arriving in the press room at Pasadena's Huntington-Sheraton hotel, he found a notice saying "Coach Hayes has cancelled today's press conference."

Aside from the press conference at the airport the day the Buckeeyes arrived in California, Hayes met only once with the press the first week he was out here.

Woody has always come out here with the goal of winning. But this year he has a mission, perhaps even a crusade. Hayes is here because (1) he wants to show that Ohio St. truly deserved the vote by Big Ten Athletic Directors which sent it out here instead of Michigan; (2) he wants revenge for last year's 42-17 loss to USC; and (3) he wants to regain some of the conference's lost prestige.

That he is well equipped to achieve his desire there is no doubt.

Hayes had 45 lettermen returning this year from last year's sophomore-dominated unit that posted a 9-2 mark. He lost only five starters.

The thing that distinguishes this year's Ohio St. team from all others is the fact that Woody is running his tailback (Archie Griffin) more than his fullback.

Griffin, a sophomore who won the coveted big ten MVP trophy warded by the Chicago Tribune, carried the ball 225 times for 1,428 yards, an average of 6.3 per carry.

Not a big man, Archie is both speedy and powerful. "Ive never had a back that breaks more tackles," said Hayes. And that has to mean something when you think about the likes of John Brockington, Bob Ferguson and Bob White to name just a few. "Archie is our game breaker," echoed teammate Brian Baschnagel. "When we're in trouble, we should go to him."

The 5-9, 185 pound Griffin runs behind fullback Bruce Elia, a 6-0, 214 pound junior. Elia began the season as a reserve linebacker but was moved to fullback when "Champ" Henson was injured and required knee surgery Sept. 30.

Elia carried the ball 98 times for 402 yards but led the team in scoring touchdowns with 13 which shows Woody still likes to go his fullback when the Buckeyes get close to the goal line. Elia averaged 4.1 yards per carry.

Green did a great job as a runner carrying the ball 119 times for 675 yards and scoring 11 touchdowns. He averaged 5.6 yards per carry.

But his passing statistics were something less than sensational. Green completed only 14 of 38 attempts. His passes totaled 214 yards and two went for touchdowns while six were intercepted.

The other back is Brian Baschnagel, a 6-0, 190 pound sophomore. Used mainly as a blocker, Baschnagel netted 144 yards and two touchdowns on 24 carrieds.

The backfield works behind a line anchored by all-everything John Hicks, a 6-3, 252 pound senior tackle. The other tackle is 6-4, 248 pound Kurt Schumacher, a junior.

"I'm not sure we've ever had a better offensive line," rremarked Hayes. His center is 6-2, 244 pound junior Steve Myers. Of his tight end, Fred Pagac (pronounced Pug-itch), Hayes says, "Pagac is great."

On defense, the Buckeyes have All-American Randy Gradishar Vic Koegel in good health this year. Koegel was injured and didn't play at all last year while Gradishar played injured. "We had Randy hopping on one leg last year," said Hayes of his 6-3, 236 pound star.

One thing you can be sure of. The Buckeyes will be ready. Hayes, as usual, has worked his team harder than John McKay has worked USC.

"Ours is more of a running team than John's," explained Woody. "It takes more work to get ready." Unlike McKay, Hayes claims he is no innovator. "I just copy the other feltend with (Lynn) Swann, and I think our passing attack will be our best threat."

"Their defense has about the same personnel they had last year," agreed Davis. "They've matured quite a bit since last year so it'll be a tougher game offensively for us."

"We've looked at movies of them and they look pretty tough against the run," he continued. "I don't know how they're going to be against our passing because I don't really think anybody has thrown on them that much."

"I just hope the lord will be with us and help us play a good game," added Lingenfelter.

Amen.

kicker in Chris Limahelu. The former South Hills High and Citrus College star wasn't even on the Trojan roster at the beginning of the season but his 34-yard field goal to beat Stanford made him an instant hero.

USC is very strong on defense as evidenced by its ability to hold down Wishbone teams like Oklahoma and UCLA but it's a different challenge facing Ohio State's power attack.

The Buckeyes' main problems will be getting past USC's outstanding linebacking duo of Richard Wood and Charles Anthony. A two-year All-America, Wood leads the Trojans in tackles with 107 plus five deflected. Anthony was second in tackles with 105, only two behind.

Outside linebacker James Sims keeps the offense thinking. He was repsonsible for nine sacks for 55 yards in losses this season. Dale Mitchell, who had 41 tackles and two fumble recoveries, is the other starter on the outside.

Up font, the Trojans start middle guard Monte Doris plus tackles Gary Jeter and Art Riley. Doris enjoyed an outstanding game against UCLA with 18 tackles, 11 unassisted and a 13-yard sack. Jeter is a freshman from Cleveland in Buckeye territory.

USC's defensive backfield had some rough games this year. Both Washington State and Stanford were able to pass against the Trojans but it's not too likely Hayes will go that route.

Senior Artimus Parker holds the Pacific-8 record with 20 interceptions in his Trojan career. Rover Charles Phillips had a big day in last year's Rose Bowl with a 48-yard interception return.

Danny Reece and Marvin Cobb of Riverside are the other starters in the backfield.

Hoople's bowl game predictions

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE
Seer Without a Peer

Egad, friends, this year's bowl matchups are some of the finest in years with he superpowers Alabama and Notre Dame having at each other in the Sugar Bowl on New Year's Eve, and the bruising Ohio State Buckeyes meeting the high-stepping Southern California Trojans the next day in repeat engagement in the Rose Bowl. And those are only two of the eight great contests on tap over the holiday weekend — um — kumph! 'Tis indeed unfortunate the excellent Oklahom club tripped over some off-the-field regulations. They would have been a worthy participant in any bowl.

Let us, without further ado, proceed to analyze the games in their chronological order.

PEACH BOWL
Dec. 28, Atlanta, Ga.

Maryland 30, Georgia 10. The Terps stunned the collegiate football world by thrashing a fine Tulane team, 42-9, in their season finale. They'll show this was no fluke by turning back Vince Dooley's Georgia Bulldogs by a 20-point margin.

ASTRO-BLUEBONNET
Dec. 29, Houston, Tex.

Houston 28, Tulane 23. The Houston Cougars (10-1) and Tulane's Green Wave (9-2) appear to be very evenly matched with the Hoople nod going to the Cougars. This is one of Tulane's finest clubs in years but the rugged Cougar's defense, rated seventh in the nation, will turn the tide.

GATOR BOWL
Dec. 29, Jacksonville, Fla.

Texas Tech 24, Tennessee 21. The Hoople System — kaff-kaff — had a difficult time separating these two fine elevens. The Red Raiders won 10 while losing only one contest this fall while Tennessee, playing in the rugged Southeastern Conference was forced to settle for a 9-3 record. We look for Jim Carlen's Texas Tech lads to eke out a narrow victory. As a special treat keep your eyes on the Red Raiders' Larry Williams who has averaged better than 25 yards on kickoff returns.

SUNBOWL
Dec. 29, El Paso, Tex.

Missouri 33, Auburn 17. The Missouri Tigers, who won their first six contests and then dropped four of their last five, are expected to return to their early season form. Auburn has been a disappointment this year but showed it can put it all together by handing Houston its only 1973 defeat. Our indicators say this is Missouri's day.

SUGAR BOWL (N)
Dec. 31, New Orleans, La.

Notre Dame 31, Alabama 24. With the National Title on the line Notre Dame's Ara Parseghian and Alabama's Bear Bryant will — heh — heh — go for broke! Alabama (11-0-0) and Notre Dame (10-0-0) are almost evenly matched in the statistics department with 'Bama having the edge in offense averaging 480.7 yards per game to Notre Dame's 461.4. In defense it's the other way around with the Irish limiting all opponents to an average of 201.2 yards per game and the Crimson Tide allowing their foes 244.8. In rushing offense 'Bama rolled for 366.1 yards per contest to 350.2 for the Irish. The edge, as we see it comes in rushing defense where the big, mobile Irish forward wall has stymied running attacks all season while holding their opponents to an average of only 82.4 yards per outing. The Tide has given up 139.6 yards on the ground per game. Truly, to the victor in this colossal showdown should go the No. 1 rating — har — rumph!

COTTONBOWL
Jan. 1, Dallas, Tex.

Texas 33, Nebraska 22. Darrell Royals Longhorns stunned by an early 52-13 thrashing at the hands of mighty Oklahoma, recovered their pose and rolled to six straight wins over tough Southwest Conference foes. With Roosevelt Leaks, who ran at a 141.5 yards-per-game clip, leading the charge, the Longhorns should hold the upper hand all the way over the tough Cornhuskers.

ROSE BOWL
Jan. 1, Pasadena, Calif.

So. California 28, Ohio State 20. The Grandaddy of the Bowls boasts another major attraction shaded in importance only by the Sugar Bowl. For Johnny McKay's Trojans it will be their sixth Rose Bowl appearance in the last eight years and for Woody Hayes' Buckeyes it will be a chance to avenge last season's defeat by the Trojans. The Rose Bowl shapes up as a tremendous battle with the with the Bucks sporting a 9-0-1 record and the Trojans losers only to Notre Dame, running up a 9-1-1 score. Playing at home and with the cagey McKay directing the show we foresee a triumph for the Trojans — hak — kaff.

ORANGE BOWL
Jan. 1, Miami, Fla.

Penn State 27, LSU 21. As usual Joe Paterno has one of his fine clubs in a top bowl meeting. Boasting an 11-0-0 record and with Heisman Trophy winner John Cappelletti showing the way, the Nittany Lions will prevail over a rugged LSU team. This will be a fitting climax to a great weekend of collegiate football.

low," he grinned and then added, "AFTER he proves his stuff."

Woody had one other though which, although he didn't intend it that way, was encouraging. "I'd put USC on a par with Michigan," he said.

Well, Ohio St. couldn't beat Michigan.

Fourth Rose Bowl battle for Troy, OSU

When Ohio State and USC kick off in the 1974 Rose Bowl New Year's Day, the Buckeyes and Trojans will meet in their fourth in a series of Rose Bowl encounters that has been highlighted by a slippery field, the sensational playing of OSU sophomores and last year's uncanny scoring by a USC fullback.

The Buckeyes and Trojans have played in the "grandaddy" of all post-season college football classics in Pasadena three times: 1955, 1969 and 1973. The Buckeyes can boast of victories in the first two games, while the Trojans triumphed in this year's (1973) encounter.

It always rains roses in Pasadena on New Year's Day, but when the Buckeyes and Trojans first met in the Rose Bowl in 1955, it also poured something to which Pasadena is quite unaccustomed — water. And lots of it.

While it has rained only four times in the history of Rose Bowl action (and never again since 1955), Coach Woody Hayes brought his Buckeyes to Pasadena for his first time to play on a field that has been described as the "worst in Rose Bowl history." The rain began early in the morning, but did not spoil traditional festivities which have been part of New Year's Day in Pasadena since 1890. Indeed, if anything destroyed the football field, it wasn't the water, but the half-time show.

"They turned it (the field) into a quagmire," complained the even-then colorful Hayes. "Eighty million people saw those bands marching in the parade, so why did they have to march on that muddy first'"

And so it did. The game went on despite the water and the bands, and even though the mud-coated players were all but unidentifiable just a minute after the start of first quarter action. So bad were the conditions that the lights had to be turned on at the unheard-of-time of 1 p.m. and coach Jess Hill's Trojans fumbled the slippery ball no less than seven times — contributing in part to the Buckeyes beating the Trojans, 20-7.

Ohio State dominated the 1955 game throughout with the sensational scoring of Dave Leggett, who would receive player of the game honors. On 77, 68 and 35-yard drives, respectively, Leggett scored OSU's first touchdown on a three-yard plunge over the goal line, threw a 21-yard pass to Bob Watkins for the second score and flipped a pitchout to Dick Harkrader for a nine-yard scoring run in the final period. USC would score only once in the game, yet Aramis Dandoy's record 86-yard run for a touchdown has been called the finest in all Rose Bowl action."

Fourteen years later when the then-No. 1 ranked Buckeyes again wrangled with the No. 2 ranked USC Trojans (now coached by John McKay) the field had long dried. And so had the fear of Woody Hayes, who had not been defeated in his two Rose Bowl tries to date.

"Not a damn thing," retorted Hayes prior to the game when asked what he feared most about USC. And with good reason. Woody brought to Pasadena in 1969 a sophomore-studded team that had swept through an undefeated Big 10 season and would again reign supreme in the Rose Bowl against USC, 27-16.

Ohio State's sensational sophomores stunned the 102,036 Rose Bowl spectators by halting what had appeared to be an unstoppable 10-0 second quarter lead by USC that had resulted from a 21-yard Ron Ayala field goal and an 80-yard touchdown by Heisman Trophy winner O.J. Simpson.

Sophomore quarterback Rex Kern (who would later marry a Tournament of Roses princess whom he met while in Pasadena) led the Ohio State attack and OSU was able to tie the score by 10-10 at the half. A 69-yard, Kern-led drive culminated in fullback Jim Otis pushing over the goal line, and with only three seconds before the half-time gun, OSU's Jim Roman kicked a successful 26-yard field goal. In the second half, Ohio State would score three more times: on a 25-yard Jim Roman field goal, a Kern touchdown pass to halfback Leophus Hayden, and a 16-yard looper from Kern to OSU's Ray Gillian.

USC would not score in the second half due to OSU's sensational sophomore attack and three costly fumbles, save for a Steve Sogge spiral to Sam Dickerson deep in the end zone. "That's the first time I ever saw a touchdown when the ball was rolling on the ground," complained the Columbus coach about the controversial play about which the clamor went on for days. While Dickerson caught the ball deep in the end zone and the officials called the play a score, many fans agreed with Hayes that OSU's Mike Pulaski was in joint possession and that Dickerson never touched as much as one foot in the end zone before dropping the ball.

Regardless of the outcome of that final USC scoring attempt that was overshadowed by OSU's sophomore attack, there can be little doubt whether USC made it into the end zone in the last OSU-USC encounter in the Rose Bowl just this year.

USC fullback Sam (Bam) Cunningham not only got into the end zone — but did it in style to break the all-time Rose Bowl scoring record. Cunningham racked up 24 points on four touchdowns to break the previous 18-point Rose Bowl record that had been shared by Notre Dame's Elmer Layden (1925), Michigan's Dick Weisenberger (1948) and Michigan's Mel Anthony (1965).

The Trojans and Buckeyes met in 1973 for their third time in the Rose Bowl before a record Rose Bowl crowd of 106,869. After two defeats at the hands of Woody's Ohio State warriors, the Trojans would finally whip the Buckeyes 42-17 in their amazing 18th Rose Bowl bid since Troy first played in Pasadena in 1923.

"We knew Sam had a chance to break the (individual scoring) record," recalled Coach Jon McKay after the game in explaining why the senior fullback was selected to serve up four of USC's six touchdowns that day.

Once tailback Anthony Davis and quarterback Mike Rae moved the ball wihin a yard of the OSU goal line, it was Cunningham who delighted Rose Bowl fans across the country by leaping over the OSU defensive line for the score. Cunningham needed to account for only five yards in making those four important scores, with his first and longest run of the day being only two yards and the others officially recorded as one yard apiece.

Sam's first leap over and into the record books did not come until the game's second half when as in 1969, the Trojans and Buckeyes were tied. The score this time was 7-7, with USC scoring on a Mike Rae pass to Lynn Swann and OSU running up points on a one-yard rush by fullback Randy Keith. Cunningham was the first to score in the third quarter, and following a 21-yard field goal by OSU's Blair Conway and a 20-yard run by Anthony Davis, Cunningham would repeat this performance. In the fourth quarter, while Ohio would add only one touchdown, it was Sam Cunningham who would again score twice, leading the Trojans to final victory over OSU.

Granddaddy of all bowls

The 1974 Rose Bowl marks the 60th meeting between the nation's greatest football rivals in the "Granddaddy" of all college sports classics.

Football became part of Pasadena's Tournament of Roses festivities just two years following the turn of the century when a young easterner, James B. Wagner, persuadeed Tournament officials to forego the amateur races and other sports that had comprised its post-parade festivities since its beginnng in 1890.

While two teams of young men had played what was called a fooball "race" in that first year, college football officially came on the for Michigan to meet Stanford for Michiganto meet Stanford on New Year's Day, 1902. Michigan's 49-0 win was wonderful for the Wolverines, but diastrous for the immediate future of football in the Rose pageant.

Not until 1916 was the Tournament again able to persuade a western team to risk defeat under a possible eastern avalanche like Michigan. Football finally replaced the chariot races which had come to dominate the sports scene from 1903 to 1915, when Washington State played Brown in what was to be the first of the gridiron encounters which have been enacted in Pasadena every year since.

Holiday football in Pasadena first grew to national prominence in 1920 when a hard-charging Harvard team shocked the unknowing Northeast by announcing that it was going some 3000 miles to play football in a place called Pasadena. Almost prevented from making the trip by a coal strike in 1919, which was only averted by the order of President Woodrow Wilson, Harvard's 7-6 victory over Oregon was its only Rose Bowl appearance and marked the only time Harvard has broken its long tradition of playing in no post-season games.

The famous and not-so-famous are among the 34 collegiate teams which have come to Pasadena on New Year's Day. Probably the last known was Washington and Jefferson, a small western Pennsylvania school which traveled west in 1922. Quipped one sports reporter, "All I know about Washington and Jefferson is that they are both dead.

Probably the best-known was the great 1925 Notre Dame team with its famous "Four Horsemen." It was in the Rose Bowl that the "Four Horsemen"—a name coined by Grantland Rice for Notre Dame's noted front line—completed their brilliant careers that would assure them sports immortality.

Completion of the Rose Bowl stadium in 1923 confirmed signs of growing interest in the Rose Bowl. In Penn State's only appearance in the classic, the Nittany Lions were caught in a traffic jam and were 45 minutes late getting to the new stadium, resulting in a near fight between the opposing coaches.

Many of football's greatest milestones — and mistakes — have marked the gridiron meetings that followed in that stadium, which was built in the 1920's for the incredibly small sum of $272,198.

In the 1925 Rose Bowl Stanford's Coach Pop Warner used the double wingback formation exclusively for the first time. Another Stanford coach would make football history in 1941, when Chuck Shaughnessey employed the "T" formation for the first time in national play to crush Nebraska in its only Rose Bowl bid. Finally, in 1948, Michigan's Fritz Crisler again triumphed in the Rose Bowl, demonstrating to the nation his two-platoon system of substitution, orginating the use of entirely different teams for offensive and defensive plays.

Of the 59 games to date, probably no Rose Bowl game is more discussed than that of 1929, the year of football's infamous "wrong way" run. Perhaps it was a portent of how the country would be going wrong later that year, but California's 8-7 loss to Georgia Tech remains probably the most talked-about incident in all of football history.

When Georgia Tech fumbled on its own 20-yard line, California center Roy Riegels quickly recovered and thought he was a hero — only to turn and race 65 yards in the wrong direction! Amidst the clamor of the crowd, only California's Benny Lom realized what had happened and Lom was able to catch Riegels just as he crossed the goal line, pushing Riegels back to the one-yard line.

On the next play Lom attempted to kick out of danger but Tech's charging Vance Maree partially blocked the ball for a safety which was the margin of victory for the Southerners.

Surprises and upsets have always marked the game. In 1924 Navy's only bid was preempted just before the kickoff when a kid who had crashed the gate was chased by a policeman across the palying field as the crowd cheered the child and lambasted the law. Ten years later, the football antics were almost as exciting when in its only bid, Columbia pulled off probably the greatest upset in Rose Bowl play by defeating Stanford on a muddy field that permitted more yardage to be gained by slipping than by running.

Neither rain nor gloom of day — and certainly not sleet or snow — have prevented the Rose Bowl game from being played in Pasadena. In fact, it has rained only four times in 59 years of play. Only a World War II ban stopped the game from being played in California when Pearl Harbor prompted a quick shift to Durham, N.C., and Oregon State had to cross the country for its first Bowl bid win, defeating Duke.

Throughout the long life of the Rose Bowl, football's "Grandaddy" has remained the most revered (and watched) of any collegiate football game. The secret to its vitality — despite its longevity — has always been that the football action in Pasadena never itself grows old. Every year promises to be just as exciting as any of the episodes from its past. What better respect could any "Granddaddy" ask for?

ARSONIST WORK

The destructive hand of an arsonist turned all these shelves of breadstuff into ashes Thursday night as a fire swept through Bailey's Food Market at 1076 W. Phillips Blvd. Surveying the damage today are James F. Bailey, owner of the store, and his daughter, Jamie, 10.

2 Pomona markets set ablaze by firebomber

POMONA — Two neighborhood food markets were set ablaze by Molotov cocktails Thursday night.

The firebombs apparently were hurled by the same person in both cases, and investigators say they have some good clues.

The blazes were set about an hour apart, causing nearly $20,000 damage to Bailey's Market at 1076 W. Phillips Blvd., and $750 damage to the Fifth Avenue Market at 600 W. Mission Blvd. No one was injured.

Battalion Chief Paul Murphy, who had charge of fire units at both locations, said automatic alarms saved both buildings from being destroyed.

At Bailey's, the fire broke out two hours after the store closed for the night. Firemen were called at 9:44 p.m. and put out the flames in about 10 minutes, according to Murphy.

The battalion chief said the fire broke out when someone hurled through the front window a glass missive containing flammable liquid and a lighted wick.

He estimated the damage at $4,000 to the building and about $15,000 to the grocery stock. The store is owned by James F. Bailey of 2173 Sinclair Ave.

At 10:47 p.m., firemen responded to a second call, this time at the Fifth Avenue Market. They found that two Molotov cocktails had been hurled through the front window.

But this time an alert neighbor spotted a car speeding away from the scene and took the vehicle's license number.

Because of the speed with which the flames were fought — they were extinguished in four minutes — damages were held to $450 on the building and $300 to its contents.

Murphy said the mode of operation appeared to be similar in both instances.

The fire department also put out a fire in the bedroom of Pat Weisz, at 1749 Wright St., shortly before 8 a.m. today.

According to the report, the Weisz's 5-year-old son, Richard, was playing with matches in the bedroom, igniting a plastic bag.

Mrs. Weisz closed off the bedroom, then called the fire department. Her action was credited for limiting the loss to $500.

Researcher says pot can benefit asthma victims

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Marijuana opens up the air passages of those who suffer from asthma, and may provide a basis for new forms of treatment, a UCLA researcher said Thursday.

"But we do not recommend marijuana for the treatment of asthma," added Dr. Donald Tashkin, head of the pulmonary function laboratory, in a talk to a medical gathering.

In an experiment, all 10 subjects showed improved breathing after smoking a marijuana cigarette, he said. All were asthmatics, but were not having attacks at the time of the experiment, he said.

However, he added, some of them told him later that they subsequently used marijuana during an asthma attack, and it helped them.

Earlier reports that marijuana may induce bronchitis in chronic users are sufficient basis to avoid using it as an approved treatment at the present time, he said.

However, he said, there may be a way to extract the beneficial ingredients from marijuana, and at the same time eliminate its undesirable side effects, such as irritation and dryness of the throat.

Tashkin said that when the experiment was set up, it was expected that marijuana would have the same detrimental effect on asthmatics as tobacco, which causes constriction of the bronchial tubes, making breathing more difficult.

Instead, he said, it was found that smoking marijuana opens the bronchial tubes. Pills containing THC, the concentrated active ingredient of the drug, were also beneficial, producing an effect that was weaker, but lasted longer.

He noted that marijuana, which was not made illegal until 1937, was once an ingredient in certain medicinal preparations that were prescribed for asthma in the past.

The findings followed by 18 months a report by UCLA researchers that marijuana causes eyeball fluid pressure to drop sharply, indicating it may be useful in treatment of glaucoma, a major cause of blindness.

70% oil price hike by Venezuela shakes East

CARACAS (UPI) — Venezuela planned to announce a major increase in oil prices today, with motorists and home owners along America's east coast expected to bear the brunt of the rise.

Government sources estimated the rise at 70 per cent and said it would likely lead to higher prices for gasoline and home heating oil in the U.S. Atlantic states.

The sources said Venezuela would increase oil prices to more than $12 a barrel following the decision of Arab petroleum nations to double their prices five days ago.

The boost came after 11 previous hikes by Venezuela increased the cost of oil 400 per cent since Jan. 1.

U.S. oil companies operating in Venzuela, led by Exxon, have spread the past increases over all their products to avoid major rises in gas and heating oil costs.

Industry sources said, however, the latest hike was so large it would probably hit users of such refined products as gasoline and heating oil the hardest.

The sources said refined products account for 1.2 million of the 1.7 million barrels of oil Venezuela exports daily to America's east coast.

Venezuela, where regular grade gas sells for only 12 cents a gallon, has received a windfall in oil revenue during the recent energy crisis.

The government had estimated 1974 oil revenues at a whopping $4 billion—up from $3 billion this year—even before today's announcement of additional price increases.

The Venezuelan government collects more than half the price of a barrel of oil for its national coffers. The government's share has increased from $1.62 a barrel at the start of the year to $4.57 before the latest increase.

Venezuela, the world's third largest oil exporter after Saudi Arabia and Iran, ships 3.1 million barrels of petroleum a day.

It increased production when the Arabs cut exports after the 1967 Middle East war, but was now operating at full capacity and could not boost shipments.

Campaigning starts as 47 seek 25 valley city posts

Forty-seven candidates will be running for 25 positions in the Pomona Valley area when the municipal elections are held March 5.

Filing of nomination papers officially was concluded Thursday noon at the offices of the clerks of eight cities which will hold the elections.

But lively election campaigning was expected nearly everywhere else.

An exception appeared to be in Upland where the three incumbent councilmen are opposed by one challenger.

The competition also will be limited in Montclair where Mayor Harold Hayes will run unopposed. But the two councilmen in Montclair are opposed by two challengers.

The heaviest response to the election once more is in Ontario where nine candidates are vying for two positions. Two years ago, Ontario had 13 candidates.

In addition to Montclair, voters will elect mayors in La Verne and in Ontario. For La Verne it will be the first time that a mayor will be chosen by an election.

CLAREMONT — (3 council seats)

Incumbents Claire K. McDonald 239 W. 11th St., Alberta "Bertye" Smith, 886 Ottawa Drive, and Gene R. Block, business executive, 518 Aurora Drive; and challengers Lawrence H. Little, student, 1170 Indian Hill Blvd., and Douglas A. Scott, attorney, 555 W. 12th St.

CHINO (3 council seats)

Incumbents Leonard Frketich of 4792 Mt. Vernon Ave., and Angel Martinez, 4841 Gettysburg Ave.; and challengers Eileen Carter, 4946 Walnut Ave., housewife; Robert Bertschinger, 13121 Third St., television repair shop owner; Nick Medina of 12535 Ross Ave., air conditioning technician; and Joe Lunetto of 12400 Cypress Ave., salesman.

LA VERNE — for mayor, incumbent Mike M. Morales, 1807 Third St.; and

Three train coaches overturn; 72 injured

ANDERSON, Calif. (UPI) — Three rear sleeping cars of the southbound Coast Starlight AMTRAK train overturned early today, tossing scores of sleeping passengers from their berths. There were no fatalities.

All available local rescue equipment was rushed to the grade crossing on the outskirts of this Shasta County town to extricate passengers from overturned cars. A Southern Pacific spokesman said there were approximately 450 persons aboard.

Three other cars were derailed, but remained standing.

Rescue workers used crowbars and axes to break through the walls and windows of the stainless steel cars. Passengers were taken into busses and ambulances. Twelve persons were admitted at two hospitals in Redding, 10 miles to the north. A spokesman for one hospital said there were "no obvious severe injuries."

More than 60 others were treated and released.

Hugh Kerr of Princeton, N.J., said he was asleep in his berth when the train "fell over on its side. My wife, who was on the other side, was suddenly above me. I'm astonished that we were able to get out."

Andrew Anderson, spokesman for the Southern Pacific Railroad in San Francisco, said the cause of the wreck was not known and was under investigation.

The engine and 11 following cars were not visibly damaged and were inspected by railroad officials to see if they were mechanically fit to complete the trip.

The Coast Starlight, AMTRAK train 11, originated in Seattle and was bound for Los Angeles and San Diego.

Turkey court gives 3 Americans life

ANTAKYA, Turkey (UPI) — A criminal court sentenced three Americans to death today on charges of hashish smuggling, then commuted the sentences to life imprisonment.

The three, who were arrested last year at Cilvegozu on the Syrian border, were identified as Joanne Marie McDaniel, 30, of Coos Bay, Ore.; Catherine Zenz, 28, of Lancaster, Wisc., and Robert Hubbard, 23, hometown unknown.

3 on tanker perish in Alaskan storm

A spokesman for Standard Oil Company of California reported in San Francisco that Capt. C. W. Pemberton, 50, Seattle, Wash., and chief mate George K. Gann, 38, Belvedere, Calif., were lost overboard and presumed drowned. Gann was the son of novelist Ernest K. Gann.

Nixon switch—refuses to release tapes?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon has decided not to publicly release transcripts or summaries of the Watergate tapes because he and his senior advisers fear the tapes would convince growing segments of the public that Nixon was involved in the Watergate cover-up, the Washington Post said today.

The White House also decided Wednesday that it will resist attempts by the Senate Watergate Committee to obtain these materials, the paper said, and will make them available only to the House Judiciary Committee, which is investigating the possible impeachment of the President.

Quoting "senior presidential aides," Post reporters Carl Bernstein and Bob Woodward said the White House tape recordings indicate that at a minimum, Nixon had knowledge of the Watergate cover-up at least several days before March 21, 1973, the date that Nixon maintains he first learned of it.

The reported presidential decision would represent a major scaledown of Nixon's "Operation Candor," and would break a promise made to key congressmen including Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott, R-Pa., and Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., that he would release the tape transcripts. The White House had already missed the deadline of releasing the transcripts before Congress went home for the Christmas holidays, and there had been strong indications that the transcripts would not be released.

The Post said presidential advisers do not believe the tapes contain legal proof that Nixon broke the law, but "most of the public and the news media would read the transcripts and conclude that the President was involved in a conspiracy," the advisers said.

The tapes show that the President was aware that there was an organized effort to "contain" Watergate because it represented a threat to Nixon's reelection in the 1972 campaign, the Post said.

"It is unclear whether he was aware of offers of executive clemency or the payments of money to the seven convicted Watergate conspirators for silence," said the Post, quoting one source familiar with the contents of the tapes. "That is obstruction of justice and a crime. The other, the containing of the Watergate, was just good politics."

However, the sources said this legal distinction probably would be ignored by the public.

The Post quoted the sources as saying the tapes also could reveal embarrassing language and attitudes on the part of the President. One source said the tapes demonstrated Nixon's concern with "petty" political retributions, and another source said: "There are a lot of really nasty comments about individuals."

Left open to question was whether Nixon also would make a public release of other documents regarding Watergate-related matters such as the ITT case or the milk fund controversy.

The sources were quoted as saying that the tapes showed that former presidential counsel John W. Dean was wrong in some of his key allegations against Nixon, but "Dean need only be right on one charge or appear to be right on one charge and in the present atmosphere that might be enough to take the President down."

The Post said the most damaging evidence against Nixon was not necessarily in the seven recordings already turned over to the Watergate prosecutor but in the tapes of nearly 500 conversations and meetings subpoenaed by the Watergate Committee.

India's cold wave claims 213 lives

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Northern India's two-week cold wave, the worst in 10 years, has claimed 213 lives, the weather office said.

At least 14 persons died Wednesday in Bihar and six in Uttar Pradesh.

Aerial photos screen area of 4 murders

TITUSVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — Air Force technicians today began processing infrared aerial photographs taken of a rural area of north Brevard County where the bodies of four young women have been found in the past two months.

Sheriff Leigh Wilson said it was hoped the infared aerial photos taken Thursday by a plane from nearby Patrick Air Force Base would reveal any more bodies that may be in a five-square mile area of woods and orange groves near the town of Mims.

Meanwhile, 20 sheriff's deputies moved into the area today on foot, in cars and on trail bikes to search for more victims of what Wilson believes are the related deaths of the four young women.

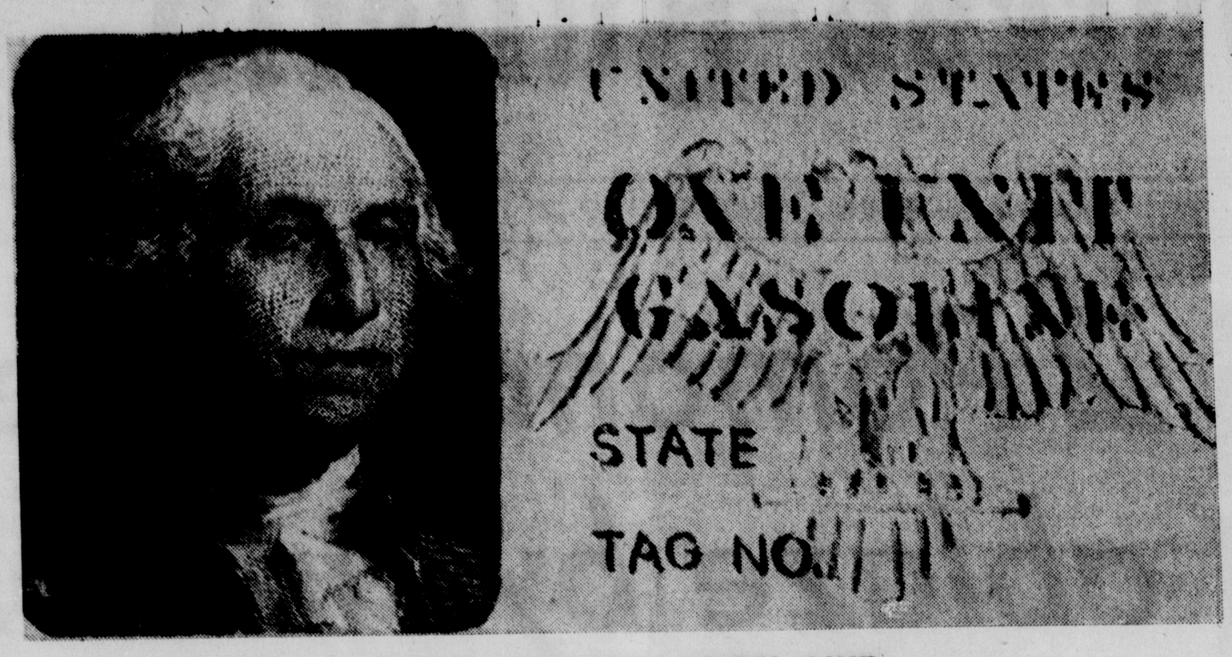
Heavy overnight rains hampered today's search.

All the bodies discovered so far have been badly decomposed. Officials said the heat generated by the decomposition process could show up on the infrared film taken by Air Force pilots and lead officers to any new bodies.

The discovery Thursday of the fourth body, a girl believed to be between 12 and 14, prompted Wilson to reopen the files on all missing persons reported in the county in the last six months.

Investigators could not immediately identify the body of the latest victim found but the other victims, Carolyn Jean Bennett, Paula Hamric, 22, and Nancy Gerry, 25, had not been reported missing to police.

A teen-ager trying out a new rifle Christmas Day discovered the body of the Bennett girl and the bodies of the Hamric and Gerry women were found several weeks ago. All the bodies were either nude or partially nude.



WHAT IT WILL LOOK LIKE

This is an artist's drawing of a gas ration coupon that will be used if and when the government decides to begin rationing gasoline. Federal Energy Chief William Simon said Thursday he had ordered the printing of the coupons and set up basic rules for rationing if voluntary steps fail to ease crisis.

Gas ration plan draws fire from all sides

By United Press International

The government's standby gasoline rationing plan is drawing criticism from all sides—either as being so stringent to be "absolutely ridiculous" or as being too little and too late.

The tentative plan, announced Thursday by energy chief William E. Simon, would go into effect only if other measures—such as motorists limiting themselves voluntarily to 10 gallons of gasoline a week —proved inadequate. It initially would provide every driver an average 32 to 35 gallons of gasoline a month.

"Absolutely ridiculous," snorted Robert Jacobs, an official of the Illinois and Indiana Gasoline Dealers Associations. "Millions of Americans use 25 gallons a week, not a month, just to get to work.

Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, said rationing should have been imposed a month ago.

"No rationing is a politically popular position," Moss said. "but in my opinion, three months down the road we will have to go to it. And by that time we will be in bad shape to implement it because we waited so long."

Los Angeles Mayor Tom Bradley said his vast auto-supported city could not thrive on the government's plan.

"There is a heavy dependence on the private automobile here and we have vast distances to travel," the mayor said. "Our circumstances are different."

Nebraska Gov. J. James Exon questioned the fairness of the standby plan. He called it "typical of the confusion that has come out of Washington from the beginning on this matter."

The National Safety Council said most motorists probably would have to buy an economy car or drive about 40 per cent less under the plan.

A council spokesman said the average motorist now drove about 875 miles a month, using an estimated 58 gallons of gasoline. To continue the normal mileage under the standby plan, the spokesman said a motorist would need to get 25 miles per gallon from his car or drive about 350 less miles per month in an auto that gets the estimated national average of 15 miles to the gallon.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said the next step should be an all-out crackdown on "the price gougers."

Charles Tapp, a member of the National Energy Commission and Louisiana's consumer protection director, said, "In my opinion, it simply will not work."

Tapp said Washington was taking a "behind-the-back, crossed-fingers approach" to the energy shortage.

Contending that rationing of any kind "won't work" because it "makes thieves of us all," Richard Messer, president of the Greater Indianapolis Dealers Association, said the standby plan was a "shock tactic."

"If they snuck in with rationing tomorrow, I think a mob would set the White House on fire," he said. "You can't take a person's freedom all away at once.

"But if they use scare tactics to keep you thinking your sacrifices and giving up a little freedom is best for all, then you wake up one morning and find you have nothing left."

Gas dealer low man on fuel priority list

WASHINGTON (UPI) — William Simon said today that new fuel allocation regulations to go into effect in mid-January will leave gas stations with about 20 per cent less fuel than their customers will demand.

Simon filed final regulations governing petroleum products Thursday for publication in the Federal Register. The regulations will take effect on Jan. 15.

Simon said today that the new allocation program will place the local gas station at the bottom of the priority list for fuel, and he acknowledged that the regulations would in effect amount to "a moderate form of rationing."

Coming ahead of gasoline for private automobiles will be essential services such as farms, hospitals, public transport and industries that produce fuel. Other business and industry would take next priority, and next would come gas stations.

Simon said on the CBS-TV Morning News the resulting shortage of gas would vary from area to area of the country, but "basically what we are looking at is a 20 per cent shortfall in our gasoline."

Can Hughes be forced to face an indictment?

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — It is a matter of question whether Howard Hughes can be hauled from behind the walls of wealth and foreign laws that shield his floating hermitage to face a federal conspiracy indictment, the first criminal charges brought against him.

Hughes, the recluse billionaire whose activities have become enmeshed in the Watergate investigation, and four of his former top associates, were indicted by a federal grand jury Thursday on charges of conspiracy and stock manipulation in the acquisition of Hughes Airwest.

Hughes, 68, who has not been seen in public in 20 years, may have been taking precautions against the possibility of such an indictment when he moved a week ago from London to Freeport in the Bahamas.

The 42-year-old extradition treaty between the United States and the Bahamas is aimed primarily at those charged with crimes of violence, or common theft, it was reported.

Hughes has said that he fears that if he ever surfaced in a court, a great number of legal papers would be served on him, and he would be a prisoner of lawsuits for the rest of his life.

The main target of the grand jury was the purchase by the Hughes Tool Co.—then Hughes' chief operating arm—of Airwest in 1968 for $130 million, including $40 million in liabilities. The grand jury looked particularly into charges that some stockholders received half, or less, than the $22 a share tender off Hughes made in his original proposal to buy the line.

The indictments returned Thursday, shortly before the statute of limitations ran out, charges conspiracy, stock manipulation, wire fraud, aiding and abetting, accessory after the fact and misprision of a felony.

There were indications the probe into Airwest would continue next year and possibly be expanded into other Hughes dealings in Nevada, which have also come under the scrutiny of the Senate Watergate Committee.

The airline transaction received the blessing of the Civil Aeronautics Board and President Nixon in 1969. Hughes officially took control of Airwest in April of 1970.

Watergate investigators became interested after it was learned Hughes gave $250,000 in campaign contributions—$100,000 of which went to Nixon's close friend Charles "Bebe" Reboso, who kept it in a safe deposit box in his Florida bank.

Others charged in the nine-count indictment Thursday were:

—Robert Maheu, former FBI agent and former head of the $300 million Nevada Hughes empire which includes seven gambling resorts. Maheu now has almost $70 million in lawsuits pending against his former boss as a result of his being fired from a $500,000 a year post in December of 1970.

—Chester Davis, a New York lawyer and naturalized citizen who is the general counsel and director of Summa Corp., a firm solely owned by Hughes.

Argument over tapestry ends in shot; man held

Police reported Charles Elsworth Petree of 8419 Maple St., Fontana, was shot in the upper right leg with a .30-caliber carbine after he argued with Arthur Michael Earley, at Earley's apartment on 235 W. Grove St.

Police said Petree and his brother, Alan, had come to the apartment at about 7:30 p.m. to see Linda Lee Perry, 21, a former girlfriend, and claim some personal property, including a tapestry.

Petree argued first with the woman, police said, and scuffled with her briefly. At that point Earley reportedly went to another room of the apartment, secured the rifle and ordered Petree to leave.

Police said Petree then pulled a .22-caliber revolver from his waistband and was shot once in the leg by Earley.

Survey shows Ford over Ted, Jackson

NEW YORK (UPI) — A Harris Survey Thursday reported Vice President Gerald Ford running ahead of Sen. Edward Kennedy and Sen. Henry Jackson as top choice for the 1976 presidential election.

The Harris poll of 1,103 voters around the country showed Ford running ahead of Kennedy by 48 to 44 per cent.

Ford edged Jackson by 43 to 41 per cent, Harris reported.

Political prisoner swap in Vietnam

SAIGON (UPI) — South Vietnam and the Viet Cong have agreed to resume exchanges of political prisoners before the Jan. 23 Tet Lunar New Year, military sources said today.

Officers close to the two-party Jount Military Commission (JMC) said both sides agreed "in principle" to release all 3,768 civilian political prisoners in time for the Tet holiday.

Blaze routs scores at Sun Valley lodge

SUN VALLEY, Idaho (UPI) — An early morning blaze destroyed the roof and attic of the historic Sun Valley ski lodge today and forced scores of guests into a raging snow storm.

The fire burned through the upper floors of the four-story concrete hotel, sending up billows of heavy acrid smoke.

One person was treated for smoke inhalation, but there were no other injuries.

Ray filed a $500,000 damage suit in federal court charging he was being held in "oppressive" confinement for a crime he did not commit. He asked to be removed from solitary confinement and to have his case reopened on the grounds his former attorney mishandled some evidence.

Ray pleaded guilty in March, 1969, to the 1968 murder of the civil rights leader. But in an interview with the Nashville Banner Thursday, he said:

"I never saw anybody shoot King. But that's as far as I want to go. As far as the crime, I contend I'm not guilty. But there is no use for me to make statements to the newspaper that I'm not guilty. I've got to get in a courtroom for that."

A Nashville television station, WSM-TV, reported Wednesday night that Ray was to file a document with federal court naming his co-conspirators in the King assassination. No such document had surfaced by early today.

Ray charged his former attorney, Percy Foreman of Houston, took two telephone numbers from him then gave the numbers to another attorney, the late Z.T. Osborn, who later was disbarred.

People in today's news

Jackson says he's target of Arabs

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., Thursday called himself "an obvious target" of Arab terrorism and claimed he had been threatened because of his support for Israel.

Jackson declined to give details but said at a news conference, "I've been threatened by them and I've had to deal with that problem."

Jackson has been honored by several U.S. Jewish groups for his strong support of Israel in the Middle East conflict.

Berrigan rejects Gandhi award

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Rev. Daniel Berrigan, who has been criticized recently for a speech attacking Israel, Thursday refused the Gandhi Peace award from Promoting Enduring Peace, a multi-religious group.

Berrigan called Israel a state created by "millionaires, generals and entrepreneurs" in a speech he made Oct. 19 to the Arab University Graduates Association.

In a letter to the Rev. Roy Pfaff, head of the group, Berrigan said he objected to a poll Pfaff was taking among directors of the group to reevaluate their choice for the award.

Berrigan said he resented being a "bystander at a degrading consensus game" and added that "my conscience is not subject to your constituency. I hereby resign from your prize."

Rabbi Arthur Hertzberg, president of the American Jewish Congress and one of three persons chosen to award the honor, has called Berrigan's position "old-fashioned theological anti-semitism."

Biblical name

OTTAWA (UPI) — Alexandre Emmanuel was the name chosen for the son born Christmas Day to Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau and his wife, Margaret.

The seven-pound, nine-ounce baby boy was born two years to the day after the birth of the Trudeaus' first son, Justin Pierre.

The 54-year-old prime minister said his wife, 25, wanted to name the baby Alexandre. He added she could have been thinking of a saint, a czar or a pope. He said he wanted the name Emmanuel because "it's a good biblical name."

Asked who the baby most resembles, Trudeau said with a laugh, "my wife says he is virile, strong-willed and he'll have a great future. My wife sees all kinds of good things in him."

Congressman will not run again

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Calif., said Thursday he will not run for re-election to Congress next year.

First elected to Congress in 1952, Mailliard is serving his 11th consecutive term.

SEN. HENRY M. JACKSON

Newsman attacked by angry natives

PORT MORESBY, New Guinea (UPI) — George Weller, a Pulitzer Prize-winning, recently retired American foreign correspondent, was set upon by natives while investigating secret practices on Bougainville Island, police said Thursday.

A police spokesman said the incident occurred Dec. 21 as Weller, 66, was trying to interview Joseph Habisiria, leader of the Hahalis Welfare Society. He had apparently ignored a request to stop taking notes and was assaulted and robbed by a group of men, the spokesman said, adding that Weller had asked that charges be brought for assault and malicious damage.

Weller, recently retired as the Chicago Daily News correspondent in Rome, also worked for several other U.S. newspapers, including the New York Times. He won the Pulitzer Prize in 1943.

Bone is bear's— 6 million years old

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — Paleontogists at the University of California Thursday said a bone that a 7-year-old boy discovered once belonged to a giant bear that roamed about the Western states six million years ago.

The find was the first evidence that the bear, called the agriotherium, was ever in Northern California, they said.

Burned-out car found; youth held

CHINO — A 17-year-old Chino youth was arrested this morning after West End sheriff's deputies found a burned-out car that had been deliberately set on fire Thursday morning at the Pomona Valley Water Co., 1475 Pipeline Ave.

Deputies said the youth was arrested on suspicion of arson and will be referred to juvenile authorities. Deputies said the car owned by Mark McDonald, 18, of Los Serranos, was found burning in the water company yard about 2:15 a.m. Thursday. Deputies said the car was deliberately set on fire with gasoline following a fight between two rival youth groups in the Los Serranos area Wednesday night.

Two men rob gas station attendant

MONTCLAIR — Two men, one wearing a stocking cap, robbed Jimmy's Self-Service station Thursday of a small amount of cash, police reported.

Police reports said the two men, both Negroes, in their 20s walked to the cashier's cage and confronted the attendant, Doug Adams. One of the men told Adams he had a gun and wanted the money from the register. Adams handed over the money and the two men ran to a nearby building. They got into a car, described as a green or gray 1961 or 1962 Ford Falcon, and sped away.

Man facing charges in kidnap-rape

ONTARIO — George Phillip Youngblood, 18, of Upland Thursday was held to answer to West Valley Superior Court on charges of kidnapping, rape, and robbery following a preliminary hearing in West Valley Municipal Court.

Youngblood is accused of kidnaping 17-year-old Ernie Luna of Upland and a girl companion from in front of the Circle K Market at 1111 Ninth St., Upland, on Nov. 17 and ordering them at knifepoint to drive to the Etiwanda area. Sheriff's deputies said that the suspect forced Luna out of the car and then raped the girl in Summit Park.

Judge Kenneth Ziebarth increased the bail for Youngblood to $20,000 after the preliminary hearing, and ordered him to appear in West Valley Superior Court in two weeks for trial.

Justice Dept. files jobs-for-women suit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Justice Department has filed its first suit against state laws that discriminate against job opportunities for women.

The department, in a civil suit filed Wednesday against the State of Nevada in a Reno federal court, charged that the laws, if allowed to continue, would prevent women from working more than eight hours a day and more than six days a week and thereby restrict their employment opportunities.

The state laws, the suit said, violated provisions of the 1964 Civil Rights Act, which prohibit discriminatory employment practices based on sex, religion or national origin.

The suit said such laws constitute "a pattern or practice of resistance to the full employment of female employes and applicants for employment in Nevada to their right to equal employment opportunities without discrimination based on sex."

The Justice Department said in its suit that the state had taken no steps to repeal or limit enforcement of the laws and that the state legislature, which could repeal or amend the statutes, is not scheduled to meet again until 1975.

The suit asked the court to declare the laws in violation of federal statutes and that they be invalidated.

Pottinger said "although state authorities are apparently not actively seeking to enforce these laws, we do not know the extent to which they may nevertheless be used by employers to deny women job opportunities solely because of their sex. For this reason we are seeking to have the laws declared invalid, and thereby ensure that they will not be used unfairly."

Pottinger said the Civil Rights Division was reviewing similar laws in other states.

Open manhole thwarts plot for escape

NEW YORK (UPI) — Police suspicious of an open manhole Thursday said they stopped what appeared to be a plot to break into the Manhattan House of Detention to free members of the Black Liberation Army (BLA).

A spokesman said two officers, wary after spotting three persons loitering near the sewer, replaced the discarded manhole cover and hid a short distance away.

He said they saw the loiterers return to the scene and remove the cover. A fourth person climbed out of the sewer, and all were arrested. A knotted rope and an iron bar were found nearby.

At first, the pre-dawn incident was thought to be an attempt to plant a bomb in a building housing the police ambulance dispatcher's office and units of the Department of Correction.

Later, however, the spokesman said the four may have been trying to get at blueprints of the jail, or possibly to slip into the jail, two blocks away, through the sewer.

BLA members being held at the jail include Joanne Chesimard, Fred Hilton and Herman Bell. The group has been charged with killing policemen and staging bank robberies.

The four arrested Thursday were identified as Bernice Jones, 23, and Harold Simmons, 29, both of New York, and Neil O. Thompson, 18, and Michael M. Alston, 19, both of Plainfield, N.J..

All were charged with burglary, criminal tampering and possession of burglar's tools.

Police said Miss Jones may be the widow of Twymon Myers, an alleged leader of the group who was killed in a gunbattle with police Nov. 14. She was carrying what appeared to be a valid marriage license showing she was Myers' wife, they said.

Rationing could force third of state's gas stations to close

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — If the federal government implements a gasoline rationing program it could mean trouble for California's 25,000 service stations.

Ray Ashwill, chairman of the California Coordinating Council of Service Station Associations, said Thursday a 35 gallon limit per driver could put one-third of stations in the state out of business.

"It would also mean those remaining in business would have to increase their costs substantially," said Ashwill, who speaks for eight major service station associations in California. "The cost of gasoline could go as high as 75 or 80 cents per gallon by June.

The Nixon administration announced a stand-by gasoline rationing plan Thursday which would limit drivers to 35 gallons a month. The rationing plan would go into effect by March if voluntary efforts failed.

Ashwill said if he were given the choice between rationing and a voluntary limit he would favor a mandatory system.

"At least the service station operators would be able to plan on the number of gallons pumped each month,' he said. "Now it is a hit and miss deal."

He forecasts that about 8,000 service stations would close if motorists are limited to 35 gallons each. He said there are between 24,000 - 26,000 stations in the state and each employs about four persons.

He said those remaining in business would have to raise their prices or they too would die a natural death. He said the labor and overhead costs of service stations are increasing as fast as other businesses.

At the same time, Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr. said thousands of Californians would be thrown out of work if the Nixon Administration limits drivers to the 35 gallons per month.

"Rationing of gasoline is inevitable," Brown said in a letter to federal energy czar William Simon, "but it is preposterous to suggest that Californians should be limited to only 35 gallons a month."

He said many residents in Los Angeles must travel over great distances to get to work and absence of adequate public transportation in that area will make it impossible for those people to get to their jobs if they get only 35 gallons a month.

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Southern California food strike talks bounced back to Los Angeles today amid angry charges and countercharges and a pessimistic feeling that the 24-day dispute would not end soon.

Federal mediator Dick Hughes called for officials of the four unions and the Food Employers Council to return into session today for the first time since their talks collapsed in Washington, D.C., one week ago.

The third round of talks is taking place under escalating pressure from organized labor on the more than 60 affected supermarket chains. The stores have managed to stay open but with growing food shortages.

In a week the county AFLCIO Federation of Labor is scheduled to meet to decide whether to throw its support to the coalition of four striking unions.

Since the supermarket dispute began Dec. 3, more than 23,000 employes have been idled. One of the chief hurdles to settlement has been a cost-of-living contract clause which the Southern California unions point to as the major concession given to unions in Northern California.

"That offer (cost-of-living clause) up there was probably made because it was a necessary one to end the strike," said Robert Fox, president of the Food Employers Council.

"But," said Fox ". . . there has never been any relationship between the Southern and Northern California (union) scales, and we're not about to start now."

Involved in the work stoppage are the Teamsters, the meat cutters, the operating engineers and the machinist unions.

Skies to clear, mercury to rise for New Year's

Cloudy skies will clear by Sunday, according to the National Weather Service, and temperatures will be slightly warmer for New Year's.

The moisture-laden clouds and fog are expected to begin dissipating Saturday afternoon, allowing temperatures to climb to a moderately warm 69.

High today will be about 60. The low tonight will be 38.

The extended outlook calls for clear, sunny skies with near 70 highs Sunday and Monday, the weatherman said.

Simon calls for volunteer effort

Don't drive, nation's students urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government has asked the nation's high school students voluntarily to give up driving to school in order to ease the energy shortage.

"The same students who responded so admirably to the environmental concerns in the past few years now have the opportunity to help relieve a related problem—the energy crisis," federal energy chief William E. Simon said Thursday.

He urged school boards and principals to ask students to cooperate and suggested that schools could restrict the use of parking lots and limit the number of pupils permitted to drive.

Simon emphasized that the "program is voluntary at this time," and any students who cannot use a school bus or public transportation should continue to use cars. He also exempted students who need cars to get to and from jobs.

Simon said that before making his announcement he checked with John R. Ottina, commissioner of education for the Health, Education and Welfare Department. Ottina endorsed the plan and urged school boards to take whatever action they deemed appropriate.

In a related development, the National Student Lobby said Thursday that a recent survey of 300 colleges and universities indicated that the energy crisis is affecting students "in nine major ways, any one of which could force the discontinuation of higher education for thousands of students."

Arthur Rodbell, executive director of the organization, listed such problems as winter closings of some campuses to conserve fuel and loss of summer employment through forced makeup sessions. Rodbell urged the administration and Congress to "treat students with the same priority given the American worker.

Texas legislator to ride horse 286 miles to opening session

MARSHALL, Tex. (UPI) — State Rep. Ben Z. Grant of Marshall figures it takes a horse to dramatize a horse-and buggy situation, so today he begins a 286-mile trip by horseback to the state capitol.

The idea began as a joke, and then became more and more real until Grant decided early this month he would ride a horse instead of a car to the Jan. 8 opening of the Texas Constitutional Convention.

"The reason I'm doing this is to dramatize the obsoleteness of the present constitution," Grant said.

The East Texas Democrat will—as best he can—mirror the first Texans who rode to the first constitutional convention in 1876. He'll carry a pistol, a Bible, be safe from arrest as long as he travels 20 miles a day and keep a watch for "Indians or other predatory bands." He's been practicing a month.

"I'm not carrying any food, but I'll try to find some places along the way to buy food," he said. "I'm carrying a lot of credit cards."

Grant, 34, said it should not take him more than 10 days for the trip, which would take six hours by car. He said he won't worry about the fuel shortage, service stations being closed or high gas prices. There might be other problems, such as no blacksmith shops.

"One (horse) I got was named 'Miss Entertainer,' but in politics that may have a name her 'Miss Liberty' or something like that," he said.

"I'm going to take a copy of the old constitution, the new constitution (prepared by the Constitutional Revision Commission), my father's old Bible and maybe a pistol if I can find one.

Some of the other laws in the 98-year-old Texas Constitution, all adding to the bulk and irrevelance of much of the document, are the reason for the trip.

Currently, the governor can call out the state militia to "suppress insurrections, repel invasions, and protect the frontier from hostile incursions by Indians and other predatory bands."

Grant must keep a steady pace, according to the old constitution.

"Senators and representatives shall, except in cases of treason, felony or breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest during the session of the legislature, and in going to and returning from the same, allowing one day for every 20 miles such member may reside from the place at which the legislature is convened," the current law says.

Grant figures his mounts walking fast can average seven to eight miles an hour. He will shift back and forth across four Tennessee Walking Horses.

"About six representatives said they'd like to ride part of the way with me through their districts," Grant said. "A lot of people find the constitution basically dull. I hope this adds a little interest."

State official sees lowering of car insurance rates

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Lower speed limits which go into effect Jan. 1 may result in as much as a 10 per cent reduction in California automobile issurance rates, according to the state's insurance commissioner.

The commissioner, Gleeson L. Payne, said that he expected reductions in California similar to the 10 per cent cut ordered in Rhode Island recently.

But unlike Rhode Island where the state ordered the cut, Payne said he expected reductions in California to come about through competition among insurance companies.

"I feel certain that there will be reductions," Payne said, "but I don't believe that anyone has the knowledge at this point to make definite statements as to what they will be."

Payne said a study was underway to determine what the accident rate in California might be after the maximum speed limit is reduced to 55 miles per hour Jan. 1. The study also is taking into account the probability that fewer vehicles will be on the road because of the energy crisis.

The information will be turned over to insurance companies for guidance in setting insurance rates, he said.

Payne said California has an "open rating" system under which carriers could offer competitive rates but that the rates are screened by the state to make sure they are neither excessive nor too low for normal competition.

Quentin inmates get Yule dinner

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (UPI) — Inmates at San Quentin Prison enjoyed a traditional Christmas roast turkey dinner despite a month-long general lock-up because of prison violence.

About 300 relatives and friends visited the prisoners Christmas Day and inmates saw a movie after their evening meal.

Police give 30 jackets to Indians

SAN MATEO (UPI) — A small band of mountain dwelling Indians were given 30 wool jackets Wednesday by the San Mateo Police Department.

"We hear they lose 20 per cent of their number each winter and we wanted to do something to help," police Sgt. Lamon Ryan said of the group, which live in unheated shacks near Bridgeport in Mono County.

Officer Ed Smith said the project was organized after the force switched from wool tunics to Eisenhower jackets.

He said the Indians were not a tribe officially recognized by the Bureau of Indian affairs and were therefore ineligible for welfare benefits.

"We hope these winter clothes will be a start," Smith said. "Then we'll see what else we can do to help."

The Indians presently live in unheated clapboard shacks on private land and are being threatened with eviction.

Board okays expansion of S.F. airport

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — By a narrow margin, the Board of Supervisors voted recently in favor of a proposed $330 million expansion of San Francisco International Airport.

By a vote of 6-4, the bare minimum needed, the supervisors adopted an environmental impact report that was required before the expansion could go ahead.

Opponents charged that the environmental report failed to deal with recent developments in the energy crisis, fuel shortages and declining passenger volume.

But William Dwyer, the airport's general manager, said it would cost $1.5 million in inflation for every month the expansion was delayed.

Dwyer said the report approved only the general expansion and that each step would be evaluated before it was carried out.

The expansion calls for construction of a new north terminal, a new control tower, enlargement of the parking garage from 3,900 to 7,800 car spaces and modernization of present terminals.

MSU ski slope crisis victim

EAST LANSING, Mich. (UPI) — Michigan State University's proposal for a ski slope built from a mountain of trash is the latest victim of the nation's energy crisis and rampant inflation.

The slope, which was banking on paper to fill a good part of its 120-foot height, is no longer a reality, according to Mark Rosenhaft, director of Michigan State's Waste Control Authority.

Paper is just too expensive to throw away, Rosenhaft said. He said that a year ago newsprint cost $6 per ton, but now it costs $38 per ton.

Michigan State is also heavily engaged in recycling paper, which is cheaper and uses less energy than creating new newsprint. The school recycles 30 tons of paper a week, making it one of the major paper recyclers in the nation.

P-B course to explore population issues

Dr. GARRETT HARDIN

Copley News Service

Dr. Garrett Hardin, whose lecture on "Was Malthus Right? The Ethical and Scientific Problems Posed by Overpopulation" will be published in the Progress-Bulletin Sunday as part of Courses by Newspaper, has distinguished himself equally in the fields of education and literature.

Dr. Hardin, professor of human ecology at the University of California, Santa Barbara, attracted national attention in 1968 with his essay, "The Tragedy of the Commons." It has been reprinted in more than two dozen anthologies.

Dr.Hardin's book, "Population, Evolution and Birth Control," has been described by his faculty colleagues as "a brilliant summation of his lifelong willingness to speak, as a biologist, on the social issues to which biological research is relevant, and to defend his unorthodox and not universally popular conclusions with the patience, objectivity and honesty that characterized the research itself."

The UC professor's best-known book is "Nature and Man's Fate," a geneal introduction to the problems of evolution. He also has published more than 150 articles and reviews.

After receiving his B.S. degree in zoology from the University of Chicago in 1936, Dr. Hardin went to Stanford University to earn his Ph.D. by 1941. During the same years he served as a Stanford research and teaching assistant.

From 1942 to 1946 he was associated with a biochemical group attached to the Division of Plant Biology of the Carnegie Institution in Washington, D.C. He has been a visiting professor at the Los Angeles and Berkeley campuses of UC, Stanford and University of Chicago.

Science for You

By BOB BROWN

PROBLEM: Molecular motion.

NEEDED: Two water glasses, water, salt, food color.

DO THIS: Put a tablespoonful of salt into a half glass of water, stir, then let the glass be still until motion of the water has stopped. Put a drop of food color into another half glass of water, then pour it into the glass of saltwater. Use a paper to prevent immediate mixing, and the colored water will be seen seen to remain above the clear saltwater.

HERE'S WHY: The saltwater is heavier. But the two liquids will not remain separated. Their molecules are in constant motion, moving in all directions, bumping into each other. This is molecular motion, also called Brownian motion, after Scottish botanist Robert Brown who first observed it.

Brownian motion takes place in all liquids and gases. A familiar example: Perfume odor soon spreads through a room even when there is no draft.

In this experiment, if not enough salt is in the water the two liquids will mix too quickly. If too much, they may remain separated for days since the mixing will be very slow. A pinch of salt may be enough. Try it.

I just got rid of an old station wagon that used to hold eight chubby Girl Scouts, a shaggy dog, nine bags of groceries and a soft drink cooler to the gallon.

But thanks to the new energy czar, William E. Simon, my husband became convinced that I should replace my wagon with a compact.

Women usually define compact as "a small case fitted with a mirror and usually designed to be carried in a purse." That's exactly what my husband bought me to carry around eight chubby Gril Scouts, a shaggy dog, nine bags of groceries and a soft drink cooler.

Don't get me wrong. I've always had nothing but respect for small cars. I think they're neat the way you park them in hotel lobbies, and women have babies in them if they are pressed for time, and how, when they wear out, they make wonderful planters for the bathroom, but they take a lot of adjusting to.

The other night I dropped by church with my big shaggy dog, my nine bags of groceries and my soft drink cooler to pick up my eight chubby Girl Scouts. "Okay, girls," I said, "we're playing a new game tonight called 'Simon Says.'"

They giggled and clapped their chubby hands. "Simon says take eight giant steps forward and prepare your bodies for the car. Simon says we will all lift our knees to our chests and at the same time touch our left ears to our shoulder blades.

"Wonderful, Simon says empty your pockets, point your body inward and tuck in all the flapping appendages like arms, elbows, heads and legs.

"Now, Simon says back into the car, being careful not to impale yourself on the stick shift or crack your skull against the door frame and at no time should your body touch the seat.

"Simon says stagger yourselves on the seat with one sitting back and the other sitting forward and the two on the ends with their legs slung through the door handles to relieve the tension.

"Girls," I said, "I'm proud of you. Simon has one more request. Simon says you must all stop breathing until the driver is wedged in her seat and has the only foot in the car on the accelerator pedal."

It took a while, but the car was finally loaded and we were off. "Okay, gang," I said, "you can breathe now."

The dog let out a sigh and I jammed on the brakes and we shoved him out the door. "I didn't say Simon says," I explained.

Sometimes I get the feeling he doesn't take the energy crisis seriously at all.

If passing blood,

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Approximately three years ago I started being constipated. I was advised by my doctor to take one Dulcolax a day. Then I had to take two and finally three a day for action. The doctor changed me to another laxative, but it did not have the same results for me so I continued the three Dulcolax with one of the new laxative tablets each day. The contents were red and I assumed the coloring was from the new laxative which was red tablets. Now after reading one of your columns I suspect it was blood. If I take nothing I am constipated and with the laxatives I have blood.

Is cereal fiber in my daily diet advisable? What laxatives are bulk expanders?

DEAR READER — You've got a problem. The first thing to do is find out for sure if you are passing blood and what it is caused by. No one should neglect to see a physician as soon as possible after passing blood. I don't mean to scare you, but people must understand that unexplained bleeding is one of the signs of cancer and the only way you can be sure whether it is or is not by a good examination. If it is and is treated early, many of these problems can be cured.

It's true that you can have simple bleeding from internal hemorrhoids. But, never make the mistake of presuming that is the cause of your blood. Some hemorrhoids develop because of pressure inside the rectum. This may be from constipation, but it can also be from a tumor mass above the hemorrhoids. A good examination may save your life in that case.

Hopefully you really don't have such a serious problem, but you will still have the problem of a chronic laxative habit and you can't do much for it by taking more laxatives. You will need careful supervision, a proper diet and training to develop a good bowel habits.

Yes, most normal people require, a reasonable amount of bulk in their diet. You can get it by including branflakes and whole grain cereals in your diet (ordinary rice, however, does not have much residual bulk). Oatmeal, whole wheat products and bran flakes are all good for this purpose. You should also make it a point to include in your diet whole wheat baked products such as real whole wheat bread made exclusively from whole wheat flour. Avoid all white flour products.

The bulk laxative products are those that are agar-agar or those made from pysillium seeds. A common one available is Metamucil. Even these should be repalced by a good normal diet and good bowel habits, where possible.

You had better see a doctor about that bleeding pronto, and let him help get you on the right track for good bowel habits. And in the future, don't build up on laxatives. It can be a bad habit regardless of what product you use.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, in care of The Progress-Bulletin, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on constipation, send 50 cents to the same address and ask for "Constipation" booklet.

Family trades city dwelling with rats, for a tent along lake's shore

DALLAS (UPI) — Matthew, a pudgy, red-haired boy, giggles behind the green flap of the main tent while his three brothers race along the shores of windy Lake Ray Hubbard.

The Blackmans—Toni, Bob and the five children including a 6-month-old daughter, got fed up with noisy neighbors, heavy traffic and rats three months ago. They pitched a tent among the oak trees for a little peace and quiet.

"The neighbors were all the time drinking, and cursing and carrying on, and would yell through the walls," said Toni. "It was really a buildup over a period of years, and we finally got to the point where we'd really rather be out by ourselves."

Toni and her husband, both in their early 30s, set up the tent along a creek 100 yards from the lake and built a brick stove in the dirt.

"We've been out here about three months and the kids evidently are much healthier, getting fresh air and sun shine. If it was where we could, we'd stay here indefinitely."

The problem is the reservoir manager, Walter Lane, who said the Blackmans will have to move on.

"We can't let it (the camp) be there, one will bring another and the next thing we know we got a whole shoreline of migrants and squatters," Lane said.

"It's primarily a health problem, a health and sanitation problem," he said. "There's no personal animosity involved. Rules are rules. If you let one do that everyone will want to."

Mrs. Blackman said she understands about the health problem, but feels the family has been helping the lake rather than hurting it.

"We've been clean, in fact we cleaned up a bunch of junk when we came here. We keep it clean.

"People down here at the water utilities came out and told us that people have been coming out here and seeing us and they don't like the idea of us being out here," she said.

"We've been called hippies, but we're not. Really, we're just trying to enjoy ourselves— they don't like for us to do that."

She said the family spends most of the day fishing, hunting and dredging up returnable bottles. Occasionally, Bob Blackman takes the boys into town, when he's not working at a paint and body shop.

One thing she said she doesn't miss is television.

"I'd rather be here than be in town having the television going all the time, and never get out and never get any sunshine. When I was in town I was always watching television," she said.

Mrs. Blackman, who wears blue jeans, a long-sleeve plaid shirt and a faded white straw hat, said if it wasn't for the pressure from the water utilities, they'd probably be there indefinitely.

"If it wasn't for the problems we'd live here like this all the time, if there was no one telling us we couldn't do it."

She said they will either stay by the lake, or try to move further into the country.

"We are working on trying to get a small farm somewhere, getting a cow, some goats and sheep," she said.

"In the long run its a lot better, we're not missing a thing—really we're not."

How standby gas rationing plan would work—questions, answers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Some key questions and answers on how the standby gasoline rationing system announced Thursday would work:

Q. When would rationing be put into effect?

A. Energy Director William E. Simon would not give the exact "peril point" but said it could not be before March 1, and not at all unless the crisis deepens.

J. What factors go into the decision?

A. The amount of "leakage" of oil around the Arab embargo, the success of voluntary conservation, production changes in this country, and whether Americans wind up in long lines at gasoline stations for hours at a time.

Q. How will it work, if put into effect?

A. Each licensed driver over 18 would get an authorization card. Then he would get gasoline coupons monthly, based on a need-for-gas system, good for certain amounts. He would turn them in when buying gas. He could buy coupons from other individuals willing to sell.

Q. Why wasn't the standby rationing plan based on the number of autos, rather than the number of drivers?

A. Officials said there is less turnover of licenses, year to year, and the states generally have better systems of monitoring licenses. Also, being licensed to drive is not dependent upon one's income, as is ownership of a car.

Q. How much gasoline would a driver get?

A. Experts estimate if the system were in effect now, the supply would allow about 30 to 35 gallons a month per driver.

Q. Why not put the rationing into effect immediately?

A. Simon said Americans have responded well enough to voluntary actions that they may stave off rationing. Time will tell, he said.

Q. Who would administer the system?

A. Local rationing boards.

Q. How much would it cost?

A. About $1.5 billion a year, which officials hope would be paid for by fees for coupons. Each monthly package would cost $1.

Q. What price would a driver pay who wanted to buy more coupons from friends or somebody else?

A. Whatever the market will bear.

Q. What determines the need-for-gas criteria on which coupon distribution would be based?

A. Each driver would get coupons based generally on the population density of the are in which he lives, and on the availability of mass transit.

Q. Couldn't coupons be counterfeited?

A. "About as difficult as counterfeiting a dollar bill," one official said.

Southland VA chief replaced over snafu

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The director of the Veterans Administration Southern California region, Gordon Elliott, has been replaced in the wake of a massive snafu that delayed payments to thousands of student veterans for months, bringing down the anger of President Nixon.

In a continuing crash program ordered by Nixon to straighten out the foulup, the VA office has taken to handing out cash to disgruntled veterans because check processing procedures have become so tangled.

Expert help has been flown in from around the country, and under presidential orders, the staff is working weekends and holidays until the situation is straightened out.

Elliott, 57, a career VA executive with more than 30 years in federal service, has taken "an indefinite administrative leave," the chief VA benefits director, Odell W. Vaughn, said in Washington Wednesday.

"The present situation apparently got beyond Elliott's management control, although he has one of the best records among VA executives," Vaughn said.

John G. Miller, described as a top administrator from the Washington VA office, was sent to take charge of the tangle.

At one time, an estimated 5,000 veterans attending colleges in Southern California were up to four months behind in receiving monthly benefits of from $220 to $300. Campus veterans groups said many of them had to quit school to support themselves, and others are living on food stamps, or loans from families and friends, dodging notices and bill collectors.

VA officials said computers sent checks to the wrong schools, wrong persons, out of the state entirely or did not send any checks at all.

Workers began processing checks by hand last week, paying about 2,000 veterans. A veterans' group wired a complaint to Nixon. Saturday, Nixon ordered the VA to keep the Los Angeles staff at work through the weekend, Christmas eve, Christmas, and through the New Year's weekend if necessary.

About 670 veterans were paid off during the four-day holiday, including 93 who were summoned to the VA office Christmas Day and handed $89,000 in cash.

"These are extraordinary measures but these are extraordinary circumstances," said Emmett Brasseux, assistant regional director.

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Predicting that the price of gasoline would soon reach $1 per gallon, Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, today said the government should have begun gas rationing a month ago.

"No rationing is a politically popular position," Moss said. "But in my opinion, three months down the road, we will have to go to it. And by that time, we will be in bad shape to implement it because we waited so long."

Moss made the comments during a press breakfast at the same time federal energy chief William E. Simon announced he was setting up a stand-by system of rationing that would provide drivers up to 35 gallons per month.

Moss said if gas rationing had been set up a month ago the administration would have had time to work out the bugs before fuel shortages became critical.

"Gas will go to $1 per gallon here in Salt Lake City," Moss said. "But if it were rationed, we would have a better chance of holding the price down."

Tse Senator said one easy way to quickly set up a rationing system would be to convert selective service boards to rationing boards. The boards are still in operation, even though the military draft has been discontinued.

"Use the machinery that is already set up," Moss suggested. "Let the local boards issue coupons."

Informal quip on formal occasion

LONDON (UPI) — It was a happy, romantic scene—most of it, anyway.

In pictures shown on television during Queen Elizabeth's annual Christmas message, Princess Anne was about to take a second bow on the balcony of Buckingham Palace after her wedding, but first she had a quiet order to issue.

By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: Two questions, please, about Stinky, our skunk. The first one, his nails seem rather long. Should they be cut? The second, if Stinky stays healthy, how long can we expect him to live? — K.L.

Dear K.L.: Yes, his nails probably should be cut. Overly long nails in this species as with many others, could, conceivably cause foot problems as with many others, could, conceivably cause foot problems even if they didn't ever become caught or snagged in something.

Stinky should make it, with luck, at least another two or three years and, hopefully, he can do even better than that. Some of the little Stinkers stick around as long as 12 to 14 years.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Do you recommend a dry shampoo or cleaning powder for dogs in the winter time so you can keep them dry? — A.Y.

Dear A.Y.: If your dog is one of those who goes out in the rain without a raincoat, and many do, he will get just as wet as if you hadn't used a dry shampoo. If he is kept inside, he could be considerably cleaner when a quality dry shampoo is properly used though not nearly as clean as when a wet shampoo combined with that liquid ingredient water is used for the cleansing process.

Certainly the wet approach is preferable, regardless of the season, if the dog is really dirty. In the colder months, considerably more care will have to be given to protect the bathed dog from chilling, particularly until he is completely dry.

DEAR DR. MILLER: If Lickety Split was an adolescent cat, we might understand his change of voice. But he isn't. It just seems strange for a middle-aged cat to suddenly change his voice. He used to have a very commanding call whether he needed something or not. Now the best he can do is a feeble, bird-like chirp. My husband's grateful for the change. My feelings are mixed. Do I need to worry that there is anything wrong with him when he seems perfectly healthy? Does such a voice change indicate anything in particular? R.W.

Dear R.W.: Lickety Split's loss of vocal power undoubtedly means something. Odds are the change is physical: A chronic allergy could cause his vigorless vocalizing; a cause of greater concern would be a malignancy. Adequate examination of the throat might require anesthesia and instrumentation. Certainly the doctor can't determine the significance of this voice change without a thorough examination. This is, of course, indicated.

Murder trial continued to hear appeals

SAN BERNARDINO — Trial for three men accused of murdering four Grand Terrace residents Oct. 15 has been continued until Jan. 7 until appeals can be heard by the Fourth District Court of Appeal here.

Superior Court Judge Edward P. Fogg ordered the continuance Wednesday on the request of the defense attorneys, who said they are asking the District Court of Appeal and the California Supreme Court to overturn rulings made by Judge Fogg in pre-trial hearings.

Judge Fogg denied a request for a change of venue outside of San Bernardino County.

The three men, Norbert Deiter Meier, 31; Edward J. Montoya, 33; and Phillip Elwon Walters, 42, are accused of kidnaping and slaying Meier's estranged wife, Dorothy Sanchez, 34, her two children by a former marriage, Toni, 15, and David, 14, and a family friend, John McGrail, 19, all of Grand Terrace on Oct. 15.

All were found beaten and stabbed to death near Lost Lake in the Cajon Pass area three days after they were reported missing. A $7,000 ransom was paid for their release and later recovered by sheriff's investigators.

Further pre-trial hearings in the case were referred to Judge Richard C. Garner who will assume criminal calendar duties after the first of the year.

CLAREMONT —City Atty. William G. Bergman Jr. has reported that, in his opinion, "the city cannot legally charge property owners for the city's watering of trees in the front of their property."

The Parkway and Tree Commission has been considering additions to the city's street tree ordinance, and one such addition would be the city's billing a property owner when the city must water a city tree on private property.

But Bergman has said that such proposed billing could not be enforced because there is no enabling legislation to permit such action.

Parks and Recreation Director Fred Hawkins said it is possible that an attempt to create special districts would aggravate the existing problems.

Hawkins said that some property owners refuse to water the city tree in the parkway or in the city easement on their front lawn, and consequently the trees die and must be replaced.

Claremont has been a city noted for its 14,000 trees imported from throughout the world.

'One hell of a year for tornadoes'

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — The tornado season is like a migratory bird, says Allen Pearson of the National Severe Storms Forecast Center, and currently it's swooping down across the South.

Tornadoes were reported this week near Mobile and Sylacauga, Ala., and there were warnings of flash flooding in parts of Alabama, Mississippi, Tennessee and North Carolina.

Pearson said the storms are part of a 15-month-long stretch of unusual weather that has spawned more than 1,100 tornadoes in 1973 alone. That figure, Pearson said, is 1-½ times as many as the average figure of 700.

"In a five-day period in late May we had 13 more tornadoes reported than we had in the entire year of 1931," Pearson said. "We know there's better reporting now, but by any standard that's one hell of a year for tornadoes."

There were 115 tornadoes reported in the May period—known among forecasters as the "Memorial Day weekend outbreak," including one that was on the ground for 135 miles in southern Alabama.

Pearson said record numbers of Tornadoes were reported this year in Arkansas, Missouri, Mississippi, Kentucky, North Carolina, Tennessee, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, New Jersey and the country as a whole. The death toll stands at 89.

"We're delighted that the death toll isn't any higher than the 89 thus far. There've been several cases where effective warning has saved hundreds of lives," Pearson said.

The forecaster credited a tornado watch and warning for saving "several hundred lives" during the May storm in Alabama. Another example was in Sumner, Miss., where students were evacuated minutes before a tornado struck their school April 24. A mobile home park operator in Salina, Kan., alerted 80 tenants minutes before a twister destroyed 35 of the homes Sept. 25.

Average American paying more in taxes than for food or clothing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The average American pays more in taxes than he does for food, shelter or clothing.

President Nixon, of course, is not an average American. Neither are 18,645 other wealthy Americans who, in 1970, got caught, along with the President, by the minimum tax reform act.

That law was passed in 1969, the result of revelations that quite a number of wealthy Americans were getting a free ride in the United States, paying no federal income taxes.

It was all legal, merely making use of what popularly were known as tax loopholes, but which the tax writers called tax preferences.

Faced with a taxpayer revolt, Congress set to work to reform the tax laws. It became a losing battle against vested interests —although not all of the entrenched lobbies represented special interests. Some of the loopholes or preferences had broad public objectives as their original goals.

They ranged from oil depletion allowances to the capital gains tax which allows half of the income to go tax free, from quick depreciation for real estate to the tax free status of income from state and local government bonds. There are at least 54 separately identified tax preferences.

The pressures made it an impossible task for Congress. Instead of ending the preferences, Congress passed what became known as the "minimum tax payment" for the wealthy. It provided for a 10 per cent tax on incomes over $30,000 a year where use of tax preferences would have brought the federal income tax payment down to zero. In other words, a catchall to see that all the wealthy at least paid something.

It didn't quite work out that way.

When an analysis was made of the 1970 tax returns, it was found that 374 persons with incomes of $100,000 or more paid no tax. Twenty-two of those privileged people had incomes during the year totaling more than half a million dollars each. Three had incomes of more than $1 million apiece.

For them, the minimum tax payment didn't work at all. The reason: Congress didn't include all the tax preferences in the minimum tax payment, and the minimum tax alone had exemptions.

So it turned out that there were loopholes within loopholes.

The first year of operation of the minimum tax did catch 18,646 Americans, among them the President. For in that year, like the 18,645 others, Nixon was able to claim more deductions than income. In his 1970 return, Nixon listed $263,000 income, with $307,000 deductions.

In previous years, with deductions exceeding income, Nixon and the 18,645 others would have paid no tax. But under the reform bill, they paid their minimum tax. It amounted to $116,875,000.

Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., known as a leading reformer, figures out that those 18,646 wealthy individuals paid an average tax of less than 7 per cent —about what an individual with an income of about $6,500 would have paid that year.

Reuss labels that little more than "a love tap" for the wealthy. He figures out that the average payment under the minimum tax was $6,268.

Feel Egyptians don't want it

Israeli GIs pessimistic about peace talks

SUEZ CITY, Israeli-occupied Egypt (UPI) — The Israeli soldiers who fought in the October war don't seem hopeful about prospects of the Geneva peace talks.

"I don't think anything will come out of the Geneva peace conference," a 20-year-old soldier from Netanya said. He was guarding a small wooden plank bridge thrown over a sweetwater stream near this encircled city.

"I'm ready to give back everything—all the territories—if the Arabs want a real peace," he said. "But they're not talking about peace, just a peace settlement."

Israeli leaders on the homefront have said one priority at the talks was to get a definition from the Arabs on just what they mean by peace.

The military command has barred foreign newsmen from interviewing troops on the battlefield or using their names. The command had permitted interviews and the use of rank and first names of officers and troops until little more than a week ago.

One soldier looked across the Suez Canal to the Egyptian 3rd army trapped on the opposite Sinai bank. He came to Israel from the United States 18 months ago to live on a kibbutz.

"You know why I'm not so optimistic about Geneva?" he said. "These Egyptians in the 3rd army are the best example. They're in the worst state of all because we have encircled them but they don't believe it.

"We've drawn them pictures in the sand here when they come over to pick up supplies and we try to show them how they're encircled. But they think they're encircling us."

Finnish U.N. troops drive Egyptian trucks filled with supplies from Cairo to a former U.N. observation post on the west bank of the canal. Egyptian troops ferry across in a barge and amphibious armored personnel carriers to pick up the supplies. The troops are unarmed.

Another soldier, a university student from Haifa, watched as his buddies tested a bazooka on a grassy roadside field outside the shell-devastated Suez city.

"I don't know what will be at Geneva," he said. "We want peace. It's the Egyptians who don't want it. We're ready to compromise on many things. But they must be ready also."

"We don't want this place," he said tersely. "That's why were hoping for good results at Geneva."

There's a catch to this tale

Fishing trip ends with ride aboard two wild porpoises

By LESTER C. KJOS

CAPE ELEUTHERA, The Bahamas (UPI) — A surprising part of it was that when we got back here, everybody believed us.

There were a lot of, "oh reallys' and even one simple, "gee," when we told how we had jumped in the water and played with two wild porpoises.

George Hartwell of Miami and this writer had just returned from a fishing trip several miles down the shore where we were accosted by two young dolphins out for a good time.

We hitched roller coaster rides by holding tightly to a dorsal fin or by hugging the seven-foot, 250-pound dolphins around the middle. We petted them on their backs, tickled them under the chin and were on the receiving end of some delightful nuzzling.

It went on for nearly 45 minutes and it was close to the experience of a lifetime. A boyhood dream come true.

It was nice to feel that there are some wild creatures— maybe a lot of them—out there, who are not afraid of human beings and even enjoy cutting up with them a little.

Wrong. I guess we knew all the time it was too good to be true.

Mercenaries, that's what they were.

First we were told by marine scientists that wild porpoises absolutely will not be that friendly without months and months of training.

Then Dr. Jesse White, a marine veterinarian hired to take care of the animals for a yet-to-be-released movie entitled, "The Day of the Dolphin," told us that our two friends were "Candy" and "Bubbles," highly trained underwater stars of the film.

The fun loving dolphins were captured off the Florida coast in the fall of 1972, trained for a year and then used for two weeks filming before they were released at the insistence of White and director Mike Nichols.

They were given their freedom between the out islands of Abaco, where the filming was done, and Eleuthera. After less than a day, the two young females started to get hungry, cast off their easy life of dead fish and began hunting again.

Perhaps their hunger and perhaps the approach of a tropical storm drove them more than 100 miles south to southern Eleuthera, an easy trip for aquatic athletes who can travel at speeds over 30 miles an hour.

Within nine days they reached a lovely, isolated inlet of clear water, mangroves and sand where they spotted a small boat carrying two fishermen and a wizened Bahamian guide.

Candy and Bubbles decided it was time to quit traveling and have some fun.

I saw the fins first. We had been wading unsuccessfully for bonefish and had run across a half-dozen small sharks, which added to the adventure, although not the danger. At first, I thought the fins were sharks.

"Hey, look at that," I said realizing as I spoke I was looking at a pair of porpoises. As if I had called them, they approached and did some diving and jumping, putting on a close range marine circus.

Then the idea hit Hartwell. "Hey, this is something I've always wanted to do—swim with dolphins." Lest our new friends decide to flee, George frantically ripped off his shirt, tore off his watch, emptied his pockets and splashed into clear water up to his chest.

As Hartwell describes it:

"I reached out, grabbed a dorsal fin and held on. I don't remember this part too well—just a surge of adrenalin and a burst of speed as the dolphin turned on their afterburners.

The dolphin shook Hartwell off then came back around again and he took another ride.

This looked like a lot of fun.

Forgetting to take off my shirt or empty my pockets, I was in the water. Bubbles came by and I petted her on the back.

Thinking about the family cat, I scratched her under the chin. She circled, but then came back, laid her head on my shoulder and nuzzled my neck.

The antics went on and on. George took a ride by grabbing Candy around the middle, but when she dived for a few seconds, he came up coughing and choking.

I tried a two-dolphin tandem by grabbing a friendly fin in each hand. That one didn't last too long either, because Candy and Bubbles decided to go their separate ways.

Strangely, personal safety never occurred to us. But in the boat we could hear Fred Wright, our guide, repeating, again and again; "I guess they wouldn't hurt a soul. I guess they wouldn't hurt a soul.'

Seawise Fred Wright was nervous.

It wasn't Candy and Bubbles that quit. We did. It wasn't fear, and it certainly wasn't boredom. I think maybe that after awhile we just didn't know how to act. Hartwell's theory is that "maybe we were too anxious to get back to the dock and tell our story."

Looking back, it was nice to think that it was possible to have that good a time with a pair of wild creatures. It was disappointing to learn they had been trained, but the disappointment quickly faded.

After all, nuzzling with a movie starlet ain't half bad.

Rattles & straws

By JOSEPH FIRMAN

"Daddy, can I have my nickel allowance?"

Do you remember your child, a grimy little palm out thrust, coming to you with that innocent demand? Do you remember what a nickel was?

A nickel used to buy a candy bar, a soft drink, a cup of coffee. Maybe the Harding Administration wasn't the highlight of the 20th Century, but you could still get a good cigar for five cents.

Now we have what is called Inflation, and five cents won't even buy a nickel. A penny saved is .02 cents earned. Sound as a dollar means you should be in the intensive care unit at your local hospital (rooms $110 a day).

How much allowance a child should get—and when and why—is one of the most ticklish questions to arise the the cold war of American family life. It depends upon the family's economic status, the age of the child, and the guile or gullibility of the father.

When the lad is a toddler, he regards his father's pocket as a cornucopia from which flows an inexhaustible stream of those shiny coins that can be exchanged for an ice cream cone or a balloon or a comic book. As he grows older his outlook doesn't change, except that he begins demanding more and larger coins and eventually begins to take an interest in the folding green.

In desperation, many parents employ a stunt called an "allowance," in the vain hope that they will instill some responsibility and business acumen in the little leech, or at least get some work out of him in exchange for the weekly banditry. Alas.

"If you don't sweep the sidewalk, son," you say, "you won't get your allowance."

"That's okay. I got $3 for baby-sitting last night."

"Well you're going to sweep the walk anyway, see?"

This sort of breakdown is bad for parental morale even if it does get the sidewalk swept—no more than a 50-50 chance.

Some fathers put their youngsters on a clothing allowance. This does not work. The kid spends the money on Beatles records and double malts and marches off to school with his toes sticking through his tennies. Well, the child HAS to have shoes, of course, so. . . .

"Gee, Dad, all the other guys in my class get a dollar a week allowance" is such a popular refrain it ought to be part of the national anthem. Let one father weaken, and he betrays every other father in Room 4-B.

Energy crunch hits Pitcairn islanders

GLENDALE, Calif. (UPI) — The energy crisis has penetrated to one of the worlds remotest communities — Pitcairn Island, where live the descendants of the British sailors who staged the mutiny on the Bounty.

All gasoline-powered travel has been suspended on the tiny island in the South Pacific between Australia and South America, according to a report Wednesday by Tom Christian, the island radio operator. He is a seventh generation descendant of Lt. Fletcher Christian, who in 1789 led the mutiny against Royal Navy Capt. William Bligh which became the subject of books and movies.

The island has one four-wheeled vehicle and several motorbikes.

All of the kerosene powered refrigerators have also been shut off, Christian reported, and the shortage of fuel for electrical generators drove the islanders to revive a Christmas custom of their British and Polynesian ancestors — "We sang Christmas carols in the square of Adamstown using doodwinut torches for light,' he reported. "They give off a good light, but it's pretty smoky."

Milwaukee's Rose parade entry

40 tons of nostalgia on view at county fairgrounds

POMONA — Pomona Valley residents have several opportunities to view the famed Schlitz 40-horse hitch close up this weekend at the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds and again next Thursday on the Pomona Mall.

The 40-horse hitch will represent Old Milwaukee Days, a six-day celebration in Milwaukee in July, in Tuesday's Tournament of Roses parade.

The Belgian draft horses, one ton each, are harnessed four abreast and 10 deep, and are being stabled at the fairgrounds during their brief stay in the valley.

They may be seen Sunday and Monday at the fairgrounds from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Guards at the main gate will direct visitors to the stable area.

The mares and geldings, closely matching in size and color, are light sorrel with blond manes and tails, and from five to six feet tall.

The 40 horses will be taken to the corner of Eleanor and Second streets at the east end of the Mall between 1:30 and 2 p.m. Thursday, where they will be driven westward on the Mall about 3 p.m.

The team will make an appearance at Universal City Jan. 4, the Queen Mary Jan. 5, and start their homeward journey Jan. 7 back to Zearing, Iowa where they are taken care of by Dick Sparrow, farmer and draft horse breeder.

The 40-horse hitch is a re-creation of a 19th and early 20th century spectacle featured by major circuses in street parades, and the horses in the 1974 Rose Parade will pull a new five-ton, 22-foot-long, 12-foot-high bandwagon introduced in the 1974 Milwaukee Fourth of July spectacle.

The 1974 parade's theme, "Happiness is . . . " which grew out of the "Peanuts" cartoon strip, will be shown on the Forty bandwagon with "Happiness Is the Circus Parade" spelled out in fresh flowers. Charles M. Schulz, creator of "Peanuts," will be grand marshal.

Sparrow, 43, who drives the 135-foot-long team and bandwagon single-handedly, has driven big teams for years, including 12- and 16-horse hitches.

The Forty's appearance on the Mall has been scheduled through the cooperation of the Central Business District and Tuck McGuire, local Schlitz distributor.

About 500 persons turned out Thursday morning in the fairgrounds infield where members of the media snapped pictures of the huge draft horses pulling the giant circus bandwagon.

Sparrow's Forty is the first time a 40-horse hitch had been driven since 1904 when Barnum and Bailey ended an era of circus history by disbanding its Forty.

Brides must get rubella tests

POMONA — Beginning Jan. 1, all female applicants for marriage licenses must have a health certificate indicating that a test for rubella (German measles) has been performed, Los Angeles County Clerk Clarence Cabell announced.

The requirement satisfies new provisions of the state Civil Code and existing requirements for a marriage health certificate.

The only exemptions are women over 50; women who have had surgical sterilization; and women who can present laboratory evidence that they are immune to rubella.

A high percentage of young women who contract rubbella during pregnancy frequently deliver infants with hearing, vision or heart impairments, medical authorities have reported.

40-HORSE HITCH The famed Schlitz Belgian draft horses, weighing in at one ton each, will appear in the Pasadena Tournament of Roses parade on Tuesday. They represent Old Milwaukee Days and are matched in pairs.

Outlook for '74 will be mayor's breakfast theme

POMONA — "The Outlook for 1974" will be the theme of a talk by Mayor Ray J. Lepire at a Mayor's Breakfast Jan. 10, sponsored by the Pomona Jaycees.

The program, at Buffums Palomares Room, will start at 7:30 a.m. and is open to the general public.

A question-and-answer period will follow the mayor's informal talk.

The breakfast will include juice, coffee, ham, egg souffle and a roll.

Tickets are $2.25 per person. Advance reservations may be made by calling the Pomona Chamber of Commerce office at 622-1256. Checks or money orders may be mailed to the Pomona Jaycees, Post Office Box 285, Pomona 91769. Tickets also will be sold at the door.

Welfare Department pays babysitting claim

I hope you can help me get some money from the San Bernardino County Welfare Department.

More than two months ago the department hired my wife to baby sit. She was to start at the first of the month, be paid at the end of the month and the first check would be two weeks late due to the paper work that needed to be done.

She still hasn't received the first month's check. First she was told there was an audit problem that woul delay her pay check. Then she was told that the paperwork was never processed. Next she was told there was a mixup as to which office was going to pay her.

Today I was told the department had switched to a new system and it would still take more time before she received her check.

We are not wealthy people and need the money for food and bills.

It doesn't seem right that an employer can go this long without paying its employes, especially for such poor reasons.

I would like to know what can be done to keep this from happening to us or to anyone else again. — J. K., Pomona.

When we talked to your wife on the phone, she was so angry it was difficult to get a lucid account of the baby-sitting arrangements.

We learned from Paul Morsen, public relations officer of the welfare department, that you had been hired to baby sit your sister's children while she participated in the work incentive program known as WIN at th Chino Airport.

He said the mixup was definitely the department's fault and the delay had resulted from a series of unfortunate incidents connected with procedure changes.

Morsen said your wife would be getting her pay within a week. It took a couple of days longer, perhaps because of the holiday mail, but she has received $182 for the baby sitting she did during the first two months of her employment.

A month ago I applied for an automobile insurance policy. The price given me was lower than the amount I was paying on my policy with another company.

I wrote a check in the amount of $47 and gave it to the agent. About five days later the same agent said he had made an error on the policy and needed another $33.

At that time I told him to cancel the policy because it was then more expensive than the policy I already had. I was told it would be taken care of and that I would receive a refund check for $47 within a week.

I went to my bank to cancel payment on the check but it had already been processed.

Today I received a bill for $33 "still owed" on the policy I was told would be canceled.

I still have not received my refund. I have called the agent several times and have obtained no results. I must admit I am very upset about this whole affair. — A R., Pomona.

Your agent told us the increase in the premium came about because he thought you were 30 years old. You are 29 and therefore are subject to a higher rate.

The bill you got for $33 apparently resulted from a delay in office procedures. You now have received your $47 refund.

I sent a money order for $4.95 to Riverside Council in New York for a book called "Manual of Total Sexual Love."

Although I have written to the company twice, I haven't received the book. I would prefer the book to a refund.

In reply to an Action Line letter, we were informed that the book has been shipped to you. The answer was initialed by a Riverside Council representative but it arrived in a Climax Productions envelope.

New law career is starting for 1960 PHS grad

POMONA — Casimir A. Wilson, son of Mrs. Lorraine Wilson of 278 McKinley Ave. was admitted to the California bar during ceremonies recently in San Francisco.

Wilson plans to enter private practice in the Bay Area.

The young attorney was graduated from Pomona High School in 1960, and from Harvey Mudd College in Claremont in 1964.

He served in the Air Force from 1964 to 1970, leaving as a captain. He was a pilot. He attended law school at the University of Santa Clara and was graduated cum laude last May.

Telephone Co. pays $21.8 million taxes

The General Telephone Co. has paid nearly $21.8 million in Los Angeles County for city and county property taxes, officials said.

Statewide, the utility paid more than $30 million as its first installment on ad valorem taxes for 1973-74. Of that sum, $2.2 million went to San Bernardino County, $1.6 million to Riverside County and $14,363 to Imperial County.

The tax dollars paid by the utility come out of charges for services billed to General Telephone Co. customers.

Ex-Claremonter now administrator of L.A. County

A former Claremont city clerk is the new public administrator of Los Angeles County.

Bruce Allan Altman, 36, is resigning as city manager of Simi Valley to take the county position left vacant two years ago when the Board of Supervisors fired Baldo M. Kristovich for misuse of office.

Altman served as Claremont city clerk and assistant to then City Manager Richard Malcolm from 1961 to 1964.

He left to become city manager of Newark, Calif., the position he held before he moved to Simi Valley.

Altman is a graduate of Arizona State University where he majored in public administration.

He was chosen by the Board of Supervisors after he placed second on the list of eligibles in a civil service examination. He will be the county's youngest department head.

Fanciful cuts gone or going

Early findings in a seven-state survey indicate that consumers are responding favorably to the national voluntary standardized meat-labeling program introduced by the meat industry.

Gone, or going, are the fancifully named cuts — the "charcoal steaks," "his and her steaks," "London broils," "Pike's Peak roasts" — that are colorful but don't tell a shopper very much about what he or she is buying.

Many stores now display charts showing the different beef, pork and lamb cuts prepared by the National Live Stock and Meat Board.

According to the board, which has been co-ordinating the uniform meat-labeling program developed by an industrywide Meat Identification Standards Committee, consumer response has been "extremely favorable" in the nation's stores and supermarkets.

The labeling system was actually proposed long before the meat boycott of last April and the furor over beef prices during the summer. Executives from the meat industry and supermarket chains met for 16 months with representatives from the U.S. Department of Agriculture,the White House's Office for Consumer Affairs and the Council of Better Business Bureaus to refine the master list for uniform cuts.

A number of state and local government units have adopted or are considering adopting the industry's standards as the basis for new mandatory labeling codes.

"In the old days, the butcher behind the counter advised housewives on good, nutritious cuts of meat and how to prepare them," says the president of one supermarket chain, "but that personal touch disappeared with the spread of self-service markets. I think this new program will go a long way toward restoring a closer relationship between shopper and retailer."

Gerald Ford, super Veep

When Gerald Ford was greeted by the U.S. Senate as its new President—the sole constitutional prerogative of his new position as Vice President—it was rather amiably made perfectly clear to him that he was to be a presiding officer and nothing more; that the only two words he could speak as a participant in Senate procedures are "Yes" or "No," when casting a tie-breaking vote.

This is the fate of Vice Presidents. Or has been. In the case of the popular former Congressman it is beginning to look as if the "heartbeat" role will be expanded into a meaningful participation in executive affairs.

In the first place, Ford was selected in great part because of the high esteem in which he is held in the federal legislative branch, where he served for 25 years. President Nixon hopes that his new Vice President can actively repair and make much more productive and cordial the relations between the White House and Capitol Hill.

Additionally, it is evident that the President intends to place Ford in charge of his Domestic Council to coordinate the President's domestic program. That is the job Melvin Laird is leaving and it was his idea that Ford take over the responsibilities. Altho the Vice President is allowed to sit in on Cabinet meetings, the role as Council leader would make that participation very much more significant and productive.

Gerald Ford is shaping up as a sort of super Veep, certainly a unique one. The first to be put into office without a vote of the people he already is taking strides to shatter another tradition, that of anonymity.

A new year's resolution

Just in time for the season of merry-making, Listen magazine reports new findings about the nature of sleep and the effects of the familiar hangover.

Using an electroencephalograph, Dr. William Demont of California has found that when you sleep with dreams, there is a better chance you will wake up calm and relaxed. Dreamless sleep, on the other hand, results in an unusually tense and irritable feeling the morning after.

In France, studies by a Dr. Michel Jeuvet show that alcohol reduces the amount of dreaming time. He has found that dreaming cannot begin unless there are the right amounts of three brain chemicals present: serotonin monamine oxidase and noradrenalin. Alcohol, says Dr. Jouvet, prevents the formation of monamine oxidase, thus creating a non-dreaming state.

A possible explanation of a hangover then may be that too much drinking results in too little dreaming — of pink elephants or anthing else.

Congressman seeks to free Russians

WASHINGTON — In an international intrigue worthy of James Bond, a mild, bespectacled congressman has been called on by wild Burmese rebels to negotiate the freedom of two kidnapped Russian doctors.

The Capitol Hill 007 is Rep. Lester Wolff, D-N.Y., who won the Shan guerrillas' confidence last August during a trip to Southeast Asia. As chairman of a House narcotics subcommittee, Wolff brought back the Shan's offer to burn 400 tons of opium for $12 million.

This would have drained the opium from the world market and cut off part of the U.S. heroin supply at the source. Although the State Department rejected the offer, the Shans came to trust Wolff and have now asked him to help out with an even stranger deal.

Last April, at the isolated Burmese village of Taungyi, two humanitarian Russian doctors were working at the Soviet hospital when a force of Shan rebels descended on them and kidnapped them at gunpoint. The rebels, according to our Shan sources, had hoped to grab the Russian ambassador to Burma who was supposed to be visiting the hospital at the time.

Second best

Their purpose was to hold him as ransom for the return of several Shan leaders now in Burmese government custody. Finding no ambassador, they made off with the two physicians. Our sources say the pair have been moved from one remote camp to another while the Russians and Americans, cooperating secretly, have sought to free them. Meanwhile, the Burmese have refused the kidnap demands.

At one point, we started to break the story but yielded to State Department pleadings that publicity might endanger the rescue efforts and perhaps result in the doctors' deaths.

A few days ago, however, information reached us from the far northern regions of Burma that the rebels were interested in freeing the doctors.

"The two Russian doctors are (with) Kun Siang of the SUA (Shan United Army) who orginally captured them," said the cryptic message. "The Russian Embassy in Bangkok has asked (for mediation) with Kun Siang."

'Honest broker'

The mediator selected by the Shans is Lester Wolff. They feel if Wolff helps them to work out a fair deal on the Russians, it will increase the Shan's world credibility.

Reluctant at first to leave his congressional chores, Wolff has now decided to do the risky, humanitarian thing. He has agreed to serve as an "honest broker" and fly to the rugged Shan territory, if that is what it takes to free the two doctors.

FOOTNOTE: The Shans say they are also willing to burn a ton of opium for Wolff to prove they can deliver the deadly drug in tonnage lots. They promise to do it "without the cheating that went into (General) Lao Li's similar deal two or three years ago.

The "cheating" refers to a mix of opium and vegetation that was pawned off for $1 million on the United States in Thailand. When we exposed what happened, the White House staged a sound-and-light press conference to insist the opium was pure and to denounce us as liars. We backed up our story by quoting from the secret CIA account of the million-dollar swindle. Now we are happy to print this additional unsolicited substantiation of our original story.

MILLIONS FOR CHRISTMAS: Congressmen received a $2 million Christmas present from a benevolent House Administration Committee in the form of an increase in their office allowances.

Chairman Wayne Hays, D-Ohio, bestowed the gift in a letter to his colleagues. With "kind personal regards," he informed them that next session each congressman could dip into the stationery allowance for a total of $5,250. The increase will cost the taxpayers more than $438,000 next year.

Arms and USSR a matter of will

Former professor and Rand military analyst James R. Schlesinger—onetime head of the Atomic Energy Commission, then chief of the Central Intelligence Agency and now Secretary of Defense—is convinced Leonid Brezhnev and his associates in the Kremlin agreed to a ceiling on antimissile defenses because they were afraid of the U.S. Safeguard system.

The Russians did not believe all that Safeguard's detractors in Congress and elsewhere said about this heavily debated project, Schlesinger believes. They could see for certain that here the United States was far ahead of the USSR technologically and was, in addition, willing to match Russia numerically.

Therefore, the Russians made a deal which, in Schlesinger's mind, was fair to both sides. And it will save a whopping number of dollars in anticipated military expenditures.

The situation in offensive weapons was different. The Russians could clearly see they were in a position to catch up in strength if U.S. weapon production continued virtually to stand still and research and development of radically new forms of missiles moved ahead at a relatively slow pace.

The only way the second round of Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT II) now in progress can succeed, Schlesinger believes, is for the United States to push ahead on research and development so vigorously and imaginatively that the Russians see us as steadily pulling away ahead of them, and for Washington to show Moscow this country is willing to match the Kremlin's increases in missile numbers and power.

We must do this, he says, so convincingly the Russians will be certain that in any contest they will surely slip further behind. Then, if Schlesinger has analyzed the situation correctly, Brezhnev will come to an agreement that has meaning. Otherwise no.

There is no doubt in Schlesinger's mind that the U.S. can stay ahead technologically—and numerically if we must.

The problem is a question of will, he says. That will must be expressed by the President and by Congress. But back of these leaders there must be a will on the part of the citizenry. That is the way a democracy works.

Schlesinger believes it may not be necessary for the United States actually to put through a major buildup of new weapons for this strategy to be successful. If the Russians are convinced that we have the will and that we will carry out this major advance in weaponry if the USSR does not cooperate, this may suffice. The problem, of course, is convincing the Kremlin.

Schlesinger is certain Congress will do what is necessary when the chips are down if the legislators can be sold on the correctness of these arguments. The problem is to make sure the Russians do not misinterpret our necessary national and Congressional debates. Our present task is to show the Kremlin the fallacy of any such misinterpretation of the American will.

Waste is expensive

If you don't believe that your own daily waste has contributed to the high prices, think again!

We have had this awakening coming on energy and prices for 20 years. For a year I have been recycling newspapers, aluminum cans and glass bottles. This amounts to over 9 tons of paper and cardboard, 663 pounds of aluminum and 5,409 pounds of crushed glass.

Nearly all of these resources would have gone to the disposal area where we pay a crew and machine to pick it up, lease the land for cut and fill, and hire a bulldozer to bury them. With glass in short supply only about 2 per cent is being recovered on a national basis and 12 per cent locally which is the pilot program on glass recycling.

All of us who are using cardboard boxes each week for trash should be ashamed. We are sending our pulp trees out to the dump to be buried. Yes, I was guilty. At $28 per ton cardboard is nearly 1½ cents a pound.

How many times in your lifetime have you heard the expression, "There's plenty more where that came from." We must not agree with this philosophy.

The total waste occurring daily in this city is nothing short of phenomenal. It is time for Pomona to go on a total recycling program and hire the unemployed to operate the system.

Pomona is a beautiful city in this valley. It's fun to help keep it clean and beautiful. Try it; then turn your papers, aluminum cans and bottles in to a charitable recycling center where it will SAVE and HELP Pomona.—H.A. Curtiss, Pomona.

Gossip for today

The long suffering American male can take most shortages in stride but there comes a time when enough is enough. And so I feel sure that we are going to see some action soon in connection with the gasoline shortage. Now that it has gotten to the point where it is interfering with beer deliveries, the men of America will definitely rise in righteous wrath and demand that Congress get off the dime and provide the necessary gasoline to keep beer flowing or else.

INSIDE REPORT

By Rowland Evans and Robert Novak

WASHINGTON — House Republican leaders are seething over a poison-pen letter, hand-delivered to most Republican Congressmen, just before the election of Rep. Barber Conable of New York as House Republican policy chairman, attacking Conable for joining an "ultra-liberal" organization—with signs that it orginated in the office of a conservative Republican House member.

Conable's unsuccessful opponent, conservative Rep. Del Clawson of California, had nothing whatever to do with the attack. Conable beat Clawson by 10 votes in the Dec. 13 party balloting for the post vacated by the new Republican House leader, Rep. John Rhodes of Arizona.

Intimates of Rhodes say he was livid, not because Conable had been attacked but because the letter attacking him, written to Conable and signed by a Chicago woman named Janice Blakely, was distributed anonymously—and surreptitiously—from the office of a Republican Congressman.

Rhodes told us that if he knew for certain which office had engineered the attack, he might recommend "disciplinary action" against the culprit.

But Rep. Sam Steiger of Arizona, a conservative Republican, was tougher. He fingered the office of this Arizona colleague, right-wing Rep. John B. Conlan, as the source of the concealed attack.

"An employee in Conlan's office told me that she was prepared to swear that his was done in that office," Steiger told us. Stieger and Conlan are mortal political enemies.

Denies any participation

Conlan denied to us any participation or knowledge of the low blow against Conable, a highly regarded moderate. But many of Conlan's colleagues, asking not to be quoted, told us they suspect Conlan's office.

The "Dear Congressman Conable" letter was a right-wing diatribe that could not have swung a single vote against Conable even if it had not appeared in congressional offices in untraceable and highly suspect white envelopes with no return address and no postmark. It said the writer of the letter "was shocked to read in the Council on Foreign Relations' annual report of 1973 that you had accepted an invitation to join this ultra-liberal organization."

It then listed several moderate and liberal Congressmen of both parties, including Republican Rep. John Anderson of Illinois and Democratic Rep. Thomas Morgan of Pennsylvania, as other new members of the Council, a New York-based foreign-police research organization and publishers of the qurterly magazine Foreign Affairs.

The phrase "CFR" is a scathing codeword in right-wing circles. The Council has been a pet target for years of the John Birch Society, which regards it as a sinister East Coast establishment conspiracy with connections to Moscow.

What has infuriated Rhodes, Steiger and other Republicans is the Watergate-style politics of using the office of a Conable foe to duplicate and transmit the attack on him.

"This is what Watergate was all about, and the American people won't stand for it anymore," one angry Republican told us. "If we can identify the source of this beyond doubt, we may censure him."

A footnote: The original letter, postmarked Washington and mailed to Conable, did not arrive until after he was elected to succeed Rhodes. The copies that were hand-delivered arrived the day before the election.

U.S. oil for the Saudis

The kid gloves treatment given Saudi Arabia by the U.S. government during the oil embargo was underlined by this Dec. 14 telegram from the Office of Petroleum Allocation in Washington to Continental Oil Co. in Houston:

"You are hereby instructed in accordance with the mandatory allocation program for the middle distillate fuels to supply 5,000 gallons of jet "A" turbine fuel to Saudi Arabian air force located in Tulsa, Okla., to be supplied as follows: December, 1973, for the purpose of aircraft use."

On Dec. 13, a weekly courier flight by a Saudi air force C-130 transport went to Tulsa to pick up spare parts for its planes back in Saudi Arabia. It needed to refuel three. A perplexed Continental Oil official queried the Allocation Office in Washington, which went to the Saudi desk of the State Department for help. The answer: give the Saudis what they need.

On its face, this is outlandish. With U.S. airlines furloughing thouands of employees and U.S. military aviators on reduced air time because of the Saudi oil boycott, the U.S. is allocating scarce fuel to the Saudis. In fact, however, the matter is not so simple.

U.S. policymakers know that a campaign of petty harassment against the Saudis won't get the oil flowing again. Predictably, Saudi courier flights will get their gas.

Rowland Heights schools honor retired teacher

ROWLAND HEIGHTS — Rowland Unified School District's educational media center has been dedicated in honor of Ada May Warner, a recently retired teacher.

At dedication ceremonies, Supt. Stanley G. Oswalt presented Mrs. Warner a framed rubbing taken from a bronze plaque bearing the inscription displayed at the center.

Mrs. Warner taught in the Rowland area from 1948 until her retirement. Currently she is active as a lecturer. A world traveler, she has utilized her interest in audio-visual aids by writing 18-minute lectures on her trips to the Orient, Alaska, Hawaii and Africa.

When the district unified in 1970, she was credited with compiling "A Century of Rowland," a comprehensive history of the area, and conducting extensive interviews of early residents and founding families.

Rowland's Ada May Warner Educational Media Center is a service agency to the district's 20 schools offering teachers access to a comprehensive professional library, help in preparing instructional aids for classroom use, access to lesson plans, workshops in creamics, laminating, over-lays, transparencies and museum realia and it also serves as a processing center for the purchase of instructional materials.

Professional board taps Merle Bolden

HACIENDA HEIGHTS — Merle Bolden of Hacienda Heights has been elected chairman of the Trailer Coach Association's 1974 supplier board of governors.

As supplier board chairman, he automatically becomes a member of the association's corporate board.

Bolden has been with Motor Rim and Wheel Service 21 years. He is married and has two children.

Motor development class for children

POMONA — A motor development class for youngsters with perceptual and conceptual difficulties will be held at the Pomona Valley YMCA beginning Jan. 5.

Objectives of the class, for youngsters from 6 to 16, are recreation and enjoyment, development of self-confidence and improvement of coordination.

Fee for the class will be $10 for members and $20 for non-members. The class will run 10 weeks and will be instructed by Tim Lewis.

21 schools combine forces to help needy on Christmas

ROWLAND HEIGHTS — The Rowland Heights Community Coordinating Council supplied Christmas toys, canned food and money for perishable food to 150 families.

Mrs. Carolyn Rosas, council president, was cochairman with David Huckaby of the holiday basket program.

Mrs. Rosas said the 21 schools in the Rowland district contributed canned goods, and Joe Surra, director of building and transportation services, supplied delivery trucks.

Donations came in from men's, women's and children's organizations as well as private individuals.

Students from Nogales and Rowland high schools filled boxes for distribution, loaded trucks and patroled areas where goods were stored, Mrs. Rosas said.

Opening date set for winter session

LA PUENTE — Winter quarter classes offered by the La Puente Community Adult School will begin Wednesday.

Free-on-campus child care and counseling will be available day and evening.

ROWLAND HEIGHTS — Employment preparation in the garment manufacturing industry is being offered by Con-Stan Industries and the Rowland Adult school beginning Jan. 7.

Enrollment will be open throughout the six-week commercial power sewing course.

Advance applications will be taken at the adult school office, 1830 Nogales St., between 9 a.m. and 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday.The office telephone number is 213 965-5975.

Mrs. Wentworth named chairman of commission

WALNUT — Mrs. June Wentworth has been named chairman of the Walnut Valley Unified School District Personnel Commission.

Mrs. Wentworth has served on the commission for four years and was recently reappointed by the State Personnel Board to a three year term after her nomination by the school district.

The new chairman has served a term as vice chairman on the Personnel Commission which is responsible for developing the rules and regulations which govern the nonteaching staff of the district.

Church offering six-week course to help parents

DIAMOND BAR — Beginning Jan. 6, at 7 p.m., the Diamond Bar Congregational Church will offer a six-week "Positive Parenting Program."

Sessions will run consecutive Sundays through Feb. 10. Kenneth Green, director of counseling services at Cal Poly Pomona, developed the program for the National YMCA Family Communication Skills.

Cost of the series is $15 per person. Those interested in enrolling may send a pre-registration fee of $5 to Mary Kay Jenkins, 23847 Decorah Road, Diamond Bar.

The course is designed to provide parents with specific knowledge, information and methods to help them gain greater confidence in their parental skills.

Sertoma Club salutes worker in community

DIAMOND BAR — Orien Pagan of 23814 Twin Pines Drive is the recipient of the fourth annual Sertoma Club Service to Mankind Award.

She was cited for her "unselfish contributions of time and effort in service of the community." She will be honored at a banquet Jan. 18, at 8 p.m. at Orlando's Restaurant in Pomona.

Members of the Diamond Bar Sertoma Club are inviting Mrs. Pagan's fellow workers in her many community activities to join them in presenting the award. Reservations may be made by calling 595-4592. Tickets are $6 per person.

Mrs. Pagan was the charter PTA president at Diamond Point Elementary School. She has held many offices in PTA and on the PTA Council. She received the honorary life service award from the PTA in recognition for her work with youth.

She served on the ad hoc committee of the Pomona school board.

She is active in work at Gateway House, a home which aids unwed mothers and their children. She currently is second vice president, chairman of the staff for 1973-74, and a member of the board of directors.

Mrs. Pagan has been a Cub Scout den mother and a Girl Scout leader and has been active as an adult volunteer in Little League, Pop Warner Football and the Soccer League.

She has been an active member of the Diamond Bar Junior Women's Club since 1965. She has served on many projects including the Juniors' Tot-Time Enrichment, to which she contributed four years; Santa Claus, Inc., Christmas stockings, three years; the Diamond Bar Roundup; and Project Concern, a program to deliver baby clothes, food and medicine to needy persons in Mexico.

Mrs. Pagan works with the Junioretts and as a volunteer at Camp Glen Rocky.

She is active at the district level in the Juniors, and currently is president of the San Gabriel Valley District Women's Clubs—Junior Membership, and has been the district's third and first vice presidents.

The Sertoma Club gave honorable mention to Jack W. Liggett and Dominic F. Ruggiero for their services to their community.

Liggett served the community through youth activities and Ruggiero has been active on the Diamond Bar Home Owners Association's committee to study Diamond Bar school unification.

Bernice Bede Osol

For Saturday, Dec. 29

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You'll do yourself more good in the long run if you put the needs of others well ahead of your own. Be charitable.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Over the next few days contacts that you now have will, in various manners, help advance your interests in important areas.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Conditions that contribute to your basic security look especially favorable at this time. Build upon these solid foundations.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) This is a good period to rectify misunderstandings you may have had recently with a friend.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Someone you're associated with stands to offer more than just friendship. There's profit in this relationship, if properly developed.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) This is a much better day to make serious decisions than yesterday. Revise your thinking if you now see a clearer path.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) The next few days can be very productive, if you plan your schedule sensibly. Clean up work you've fallen behind on.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You're much more appreciated socially than you realize. Let your favorite people know you'd like a get-together.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) A good day to set up a conference on situations pertinent to the family as a whole. Something constructive will come of it.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Have more peace of mind. Get in touch with one you've neglected lately. Let her know she's important to you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) A small windfall is not unlikely over the next few days. It could be material, or a service one will do that saves you some bucks.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) This is a good cycle for you to tie a lot of loose ends together to further your self interests. Take the initiative.

An active social calendar with more travel than usual is likely this year. You'll form an important association. It will prove advantageous as the year progresses.

Helicopters to do the logging

FORESTHILL (UPI) — Helicopter logging will be used for the first time in Tahoe National Forest when 7.88 million board feet are brought out by aircraft.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

More American presidents were born in Virginia than in any other state. Eight chief executives, Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, William Henry Harrison, Tyler, Taylor and Wilson, were Virginians, The World Almanac notes. The state with the second greatest number of native-son presidents is Ohio, with seven. Grant, Hayes, Garfield, Benjamin Harrison, McKinley, Taft and Harding were born in Ohio.

Three SAL clubs make Chino semis

By KEVIN CLOE
P-B Staff Writer

CHINO — It may be an all-San Antonio League finals at the 33rd Annual Chino High Lettermen's Club Invitational Basketball Tournament this year.

In fact, the odds heavily favor all five of the SAL teams competing in the tourney to reach the final day of play.

Three of those teams will get their chance tonight to slip into the championship finals, which will be held Saturday evening in the Cowboy gym.

Upland, Claremont and host Chino all made it into the semifinal round of the championship bracket Thursday after posting impressive victories over their opponents.

Upland knocked off Temple City early Thursday morning, 72-60, while Claremont disposed of defending tournament champion La Canada, 64-52, and Chino dumped University, 66-48.

Upland will battle Miraleste, a 41-40 winner of previously unbeaten Cerritos Thursday, and Claremont and Chino will run head on in the two semifinal games tonight at 7 p.m. and 8:30 p.m.

Even if Upland should fall to Miraleste, either Claremont or Chino will advance to the championship game. But if the Highlanders pull off the mild upset over the Marauders, the Chino Tournament's championship game will be a San Antonio League exclusive.

Even the consolation championship could see two SAL teams battling it out.

Both Ganehsa and Montclair moved into today's second round on the consolation side of the brackets with victories. Ganesha easily ran over an outmanned Duarte team, 100-49, and Montclair streaked past Escondido by a 78-55 margin.

Ganesha was scheduled to face Pacificia, a 66-64 winner over Bonita Thursday, at 12:30 p.m. today in one of the semifinal matchups.

And then Montclair was to have taken on Santa Ana, 57-55 victor over Ontario, at 2 p.m. in the other consolation semifinal game.

Both SAL teams were favored to reach the consolation finals, which would mean another all-SAL faceoff.

At least one SAL team will also play for the tournament's third-place trophy this year, since the loser of tonight's Claremont-Chino contest will move into the third-place playoff.

There is one place on the brackets where a San Antonio League team will not have a chance to pick up a trophy. That will be for fourth place, where four non-valley teams are competing.

Temple City and La Canada bumped heads earlier today (3:30 p.m.) in one of the semifinal games for fourth place, and La Canada battled University in the other at 5 p.m.

Of the three SAL teams which reached today's semifinals, Claremont picked up what seemed to be the more impressive win.

The Wolfpack wasn't able to shake loose from the defending tourney champs until midway through the third period when it held a 10-point lead. The Spartans were unable to cut into that lead throughout the rest of the game, even though they did get to within seven midway in the fourth quarter.

After Claremont had taken a nine-point lead with about four minutes left in the game, the Wolfpack played "ball control" for the next two minutes to make La Canada's comeback hopes extremely dim.

Rip Sears, the 5-foot-11 Claremont guard, once again got the 'Pack going for the second consecutive night. Hitting from the 25-foot range all night long, Sears tallied eight of the Wolves' 13 first-quarter points against La Canada. He added six more in the second quarter and ended the game as the team's leading scorer with 22 points.

His counterpart, Dick Sinclair from La Canada, added 24 points to the 29 he scored in the opening round Wedneday.

Chino didn't waste any time in running away from University in the finale of the day.

The Cowboys jumped to a quick 13-2 lead halfway through the first quarter and never let up.

The big surprise from the Cowboy lineup came from center Dirk Story's 24-point performance, which was undoubtedly his best night as a Cowboy cager.

His moment of glory came in the third period when he score 11 of his team's 19 points after picking up eight in the first half.

Story, standing at 6-foot-7, was only averaging a little better than five points per game going into the tournament.

Both Claremont's Sears and Chino's Story have been hiding in the wings while the other players stole the show so far this season.

If those two duplicate their performances from Thursday night and the rest of the players on both teams play like they have been playing, the Claremont-Chino contest tonight should be very interesting.

After playing a close first quarter against Temple City, Upland used the full-court press to force Ram mistakes. The Scots were able to capitalize on seven second-quarter turnovers by T. C. and pull to a safe 39-24 lead by halftime.

The Rams were able to pull to within six points late in the third period, but that was as close as they got.

Forwards Orien Ogg (21) and Curt Oldenkamp (23) and center Stu DuVall (20) cleared 20 points for the game for Upland.

Ganesha, which defeated Duarte in the opening round of the Upland-Montclair Tournament this year by a 99-61 margin, finally found the 100-mark. Center Cleve Porter (31 points) and forward Broderick Hunter (22 points) paced the Giants.

USD's Vinci accepts Poly football job

By BILL LANGLEY
P-B Sports Editor

POMONA — Andy Vinci stole the show from Cal Poly.

Poly scheduled a press conference this afternoon to announce its new football coach but it's public knowledge now Vinci, the colorful coach at the University of San Diego, has the job.

The story was released Thursday night by the wire services in San Diego and it's obvious Vinci announced it himself.

Poly officials were stunned by the premature announcement and were unhappy about the way it was handled.

Vinci will be replacing Roy Anderson, who resigned last month after serving five years as the Broncos' head mentor. In two years at USD, Vinci turned in a 15-5-2 mark including a 9-2-1 record this past season when he guided the Toreros to the NCAA Division III national playoffs. His team lost to eventual national champion Wittenberg, 21-14.

USD led the national statistics in scoring (40.1 points a game), total offense (441 yards per game) and passing offense (231.7 yards).

"I regret very much leaving USD and it was a difficult decision to make," Vinci told United Press International. "But at this point in time, I feel it is the thing to do."

USD president Arthur E. Hughes added, "the opportunity presented by Cal Poly Pomona is an excellent one and will find him in a position that it would take several years to develop at USD."

Writers vote for Trojans

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

PASADENA — Woody Hayes was "Mr. Nice," and John McKay sent himself instead of Craig Fertig to the annual Football Writers Rose Bowl Luncheon at Annandale Country Club in Pasadena Thursday.

McKay, who has been acerbic at times this year, brought his famed wit and sense of humor. Speaking as USC Athletic Director and offering an official welcome to Ohio State, McKay quipped, "I did not vote for Ohio St. to come out here. I voted for Indiana. I would have voted for Ball St. if I could get them."

Later, speaking as USC coach, McKay was asked his reaction to Ohio St. being installed as a two-point favorite over the Trojans in Tuesday's Rose Bowl game.

"I guess it means we'll start out a safety behind and punt to them," he grinned. "Maybe that's the best way to play them."

Writers at the luncheon, about two thirds of them from Southern Calif., came out strongly for USC in a poll taken at the affair. Of the 99 balloting, 65 picked USC by an average margin of 8½ points with the largest margin 31 points.

There were 31 votes for Ohio St. with the average margin 7½ points and the largest 20 points. Two writers predicted ties and one picked the score 28-27 with the notation, "either way."

Running back Jim Farmer of Azusa Pacific was named College Division Player of the year and UCLA's Kermit Johnson was honored as University Division Player of the Year.

Farmer averaged 7.2 yards per carry this year. Carrying the ball 157 times, the 6-1, 200 pound junior set a school rushing record with 1,132 yards gained, an average of 125.8 yards per game.

Johnson, the under-publicized UCLA great, carried the ball 150 times and gained 1,129 yards, an average of 7.8 yards per carry. He scored 16 touchdowns.

When the Big Ten athletic directors and coaches were introduced, it might have been co-incidental, but the absence of Michigan and the three schools who voted for the Wolverines to go to the Rose Bowl made one wonder if the rift within the conference itself is not much bigger than anyone cares to admit.

When Hayes was introduced, a hint of Woody's other side surfaced briefly when the MC remarked that "he guessed he would take questions from the floor now."

Hayes eyes glinted and then he grinned. "Yes, you can do that and ask any question you want and I'll answer what I'd well please," he said.

The veteran of 23 years at Ohio St. said his squad has had great practices so far. "I'm just a little apprehensive about the possibility of warmer weather for the game," he added. "I think that would be to USC's advantage."

Hayes again seemed to go out of his way to establish that this year's Buckeye team is much better than last year's and one of his best ever.

"One thing I have to worry about with this year's squad," he said, "is that they will work too hard. That way I'll get a little softer . . . but not much."

Hayes said he has never had a team with better morale but he wouldn't reveal why.

"We've had better player morale, better understanding between players and coaches than we've ever had on our squad," Hayes admitted. "But I'm not going to tell you why. There's a definite reason. It's a team reason. I'm a nicer guy this year because the team is nicer."

In talking about his freshman players (10), he said, "our freshmen are much greater than a year ago, but Archie Griffon was the best freshman we've ever had."

As for an overall summation, Hayes said, "we have a great defense. It's true we haven't met a great passer. Next Tuesday we're gonna pass more . . . at least we're going to warm up like H - before the game and see if we can scare USC."

While Ohio St. apparently has had excellent practices, the same is not true for USC.

We ate a lot of turkey Christmas Day," McKay remarked, "and when we came out for practice, we looked like a bunch of turkeys. But I think we'll be ready New Year's Day."

Regarding the Trojans practicing only 12 days to Ohio State's 16. McKay said, "people assume we don't practice hard because we don't practice often. But get in all the work we need to get in."

McKay wasn't "on" as long as Hayes, but didn't spare the accolades in describing the Buckeyes.

"I think they are a very powerful football team," said the USC coach. "They make few mistakes. Remember, in a close game you don't win it. The other guy loses it."

"We'll have to play as well or better than we played against UCLA," he concluded.

East squad impressive says Dietzel

PALO ALTO, Calif. (UPI) — Coach Paul Dietzel hasn't decided on a starting quarterback for his East squad, and he can't say enough about his lineup.

"I've coached good ones before but never as many top athletes as I have on this team," Dietzel said recently of the squad that will meet the West in the 49th Shrine game Saturday at San Francisco's Candlestick Park.

Dietzel is particularly impressed by Tennessee State defensive end Edward Jones, who is expected to be the No. 1 draft choice in the NFL.

Dietzel said that if he had to pick a quarterback right now, he'd split the playing time between Mississippi's Norris Weese and Gary Marangi of Boston College.

The game is a benefit for the Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children and has so far raised more than $7 million for the institution.

Lakers need to rebound

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Badly beaten at Phoenix and Seattle this week, the Los Angeles Lakers attempt to rebound tonight against the Suns in the first of three games in three nights.

Leading the NBA's Pacific Division with a 20-17 record, the Lakers are at Golden State Saturday night and host Buffalo Sunday night.

The Lakers are expected to be without the services of Jerry West for at least two more weeks. The 35-year-old guard, one of only three players to score 25,000 career points in the league's history, has been sidelined two weeks with an abdominal muscle pull.

Bruins seek nos. 82, 83 in Classic

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — UCLA's basketball machine, tuning up for its Pacific-8 openers, goes after its 82nd and 83rd consecutive wins this weekend in the third Bruin Classic.

In the opening round of the four-team tournament at Pauley Pavilion tonight, the Bruins face Wyoming (3-4) at 9 o'clock PST after Michigan (7-1) and University of San Francisco (2-5) play at 7. The finals are set at Pauley Pavilion Saturday night.

Coach John Wooden's club is 6-0 this year and its victims include Atlantic Coast Conference powerhouses North Carolina State and Maryland.

"December," said Wooden, "is kind of a proving ground in trying out things.

"It should be a good tournament. We're looking forward to it to find out a little more about our players before the opening of the conference."

Victories by UCLA and USF tonight would set up a rematch of last season's NCAA Western Regional semifinalists. The Bruins won that game 54-39.

"USF is the best 2-5 team you'll find anywhere," said Wooden.

Despite their record, the Dons are the favorites in the upcoming West Coast Athletic Conference season.

Wooden, of course, stresses the Pac-8 season and the Bruins must open their league schedule on the road—at Washington Jan. 5 and at Washington State Jan. 7.

After six games, Bill Walton is averaging 19.2 points and 16.7 rebounds for UCLA. Keith Wilkes is scoring at a 16.2 clip and Dave Meyers has a 10.5 scoring average.

Pass lives in NFL play

By United Press International

The pass lives.

Last year heralded the return of the running game as the dominant force in National Football League offenses. It was the year of the runner.

The trend has continued through this year if O.J. Simpson and the conservative offenses of most teams are any indication.

But look at the top two passers in both the American and the National Football Conferences. Oakland's Ken Stabler and Miami's Bob Griese led the AFC, while Dallas' Roger Staubach and Minnesota's Fran Tarkenton were tops in the NFC.

Try Oakland, Miami, Dallas and Minnesota.

Stabler is more prone to getting sacked than any other quarterback in the NFL, but he is also more likely to complete a pass any time he lets go of the ball.

The Raiders' southpaw takes an interminable time in the pocket, refusing to let go of the precious pigskin unless there is Oakland black and silver standing all alone somewhere on the football field.

But, if or when the running game bogs down, Stabler will retreat seven yards and stand and stand and stand. If he is given enough standing time, Stabler's passing will give the Dolphins' vaunted zone pass defense a fit.

Stabler led all NFL passers with a completion percentage of 62.7 this season and set a new league record for single-game efficiency against the Colts when he completed 25 of 29 passes.

In Miami's regular season finale, however, Griese got in a little target practice and threw four touchdowns passes to Paul Warfield in the first half.

Undoubtedly, the Raiders and the Dolphins will come out running Sunday, as is the custom, but before the day is over there will be some fancy flinging in the Orange Bowl.

Minnesota's battle at Dallas Sunday for the NFC title will follow a similar scenerio.

Scrambling Fran is not at all shy about putting the football skyward, particularly in the direction of John Gilliam. Another favorite target of Tarkenton's is rookie running back Chuck Foreman.

Staubach led the NFC is passing this season, completing 62.6 per cent of his passes. He also connected on 23 scoring passes, tying Philadelphia's Roman Gabriel for the NFL leadership in that department.

Passing profiency Sunday will play a critical role in the pairings for Super Bowl VIII.

Sabres trade Pratt, Gould

Pratt, 30, came to Buffalo as one of the original Sabres in the 1970 National Hockey League expansion draft. Gould played the last two seasons with the Sabres' farm club at Cincinnati and had four goals in 30 games with Buffalo this season.

Chaffey High surprised in Kiwanis play

Western Christian and Ontario Christian both posted wins in Thursday's high school basketball action, while Chaffey was surprised by San Gorgonio in the Kiwanis' Classic Tourney held in San Bernardino.

Western got 21 points from center Sam Shumaker and 18 from forward Ron Morris to dump Rio Hondo by a 76-47 count. The Lancers led by only nine at intermission but outscored the visitors 46-26 in the second half.

Shumaker hit 15 of his 21 markers in the second half, while Morris had 14 of his 18 in the same half. Charles Parsons led Rio Hondo scoring with 16 points.

Western Christian is now 8-2 on the year and will play Chadwick Jan. 2 at Western.

Ontario Christian got 22 points from their center Don Heida to post an easy 81-59 victory over Rim of the World. Larry Sytsma added 18 for the Knights, who play Yucaipa Saturday night at OCHS.

San Gorgonio scored a surprisingly easy 64-45 win over Chaffey in the Kiwanis' Classic Tourney. Leon Jordon popped for 27 points for San Gorgonio to tag the Tigers with the loss. Chaffey will continue play in the tourney with a 5 p.m. contest tonight.

Mounties, Chaffey post tourney wins

The Mounties rolled over Modesto 70-54 and will face Foothill, a 83-76 winner over Ventura, at 7 p.m. tonight in the semifinals. In other JC games, L.A. Trade Tech posted a 76-52 win over Citrus in the College of the Desert Tourney at Palm Desert; and Chaffey beat Contra Costa 83-65 in the opening round of the San Joaquin Delt Tournament in Stockton.

"I thought our kids were very careless in the first half and made too many turnovers," said coach Gene Victor. "But I'm very much satisfied with the second half play. We showed we can play together and play solid basketball. We're a tough team when we play solidly like we did against East Los Angeles earlier."

The Mounties (now 4-9) held only a modest 29-24 lead at the half, but outscored Modesto, 45-30, in the second half. Center Gary Nash led the Mounties with 19 points and 14 rebounds. Gary Melugin from Ganesha High had 13 points and eight rebounds.

In tonight's other semifinal game at Santa Maria, host Hancock plays De Anza. Hancock defeated San Jose, 87-72, while De Anza downed Fresno, 64-54.

Bob Kovach set a tourney record at Stockton. The 6-7 Chaffey sophomore scored 42 points erasing the old mark of 39 set by Delta's Ellis Porter in 1970. The Panthers face the winner of Thursday night's Cabot-San Joaquin Delta game tonight at 9 p.m.

Citrus was tied with Trade Tech, 29-29, with four minutes left in the first half, but was outscored 14-2 and trailed 43-31 at the half.

The L.A. school shot at a 63 per cent rate for the game. Roy Hickman led all scorers with 20 points. Tim Conklin had 20 rebounds to go with eight assists.

Rookie helps Atlanta beat Kings, 6-4

ATLANTA (UPI) — Rookie Tom Lysiak scored the winning goal and Bob Leiter had a three-goal hat trick Thursday night to lead the Atlanta Flames to a 6-4 victory over the Los Angeles Kings.

Leiter's hat trick was the first by a Flames player this season and the first by anyone in the two-year-old Omni, Atlanta's home rink.

The Flames took a 2-1 first period lead on goals by Leiter and Curt Bennett after the Kings' Mike Murphy scored first.

In the wild third period the Kings' Whitey Widing tied the contest at 2-2 and Murphy put Los Angtles ahead with an unassisted goal.

Leiter then scored his second of the night, which was offset when the Kings' Don Kozak scored his seventh of the season. Leiter's third goal tied the game at 4-4 and with less than two minutes to play, Lysiak scored the winning goal with a backhand shot as he streaked in from the right side.

With 45 seconds to play, Bennett got his second goal of the night with a long shot into the empty Los Angeles net.

By CRAIG TRAVIS
P-B Staff Writer

LA PUENTE — At this time of the season, the aura of Christmas tends to change scrooges into happier people. Afterall, everybody knows it's better to give than to receive.

Two local teams fell in second round action of the Nogales Christmas Basketball Tournament, both willing to give rather than receive.

Walnut dropped a 57-51 decision to Wilson while Rowland fell to Azusa, 64-51.

Walnut did everything but win its game with the Wildcats. The Mustangs outshot their opponents, shooting a poor 37.5 per cent from the floor to Wilson's 30.6 per cent. Walnut hit on 21 field goal attempts (out of 56 tries) while Wilson made 20 of 62 from the field.

Wilson won the game, that was tied eight times and saw the lead change on four occasions, at the foul line. The Wildcats made 17 of 22 charity tosses, 14 of 17 coming in the second half including 10 of 13 in the fourth quarter.

John Gagne's jumper, at the buzzer, gave Wilson a 21-19 halftime lead. The two-pointer held up throughout the third period until Joe Lopez' bucket with nine seconds left in the quarter gave the Wildcats a four-point cushion.

Wilson widened its lead to 49-39 with 5:35 to play when the Mustangs reeled off eight straight points to trail by a bucket. But Walnut proved to charitable the rest of the way.

Walnut's Kirk Christ took game scoring honors with 21 points and 12 rebounds while Lance Parrish added 12 points. Gagne paced Wilson with 20 points and 10 caroms while guard Mike Street chipped in 18 points, eight of those coming in the fourth stanza.

The Aztecs dominated the board play scoring at will underneath the hoop while the Raiders were forced to be content with their outside shooting.

Trailing 43-33 entering the fourth quarter, the Raiders whittled away their deficit to 49-44 with 3:33 left. But David Booze's three-point play, making the score 56-44, iced the game with 2:24 to play.

Rowland's Robert Malave won game-scoring honors with 26 points, to run his two-game total to 50 points, with center Steve Nichols adding 10 counters.

Rowland's Robert Malave won game-scoring honors with 26 points, to run his two-game total to 50 points, with center Steve Nichols adding 10 counters.

Azusa was paced by Mike Jantz with 15 points, followed by Sukie Melgoza with 13, Booze 12, and Jeff Snyder 10 points.

RICK NELSON

Rick Nelson to perform at Knott's Farm

BUENA PARK — The new music of Rick Nelson and the Stone Canyon Band comes to the John Wayne Theater as Knott's Berry Farm moves into the new year.

As Nelson moved into the 1970s and away from the image of Little Ricky in the Ozzie and Harriet television series, he became influenced by the music of Bob Dylan. He then recorded "She Belongs to Me" with the Stone Canyon Band. Since that time, they have recorded "Rick Nelson in Concert," "Rick Sings Nelson," "Rudy the Fifth" and "Garden Party."

Nelson performs at 7 and 9 p.m. Tuesday through Thursday; at 6, 7:30 and 9 p.m. Jan. 4 and 5; and at 6 and 8 p.m. on Jan. 6.

'Oh, Coward!' due at Forum

LOS ANGELES — "Oh, Coward!" will move to the Music Center's Mark Taper Forum for a three-week engagement with the original New York cast, beginning Jan. 22 and running through Feb. 10.

The confection, employing words and music by Noel Coward and devised and directed by Roderick Cook, will star Cook, Barbara Cason and Jamie Ross.

The Music Center Presentations attraction, in association with Stan Seiden, immediately follows James Whitmore in a four-week run of "Will Rogers' U.S.A." which closes Jan. 20.

Idols can't conquer TV on image alone

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Many big movie stars—perhaps most —used to sneer at television when considering projects and outlets for their talents.

They were foolish and couldn't see the future. They deluded themselves with a snobbism towards video. They regarded television as a possible retirement home when their stars began to fad.

Now, however, several seasons of network gambling with movie stars have exposed the fact that, in most cases, they mean little or nothing in attracting video audiences. The snobbism is a thing of the past.

Only a handful of movie names, such as Steve McQueen, Marlon Brando and Paul Newman, can afford at this point to bypass television when contemplating their film ventures.

A handful of major movie names—George C. Scott and Charlton Heston among them— have been wise enough to see the delusion in in the snobbism, and have successfully mixed in video roles with their motion picture parts.

What they knew, as intelligent performers, is that the sole factor of genuine importance is the quality of a production and their parts in it. The status nonsense associated with old-style movie star buildups is, for all practical purposes, dead.

The studios that once built up the stars now look forward to selling motion pictures to television, which is on a firmer day-to-day financial footing than the movie industry.

Many egos have been deflated in the last few years as movie stars of the past—and present—saw unimpresive video ratings result from their home screen projects.

Now, having sneered at television for a long time, some motion picture headliners wish they could cash in on its potentialy great economic rewards.

But there are indications that the networks have definitely wised up to the realities regarding movie star appeal in home screen shows.

And those ridiculous prices that have been paid to some film names who have turned to video are surely a thing of the past in most cases.

Television has learned that, in general, its biggest stars are the ones it has built up itself.

Disneyland plans New Year's Eve party

ANAHEIM — Highlighted by the musical offerings of The Spinners, Bob Crosby and Flash Cadillac and the Continental Kids, Disneyland will usher in 1974 with a New Year's Eve party from 8:30 p.m. to 2:30 a.m.

Guests will enjoy unlimited use of all park attractions, except shooting galleries, and, at 11:30 p.m., a special midnight countdown at the forecourt of Sleeping Beauty Castle hosted by the comedy duo of Skiles and Henderson.

The Spinners who have scored a number of hits including "One of a Kind" and "Could It Be I'm Falling in Love" will perform on the Tomorrowland Stage at 9 p.m 10:30 p.m. and 12:30 a.m.

Sharing the stage spotlight will be the early rock and roll sounds of Flash Cadillac and the Continental Kids.

Bob Crosby and his Big Dance Band, featuring the Bobcats, will play for both listening and dancing pleasure at Main Street's Plaza Gardens from 9 p.m. to 2 a.m.

The park's "Fantasy in the Sky" fireworks will announce the new year at midnight. Complimentary hats and horns will also be provided for all park guests.

Special New Year's Eve party tickets are now on sale for $9 each at Wallichs Music City, Ticketron and Liberty ticket agencies and Desmond department stores.

Other advance sale outlets include all Southern California branches of Bank of America, with BankAmericards, Buffums, the Immetta Ticket Agency at the Disneyland Hotel and the Disneyland box office.

If still available after 6 p.m. on Monday, tickets for the event may be purchased for $10 at the Disneyland box office only.

COMEDY DUO — The comedy team of Skiles and Henderson will provide humor during the New Year's Eve celebration at Disneyland from 8:30 p.m. to 2:30 a.m. New Year's Day.

'Snow White' tops French Yule shows

It was the second consecutive Christmas a Disney film took first place. In 1972, it was "101 Dalmatians."

"Snow White" drew 46,993 spectators Christmas Eve and Christmas Day in greater Paris. "Live and Let Die," the latest adventure of Ian Fleming's secret agent 007, brought in 32,877 for the two days.

Football player finds TV commercial appetizing fare

By VERNON SCOTT

He was making a television commercial for a soft drink firm.

The studio was dingy, small and uncrowded. A dozen people were involved in the 30-second spot. But Alex, all 240 pounds of him, was the focal point.

The script called for him to be interrupted in the middle of a bite of cake by an actor who says, "I thought you were going on a diet."

Alex was supposed to reply, "I am. Can't you see I'm drinking sugarfree Faygo Frosh." Or words to that effect. Karras has been huckstering the beverage for several years in the five state area where it is sold.

On the first take Alex said, "Sugarless Froshted Frost."

"Stop the tape," cried the director.

On the second take Alex said, "Sugafrost Lessless Free."

"Stop the tape," cried the director.

On the third take Alex said, "Frostless Sugar Fresh."

"Stop the tape," cried the director.

And so it went for more than 20 takes. Each time the tape was stopped Alex was supplied with another huge wedge of rich, gooey chocolate cake.

"Damn, this is good cake," he said, early in the going. He savored every crumb. It wasn't necessary for him to act as though it appealed to him. He didn't however, dispatch the Faygo Frosh with the same gusto.

About the 11th take Alex's enthusiasm for the cake began to diminish. He had already eaten one entire cake. There were others in reserve.

The candle on the table, which hadn't been snuffed between takes was about half its original length. No one seemed to notice.

Karras groaned and pushed the cake aside after take 13.

"I'm going to get my acne back," he complained. The crew laughed. The director persisted, "All right. Let's try it again."

The former pro football star never lost his cool. No matter how many times he said "Sugarfoot Froshless Frapes," he would grin and try again.

When the little company took a breather while the tape machine was reloaded, Alex lumbered out of the lights. "We have a lot of fun with these commercials," he said. "There's no sweat. It takes just the right attitude and sooner or later we get it right."

Karras still is a resident of his beloved Detroit. He comes to Hollywood for show business gigs, travels around the country giving speeches.

He recently completed a dramatic role in the movie, "The Tapioca Tree," playing a southern sheriff. He was so convincing that the mayor of the rural community of Beebe, Ark., where the picture was filmed, made him honorary sheriff.

"It was easy for me to do my lines with a southern accent," Karras said. "I played pro ball for 13 years, and there are more southern guys in the game than there are northerners."

Karras is the hero of author George Plimpton's new book, "Mad Ducks and Bears." A chapter of that tome involving Alex with a Pony League football team will be made into a television movie, starring Karras.

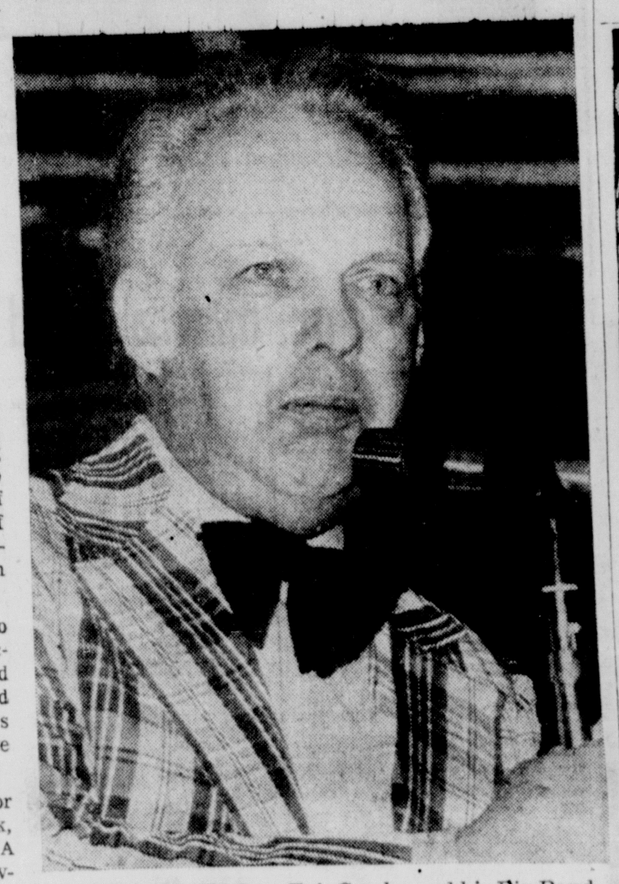
"I like acting," the giant said. "I think I have a future in show business. There aren't that many good actors who weigh 240 pounds. So I don't have to compete with the other guys who weigh 170 pounds."

The director called Alex back to the table, cake and Faygo. Karras promptly blew his lines again and grinned like a small boy.

"Please don't try to be an actor," the director said. "I like you better the way you are."

Expanded coverage

The Eiffel Tower, made of bolted iron girders and standing 984 feet high, grows seven inches on a sunny day.



BAND MAESTRO — Bob Crosby and his Big Band, featuring the Bobcats, will play at Disneyland's Main Street Plaza Gardens from 9 p.m. to 2 a.m. for the New Year's Eve party.

Shaft star subject of TV Week article

In the story, Roundtree tells of the progression of his career from football to modeling to acting and Shaft. He also discusses his feelings about his success, his role as Shaft and his long-term dream.

Shaft airs on a rotating basis as part of the CBS Tuesday Mystery Movie at 9:30 p.m.

Sports and a parade highlight the inside color page. The 33rd annual Bing Crosby National Pro-Amateur Golf Tournament from Pebble Beach will kick off the 1974 PGA Golf Tour. The tournament will be aired Saturday and Sunday afternoons on ABC.

NBA Basketball action resumes Sunday on CBS, when the network begins its regular Sunday afternoon broadcasts of the National Basketball Association games.

Ex-con, buddy play Santa role

DETROIT (UPI) — A slum-born former convict and his buddy played Santa Claus to 14 orphaned children in Detroit because they remembered "what it's like not to get much for Christmas."

Gary Wright of Fraser and Gary Hutchins of Roseville bought 18 bicycles from a police auction and worked two months to repair them. The freshly painted bikes brought screams of delight from the 14 grandchildren of a Detroit couple.

Bridge

By Oswald & James Jacoby

This hand does not really belong in 1973. It made its first appearance at least 40 years ago. Undoubtedly it was concocted by some bridge player who sold gold bricks in his spare time.

South's three notrump contract is very normal.

West opens the six of spades and East puts up his queen. If South covers with the king, East will gain the lead with his ace of diamonds and lead a spade to his partner. The result will be down one.

It doesn't take much skill to see that South can do better if he lets the queen of spades hold that first trick. After this play there will be no way for West to cash his four spades. Eventually, South will score one spade; two hearts; three diamonds; three clubs and game and rubber.

At least that is what he would do in any normal bridge game. However, the gold-brick salesman who produced it would now bet that he could defeat the contract. After studying the heart suit carefully the victim would bet whereupon the defense would start with three rounds of spades. On the third lead East would discard his ace of diamonds.

Thief takes pup, claims he's no pro

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (UPI) — "I am not a professional thief," said the note mailed to John and Anita Hutto at their Rancho California home after the disappearance of a puppy.

The letter arrived several days after someone stole one of the six puppies recently born to their basset hound, the Huttos said.

"I was looking for something to sell so my two little boys could have Christmas presents," the burglar said. But he saw the puppies and took one for his children, he said, assuring the Huttos the dog "will have a big yard and two little children to play with."

"You know, you really should keep your doors locked, because the next person may not give a damn and he'll clean you out," the burglar warned.

Gardener's Checklist

1. Many camellias are now in bloom. This is the time to pick them up. Those carried by your local nurseryman will be in top shape and ready to plant now.
2. Have you forgotten to get a gift for some friend? A living plant in full bloom, or an indoor foliage plant in a decorative container, makes an ideal "last minute" gift—one that can be enjoyed all through the year.
4. Many dormant trees—especially fruit trees—should be pruned now. Don't prune spring-flowering shrubs and trees until after their bloom, however.
5. Snails and slugs love the cool weather. Scatter snail bait to keep their population from building up.

Book has hints

Get back to earth without soil

High food prices are coaxing many cost-conscious consumers "back to the soil" with a strong motivation to "grow your own." But how about growing your own fruits and vegetables with no soil at all — and serve the interests of economy and ecology at the same time?

Raymond Bridwell's new book, "Hydroponic Gardening" (Woodbridge Press, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90213, $6.95) is a rare, popular treatment of the art of year-round, soilless food production for the home gardener.

A lecturer at Loma Linda University, near San Bernardino, Bridwell presents a richly-illustrated survey of labor-saving hydroponic techniques that will, he says, produce food of exceptional quality and quantity with only 15 to 20 minutes of work a day.

That alone could revive the horticultural interest of a lot of weary, former gardeners.

The author maintains that with balanced nutrient solutions, hydroponically-grown fruits and vegetables can be superior in appearance, flavor, and nutritive value — plus being relatively disease-free and with better-than-average keeping qualities.

He also believes strongly in devoting space in a hydroponic garden to flowers and other ornamental plants; some for beauty, some for their surprising insecticidal properties.

Stated simply, Bridwell explains how to grow food plants in trays filled with clean gravel and irrigated at regular intervals with a water solution containing both basic and trace elements, all of which may be obtained at many local garden shops.

The author gives simple but highly valuable formulas for preparing the nutrient solutions. Plant irrigation can be performed manually, or automatically with a simple recirculating pump. The trays may be indoors near a large window or in a backyard greenhouse — simple or elaborate, as one's interest and purse suggest.

Bridwell provides a brief outline of basic plant nutrition as a foundation for the home hydroponic gardener, then gives more detailed information on nutrient solutions, various growing media (gravel is not the only possibility), greenhouse design, planting patterns, starting seeds and plants, and the prevention of plant disease and insect invasions.

One secret of Bridwell's own success in both commercial and home hydroponic gardening is his careful attention to simple housekeeping. He will not bring grossly unsterile materials into his greenhouse. Even visitors are asked to shuffle their shoes on a small platform sprinkled with a powder disinfectant to intercept any stray organismsm that could injure plants.

One of the author's important contributions are the systems and techniques he suggests for making any kind of greenhouse growing more free of disease and insect problems.

Bridwell emphasizes that ordinary good housekeeping, plus good nutrition, and attention to environmental factors will make for truly successful soil-less gardening — a high quality product, a minimum of work.

A bonus is the fact that the continued re-use and aeration of the nutrient solution serves ecological interests in conserving both water and minerals.

Bridwell's book has an easy-to-read, conversational style, deriving from his popular lectures on which the book is based. It is virtually unique in its field, offering practical help to the home gardener in exploring the new world of modern hydroponics. It may be obtained at many libraries and at bookstores and garden shops or from the publisher, Woodbridge Press, Box 2053, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90213, at $6.95, cloth, 224 pages.

African Violet Society plans Monday meeting

The Pomona Valley African Violet Society will meet Monday, at 1 p.m. at the United Methodist Church, 3205 D St., La Verne.

Mrs. Talbot Frie, president, invites all who are interested in violets to join in the festivities and stay for refreshments following the meeting. All are asked to bring a homemade Christmas Card and a small gift for the annual gift exchange.

Blooming plants, supplies and accessories will be for sale at the meeting.

By WILLIAM L. MEACHEM
Former editor of
Home, Garden Magazine

In a few weeks I will be making my morning and nightly visits to the basement. That's where I have my flourescent light "garden" and a window that gets good sunlight where I start my seedlings for the outdoor garden.

Some of my gardening friends—and nameless members of my family—think this is too much work. Why bother, they claim, you can buy all the started plants you need in the spring.

But when summer comes they can see the difference. It is surprising how a few odd or unusual plants can catch the eye, especially some of the new hybrid annuals and vegetables which you can't buy as started plants in the local nursery.

I think my efforts are well worth while, and starting seeds early isn't that difficult. In fact, this can be one of the most fascinating parts of gardening. And it can be profitable since flower and vegetable plants in my neighborhood cost as much as a dollar a dozen.

There are a lot of seed-starting kits in stores, but you can start seeds in containers you may already have around the house. I have used discarded plastic cottage cheese containers—after holes have been poked in the bottom for drainage. You don't need fancy soil, either. Packaged potting soil mixed half and half with peatmoss is excellent. Then all you need is a window with good light.

Most important when starting seeds indoors is the timing. Some seeds take a long time to germinate; others take a long time to grow large enough to be planted outside. These slow plants should be started two months ahead of outdoor planting time. These would include "annual" geraniums, petunias, begonias and asters, and, among the vegetables, tomatoes and peppers.

"Quickies" like marigolds and zinnias need only a few weeks before the seedlings are large enough to plant out. Start these three to four weeks before planting-out time. Start them too early and they will become stringy and weak because of poor light.

If you use some leftover potting soil you found around the garage, spray the surface with an insecticide before seeding to deter any soil insects that may be around.

Sprinkle seeds on soil surface. Push large seeds like tomato and pepper into the soil. Water with a fine spray or light sprinkle and cover pot with a pane of glass or sheet of plastic. Leave cover on until seeds sprout and then remove. Give seedlings ample light when they are up and don't let the soil dry out.

With a little tender loving care you will have good plants to set outside when the weather becomes warm.

Q. When is the best time to feed house plants?

In late winter, when growth starts more vigorously. Feed every two weeks throughout spring and summer. Ease off when growth slows in the fall.

By STEVE ELLINGSON

No knitting! No crocheting! No stitchery! Anyone can do this cute owl mural . . . and the cost of the materials is so low it fits any budget. It's the latest in a series of string mural patterns that have proven so popular with our readers. Just use common everyday bits and pieces of yarn or string, nails, some fabric and plywood to create an artistic conversation piece for any room in your house or apartment. A real decorator item. Great for gifts too.

Even if you don't give a hoot for owls you'll love this eye-catching bird. We call him Mr. Whoozit for obvious reasons, and he's sure to make the "hoo's who" list of this nation's best-dressed birds (we chose a mohair suit for him). Now we won't string you along by saying your first effort at string murals will look as good as this . . .it will probably look better. Mr. Whoozit's looks and personality are limited only by your ingenuity. And remember, he'll look as good in your living room or den as in the children's room.

So give this cute little fellow a home. To obtain the easy-to-follow Mr. Whoozit pattern number 496, send $1 (add 25c extra per pattern for airmail delivery) by currency, check or money order to: Steve Ellingson, Pomona Progress-Bulletin Pattern Dept., P.O. Box 2383, Van Nuys, Ca. 91409.

One of the joys of living in California is that spring comes early to the garden and even sooner for those who start planting now.

Local nurseries will have available a wide variety of bedding plants this month and next—to enhance camellias you may have had blooming all winter and the flowering quince that will surprise your neighbors soon.

The brighestst calling card ever—may be a Valentine bouquet—is a bed or pansies, calendulas, Iceland poppies, sweet alyssum, violas, fairy primroses, snapdragon and stocks. The last two probably will bloom latest.

For planting this time of year, provide well drained soil. A slightly raised bed is recommended. Each time of planting renew the soil by adding organic soil conditioners.

Winter-planted annuals—and all annuals for that matter — are happiest in full sun. Don't let the fact that they perform in cool weather fool you. Sun is more important in winter than in summer.

In some areas, winter rains are heavy enough to carry the plants after they've been well watered in planting. However, in the valleys, extended dry spells are common and frequent watering will be important.

PSA allowed fare increase

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The State Public Utilities Commission has authorized Pacific Southwest Airlines to increase fares by 1.42 per cent to offset recent increases in the cost of aviation fuel.

The PUC said Tuesday even though PSA got a fare increase Aug. 21, it "has experienced unprecedented increases in the cost of aviation fuel."

PSA said it expects to lose $22 million next year because of the fuel shortage.

Oil enshrined

OIL SPRINGS, Ontario (UPI) — The Oil Museum of Canada is located at Oil Springs, where the first commercial oil well in America went into production in 1858. The museum is open May 15 to Oct. 15.

NEW LOOK FOR KITCHEN — This is a refrigerator in the kitchen. The reason it looks different is because the space around it has been treated like a living room. The kitchen is a good place to hang pictures. Group them with the major appliances to form interesting compositions. Be sure prints and watercolors are framed to protect them from fumes and moisture.

Make use of 'no hassle' wintertime

Winter means less hassle and better value for the novice gardener. This is the time to plant in the dormant state the shrubs, flowers and trees that will provide color and fragrance for much of the year.

This is because many old favorites are easily planted while dormant, as they can be safely planted bareroot. But even more exciting, they usually are less expensive in bareroot or balled and wrapped in burlap.

Recommended for dormant plant are roses, flowering quince, weigela, golden bells, forsythia and a variety of deciduous magnolia trees. Among the vines, wisteria should go in now.

Aside from shrubs, deciduous flowering trees, like plum, crabapple, and flowering peaches can be planted dormant, as well as shade trees like maples, locust and mulberry, to name a few.

In home orchards, nearly all fruit trees are best planted as young bareroot trees: peaches apples, nectarines, apricots, plums, pears, cherries, almonds, walnuts.

To plant bareroot shrubs and trees, spread the roots over a cone of soil in the planting hole and gradually fill in with loose topsoil. Pack firmly with your foot when the hole is filled. Prune if necessary, under instructions from your nurseryman.

Rose Hills sets pruning program

What is the best method to prune rose bushes to get maximum bloom throughout the year? What sprays should be used to keep bushes healthy and productive? How often should roses be fed?

The answers to these and other questions often asked by home gardeners about proper care of roses will be discussed at the 13th free rose care demonstrations, an event held annually in the Pageant of Roses Garden at Rose Hills Memorial Park.

The dates for this year's demonstrations have been set for two successive weekends, Saturday and Sunday, January 5 and 6 and the following weekend, Saturday and Sunday, January 12 and 13. A single session will be held on each of the four days, beginning at 1:30 p.m.

R. L. McNitt, Jr., president of Rose Hills Memorial Park, has issued an invitation for all home gardeners to attend the sessions.

James Kirk, rosarian at Rose Hills and past district governor of the American Rose Society's Southwest District, will again use a special mechanical board to show proper rose pruning methods. He and his staff willl share their successful growing secrets and will be happy to answer questions on care of roses at the conclusion of each session.

A special added feature of the January 5 and 6 sessions will be the appearance of Mary Armstrong, pruning specialist from the Corona Clipper Company, who will demonstrate proper use of equipment in pruning bushes.

At the conclusion of each session, there will also be drawings held for free rose bushes and pruning equipment.

McNitt said there is ample free parking for the garden, which is located immediately inside the main entrance of Rose Hills, 3900 S. Workman Mill Road, Whittier.

Chino pulls upset in soccer tourney

By TOM FAHEY
P-B Correspondent

LA VERNE — After the first two rounds of the Damien Invitational High School Soccer Tournament, only Chino remains in position for a chance at the championship.

The Cowboys won both of their games by way of the peanlty-kick rule that is implemented during tournament play. After regulation time, if there is a tie, both teams take five penalty shots.

Chino, after nipping Alemany in the morning 4-3, pulled an upset by handing the Damien Spartans their first loss of the season 3-2.

Chino's victory was due largely to the outstanding play by goalie Salvador Aguilera who came up with some spectacular saves.

Whereas Chino won both their games with the penalty-kicks, Ganesha lost both of theirs at it. They fell to Pasadena 2-1 in the opening round and wound up on the short end again to Pomona by the same score.

In other opening day action by the local teams, Pomona was defeated by Nogales 4-0. Montclair fell victim to the Damien J.V.'s 2-1 by penalty kicks, and then were defeated by Corona 3-0.

Harley Stark makes CIF 4-A squad

Harley Stark, Chaffey High's tight end who made the All-Pomona Valley team for the past two football seasons, was named to the second team of the All-CIF 4-A selections.

Stark was the only valley player to make it onto the 4-A teams this year, which were chosen by the Citizens Savings Athletic Foundation's All-Southern California Board of Football.

Stark (6-foot-5, 210 pounds) caught 36 passes this year for 556 yards, averaging 15.4 yards per catch.

Dennis Sproul, the 6-foot-3, 195-pound quarterback who directed the Los Altos Conquerors to the CIF 4-A grid championship this year, was selected the 4-A Player of the Year.

Los Altos became the first high school in CIF history to win back-to-back titles in 3-A and 4-A division play.

Champion Los Altos placed six performers on the offensive and defensive units—five on offense and one on defense. Runner-up Crespi had four players honored, two on offense and two on defense.

Fans not 'peachy' on bowl contest

By United Press International

The people in Georgia are showing good sense this year. They're staying away from the Peach Bowl "classic" in droves, and maybe there's a message there somewhere.

Even with the homestate Georgia Bulldogs in the game, Peach Bowl officials have some 20,000 or so unsold tickets for tonight's game against Maryland at Atlanta Stadium.

In the past five years, the Peach Bowl has regularly been played before crowds of about 50,000, even in cold, rainy weather and usually without the local "attraction" it has this year.

Maybe the stay-aways are just the fans' way of telling the Peach Bowl they have had enough of the hypocrisy of bowl games so meaningless they're simply an extra game on many team's schedules and nothing more.

Already this year we have seen the Liberty Bowl, matching two teams with six losses, and the Fiesta and the Tangerine, each of which presented a team with four losses going down to another one-sided defeat.

After tonight's epic between three-times beaten Maryland (ranked No. 18) and four-time loser Georgia, which earned its bid by stomping six-time loser Georgia Tech 10-3 in the final game, television watchers can see a bowl tripleheader of also rans Saturday.

It begins with four-time loser Missouri against five-time loser Auburn in the Sun Bowl at El Paso, Tex. Those two teams celebrated their bowl selection by losing their last five games between them.

Then it's No. 13 Houston against No. 15 Tulane, coached by coach-of-the-year Bennie Ellender, in the Bluebonnet Bowl at the Astrodome, which is where Houston plays its home games.

And another of the half dozen or so East-North-West-South classics is also on tap Saturday, the East-West Shrine Game at San Francisco. That's not to be confused with the East-West Hula Bowl, which isn't until Jan. 6, or the North-South Shrine Game, which was played Christmas night.

When will it all end?

Well it won't end until Jan. 12, with the Senior Bowl at Mobile, Ala., but as far as football purists are concerned the seemingly endless parade of post-season games really begins and ends in one 27-hour period Monday night and Tuesday.

The real football starts with the match of national champion Alabama and No. 4 Notre Dame at the Sugar Bowl in New Orleans on New Year's Eve. That is, truly, the year's big one, but on New Year's Day it will be, in order, Texas-Nebraska at the Cotton Bowl, Ohio State-Southern Cal at the Rose and Penn State-LSU in the Orange.

ARCADIA, Calif. (UPI) — Cutlass and Crown the Prince, two offsprng of former horse of the year Damascus, go to post today at the head of the split divisions of the $37,500-added La Habra Stakes at Santa Anita Park.

Other entries in the opening division are Village Common, Driftin' Along, Chios, Tumble Lane, Dawn Flight, Viva La Vivi and Against the Snow.

Crown the Prince, with two victories at Santa Anita last season, goes in the second half against Mariache II, Free Space, Security Aim, Old Memories, Stick Boy, Spin Lightning, River of Fire and Anonimo II.

Santa Anita's winter thoroughbred meeting was opened Thursday with Woodland Pines' length victory over Tragic Isle in the $34,300 Palos Verdes Handicap.

Woodland Pines, with veteran Don Pierce at the reins, paid $26.60, $10.20 and $5. Tragic Isle returned $13.20 and $6.20 and Ancient Title earned $2.60.

UPI writer heads group

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Jim Cour of United Press International, Los Angeles, has been elected president of the Southern California Football Writers, it was announced Thursday.

He succeeds Rich Roberts of the Long Beach Independent Press-Telegram.

Frazier suffers acute tendonitis

Frazier, who scored 20 points and played 45 minutes in the Knicks' victory over the Detroit Pistons Saturday night, will wear a small splint on his wrist and will not practice with the team on Monday.

The Knicks said there was a "50-50 chance" Frazier would be able to play against the Capital Bullets on Tuesday.

NOTICE OF DETERMINATION

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, in accordance with City of La Verne Resolution No. 73-1, as amended, that the Community Development Committee of said City has determined that the Zone Change from Institutional and A-1 to P-R-7 on the property at Emerald and Bowdoin Streets, submitted by Foothill Terrace Mobile Home Park, will have no significant adverse affect on the environment if and when all federal, state and local ordinances, rules and regulations have been complied with, for reason that it conforms with the proposed General Plan. If any interested party wishes to inquire, copies of Resolution 73-1, as amended, and further details regarding this project are on file in the office of the City Clerk.

FRIENDS,

H. & B. RUSH, Mira Loma

Cooperation and concern of your personnel made the transition to mobile home living a pleasant experience.
L. HUTCHINSON, Pom.

Thanks for the fine way you have treated us in our new mobile home and we love every minute of it
R. & M. BLAND, Pom.

Your Service Personnel have been exceptional, both in workmanship and pleasant attitude. Thanks so much.
A. & D. KRUGER, La Puente

Yes folks, our entire staff of efficient, cooperative personnel are at your service to provide you with courteous customer relations for the rest of your life!
Sincerely
BILL HARRIS

Happiness is a parade

PASADENA — "Happiness Is . . . ", the theme for the 1974 Tournament of Roses Parade, will be depicted in 60 floral floats and carried out in music by 21 bands.

Also fetured in the parade which will be seen by 1.5 million in person and another 110 million on television, will be 250 equestrians.

Charles M. Schultz, creator of the famed "Peanuts" comic strip, will be the Grand Marshal of the New Year's Day festivities. And the honor is quite fitting, for it was Schulz's book, "Happiness Is a Warm Puppy," which inspired the 1974 Tournament of Roses theme.

The parade will begin at 8:30 a.m. at Maylin Street and South Orange Grove Boulevard and will proceed north to Green Street on Orange Grove Boulevard and reach Colorado Boulevard and Orange Grove at 8:38 a.m. Traveling east on Colorado Boulevard the parade will reach Sierra Madre Boulevard at 10:05 a.m. and then turn north traveling up Sierra Madre to Villa Street reaching the post parade area at Victory Park at 10:36 a.m.

With a route approximately five miles long, the parade takes about two hours to pass any given point.

Reigning over the parade and the Rose Bowl Game will be the 1974 Tournament of Roses Queen Miranda Barone and her court of six princesses. Princesses are Joyce Alaine Hawkins, Janet Marie Smith, Sue Cary, Ceci Gulledge, Melinda Kirkpatrick and Kim Louise Latham.

The Rose Court is made up of four coeds from Pasadena City College and three seniors from high schools in the Pasadena area.

Queen Miranda is the youngest monarch in recent tournament history, turning 17 only three days after the age deadline set by the Tournament officials for the Rose Queen.

Italian-born, the queen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sebastian Barone of Pasadena and is a senior at Alverno High School in Sierra Madre. Miranda hopes to pursue a course of medical studies and hopes to be a pharmacist. She is a talented pianist and gives lessons to young relatives and friends.

Miranda has brown hair, hazel eyes, stands five feet and six inches and weighs 124.

In the past two months Miss Barone and her court made 80 public appearances as representatives of the Tournament of Roses.

Princess Joyce, 19, is a freshman at Pasadena City College and is planning a career in education. A native of Detroit, Joyce is one of 11 children born in the Hawkins family and is very outgoing. She has hazel eyes and chestnut-colored hair.

A senior at Pasadena High School, Princess Janet is the most petite member of the 1974 court standing five feet and three inches. The brown-haired, hazel-eyed native of Pasadena is 17 and enjoys outdoor sports such as surfing, horseback riding and tennis. Her career goal is to be a physical therapist.

Miss Cary, 18, is a sophomore at Pasadena City College and plans to make a career of her interest in art as a teacher. Born in Savannah, Ga., she now is a resident of San Marino. The princess has brown hair and blue eyes.

Princess Ceci hopes to use her ballet training and her fondness for dancing as the basis of a career. She was born in Riverside and is now a senior at La Canada High School. Ceci has dark blonde hair and blue-green eyes and is 17.

Melinda Kirkpatrick is 17 and is a senior at Pasadena City College. The only girl of four children in her family, the princess is blonde and has green eyes. She is studying for a career as a medical assistant.

Princess Kim, 19, was born in Hollywood and is now residing in San Marino. She is a sophomore at Pasadena City College and is planning a career as an interior designer. Kim has brown hair and brown eyes.

Following the parade all floats will be on display at Victory Park in the post parade area, Paloma Street and Sierra Madre Boulevard, from 1:30 to 5 p.m. on Wednesday floats may be viewed from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The 85th annual Tournament of Roses, what to look for and how to get there are the subject of a fact-filled "complimentary souvenir booklet" issued by the Automobile Club of Southern California.

The Auto Club publication — illustrated with four updated maps of the 5½ mile line-of-march, the Rose Bowl stadium, and routes to Pasadena — shows a sharp reduction in parade-viewing sites and parking spaces on the western side of the city since the last parade, due to freeway construction in the area. As a result, the Auto Club advises that the best viewing areas will be found east of Fair Oaks Avenue.

The 1974 parade is scheduled to roll promptly at 8:30 on Tuesday morning, January 1, starting from the corner of Maylin and South Orange Grove Blvds. The 60 floats, 21 bands and 36 equestrian units will move north on Orange Grove, turning east onto Colorado Blvd. beginning at 8:38, if all goes according to plan.

At 10:05 the first units of the parade are scheduled to turn north on Sierra Madre Blvd., arriving at the Victory Park post-parade area by 10:36. The floats will be on display in Victory Park from 1:00 to 5 p.m. on Tuesday and from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Wednesday according to the Auto Club.

Kickoff time for the Rose Bowl Game — the 59th in this continuous series of football classics — is 2 p.m. The coming game marks USC's 19th appearance in the Rose Bowl and Ohio State's 8th. The two schools have clashed there three times before (in 1955, 1969 and 1973).

Theme for the 85th annual Rose Parade is "Happiness Is . . .". Creator of the "Peanuts" comic strip, Charles Schulz, will serve as the Tournament's grand marshal. Shulz will travel the parade route in a rose-draped convertible, the 7th unit in the lineup.

Among the 20 cities entering floats in the 85th Rose Parade are five located outside California, including the Canadian city of Calgary. In addition, the Canadian province of Nova Scotia, Mexico, the U.S. territory of the Virgin Islands, and the state of Georgia will each sponsor a float.

Of the scores of beauties riding atop the floats, none will receive more attention than Miranda Barone, the youngest monarch in recent Tournament history. The Rose Queen, a 17-year-old senior from Alverno High School in Sierra Madre, and her six princesses will be seen on their float early in the parade, and later will appear at the Rose Bowl Game, culminating some 80 public appearances during November and December.

"Peanuts" creator is Grand Marshal

"Happiness Is . . .," the theme for the 1974 Tournament of Roses, comes from the title of a book by the parade's Grand Marshal, Charles M. Schulz, "Happiness Is a Warm Puppy."

Cartoonist Shulz is the creator of the famous "Peanuts" comic strip with its well-known characters Charlie Brown, Snoopy, Lucy, Linus and Schroeder.

The 50-year-old native of St. Paul and current resident of Santa Rosa, has been called "the most successful coming strip artist of all time." The record of his cartooning accomplishments bears out that claim.

In the 25 years since the "Peanuts" characters made their debut, Schulz has amassed a total daily readership of more than 100 million. His strip is translated into 19 different languages and is carried by some 1,340 newspapers worldwide.

The Peanuts characters have appeared on more national magazine covers than any other comic strip personalities. And, in a single year, 15 of the top 58 paperback books sold were "Charlie Brown" editions by Schulz.

Moreover, Peanuts has won Schulz an Emmy for the TV special, "A Charlie Brown Christmas," has served as the inspiration for a hit Broadway musical, "You're a Good Man Charlie Brown,"

The comic strip achieved its greatest fame in 1968 when the Apollo 10 astronauts chose Snoopy and Charlie Brown as their mascots.

Reportedly, Charles Schulz was reluctant to accept the honor of leading the Rose Parade, believing that his characters "are inherently more interesting" than the man who creates them.

But the world's most popular comic strip and the theme for the 1974 Tournament of Roses owe their existence to the imagination of this year's Grand Marshal, Charles Schulz.

1890 was start

The New Year's Day spectacle which was begun in 1890 by the socially elite members of the Pasadena Valley Hunt Club has evolved to the Tournament of Roses, an event viewed by more than 125 million people around the world each January 1.

In addition to the 125 million viewers television audience, nearly one and one-half million spectators watch the parade from Pasadena's sidewalks.

The first football game was held in 1902. A mighty Michigan team swamped Stanford, 49-0. No western team could be found to play the fearsome easterners, so football was abandoned until 1916. During the intervening years, Pasadena businessmen became toga-clad charioteers as chariot races held sway each January 1st.

Highlights of games from 1916 on, include Cal center Roy Riegels' run in 1929, when he gave away a Rose Bowl victory by running toward his own goal line!

In 1920, Harvard's only Rose Bowl appearance was a 7-6 victory over Oregon, and the idea of a great football stadium was born in the minds of Tournament officers. On January 1, 1923 the Rose Bowl was ready, built at a cost of only $272,198!

On the job during tournments are the Men in White, Pasadena-area volunteers who stage the parade and football game. This year, for example, they will put in more than 50,000 man hours of time to present Pasadena's New Year's present to the world.

Famous people have been associated with the Tournament down through the years. Grand Marshals have included Shirley Temple, Herbert Hoover, Apollo 12 Astronauts, Dwight D. Eisenhower, Walt Disney, Richard Nixon (twice), Bob Hope (Twice), John Wayne and dozens more. This year's Grand Marshal is cartoonist Charles Schultz, and the 1974 Rose Queen is Miranda Barone.

Residents offered bus service

Pomona Valley residents traveling to Pasadena New Year's morning for the Rose Parade will be able to take Southern California Rapid Transit District buses direct to the parade area.

Special early-morning service will be provided at frequent intervals on Lines 60 and 402 departing from the Pomona Station at 156 W. Commercial Street between 6:10 a.m. and 6:55 a.m. Line 402 Freeway Flyers will depart La Verne at 6:40 a.m. from Bonita Avenue and D Streets. Buses will serve San Dimas from Bonita Avenue and San Dimas Avenue at 6:43 a.m.

Passengers are reminded to have their exact fare or use monthly passes, tickets or tokens, as operators no longer carry money and provide change.

The buses will return along the same route following the parade.

Troy puts Rose Bowl on regular schedule

By BILL LANGLEY
P-B Sports Editor

Playing in the Rose Bowl is getting to be old hat for coach John McKay and his USC Trojans.

It's almost as if the Jan. 1 date in Pasadena can be put on Troy's annual schedule.

But McKay doesn't mind. Playing in the Rose Bowl is the chief target each season.

USC doesn't have any national championship to shoot for this year but the men of Troy have enjoyed a successful 9-1-1 season, losing to undefeated Notre Dame and playing another unbeaten power, Oklahoma, to a 7-7 deadlock.

For awhile, most West Coast football experts didn't expect to see USC back in the Rose Bowl this January. Cross-town rival UCLA, with its explosive Wishbone offense, was the favorite when the two L.A. rivals met at the Coliseum in the showdown battle for the Pacific-8 Conference championship.

As all football fans know, the Trojans won, 23-13, to give McKay his seventh Rose Bowl appearance—a record—and sixth in eight years.

Like most McKay teams, the current Trojan squad claims several All-Americans plus exceptional balance. Ohio State's highly-touted defense will face a severe test in stopping McKay's I Formation attack.

Of course, Ohio State's Woody Hayes saw enough of the Trojans last year in a 42-17 loss to McKay's club.

Junior quarterback Pat Haden, the former Bishop Amat star, has developed into one of the top QBs in Trojan history. He has completed 116 of 208 passes—56 per cent—for 1,603 yards and 13 touchdowns.

"Haden is one of the finest passers I've ever been around," McKay has said of his QB. "I've never seen a passer with more accuracy than Haden."

The Trojans also got the runners to go with Haden's passing.

Junior Anthony Davis is USC's top threat with 1,038 rushing yards and 13 TDs on 262 carries. Proving USC's depth is back-up tailbacks-Rod McNeill (717 yards on 134 carries) and Bonita High product Allen Carter (294 yards on 43 carries).

All-America flanker Lynn Swann is USC's most versatile star. Besides catching 37 passes for 667 yards and six TDs, Swann was also among the nation's leaders in punt returns.

Haden's other chief targets are wide receiver John McKay Jr., his Bishop Amat buddy, and tight end Jim Obradovich, who made the clutch catches from Haden in the final seconds to help beat Stanford in a game the Trojans had to win to get into the Rose Bowl.

Locals eager to test Bucks

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

LOS ANGELES — Aside from being teammates at USC after having played for Pomona Valley high schools, Dean Lingenfelter and Joe Davis have three other things in common.

(1) Neither got a lot of playing time for the Trojans this year. (2) But, they don't regret coming to a major university like USC, and (3) both are looking forward to Tuesday's rematch with Ohio State.

Lingenfelter, a 6-3, 225 pound tight end from Ganesha High in Pomona, caught just one pass this year. But it resulted in a 30-yard touchdown play.

Davis, a 6-3, 249 pound offensive guard from Claremont High, was the backup to Bill Bain at weakside guard.

"There's more to going to college than just playing football," said Lingenfelter. "I think it's been a good experience for me coming to a big school because I've learned a lot."

The former Ganesha star is a senior while Davis is only a sophomore. Davis is looking forward to playing more for a Trojan team he hopes will be even better next year.

"Playing at USC is really big time football and it required quite an adjustment," Davis admited. "But if I had it to do all over again, I wouldn't go anywhere else except here because I know if I can make it here I could have made it anywhere else," Davis explained. If I had gone to a smaller school and had made it there I'd always have in the back of my mind that I could have made it at a bigger school if only I'd gone to one. I didn't want any doubt at all in my mind. And I'm satisfied with my progress so far."

As for next year, Davis feels that USC's chances of going to the Rose Bowl are as good or better than this year.

"We have a lot of people coming back," he grinned.

"I'm a business major," he remarked. "I presume if I graduate I'll be looking for a job. I've made a halfway connection."

Well, then, what does he think he'll do?

"For the ball players that don't go into pro football, and I don't think I am, there are some jobs around Los Angeles in public relations," he replied.

Would he play pro ball if given the opportunity?

"If I got drafted or was offered a tryout, I'd make a decision then on pro ball, but I don't think the chances are too great," he said.

"Since we went last year and won and a had a good team, I'm just looking forward to it,"said Lingenfelter.

"We worked hard all year for this," replied Davis. "Going to the Rose Bowl is a kind of gift. It's not just another game."

Lingenfelter offered some thoughts about this year's 9-1-1 season which some felt was a letdown after 1972's 11-0 year.

"There were a lot of factors that contributed to what happened to the team this year," he said thoughtfully. "Personally, I just think we didn't have as much unity this year on the team as we had last year."

"Last year," he continued, "we had what I feel was really good unity with some of the seniors. It all started with Dave Brown and Mike Ryan and some of those fellows. They had a Christian fellowship going and they really got the team together. I think that was the main difference."

Did he mean the seniors this year didn't supply much leadership or that the seniors themselves just didn't get together?

"Well, it's hard to say," he replied. "A lot of seniors weren't playing so it's hard to get a lot of unity, going when the seniors aren't playing."

USC's Rose Bowl roster lists only 20 seniors among the 64 players. Of those only 12 could be considered regulars, and two, Chris Limahelu and Dave Boulware, are kickers.

Both Lingenfelter and Davis expressed similar thoughts about Tuesday's opponent, Ohio St. and the Buckeye defense.

"They should be tough," said Lingenfelter. "They have a good defense and they'll probably stop our run pretty well. But they have to con-

Woody sees less of press, enjoys it

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

PASADENA — Woody Hayes apparently is seeing less of the press this year and enjoying it more.

It isn't that Woody is discourteous. He has been gracious and accommodating when he has made himself available. But the times he has been available have been rare.

In fact, Ohio St. will probably go into Tuesday's Rose Bowl game having had less actual contact wiht the press than any team and head coach in any bowl anywhere.

The day the writer was scheduled to do this story is a case in point. Arriving in the press room at Pasadena's Huntington-Sheraton hotel, he found a notice saying "Coach Hayes has cancelled today's press conference."

Aside from the press conference at the airport the day the Buckeeyes arrived in California, Hayes met only once with the press the first week he was out here.

Woody has always come out here with the goal of winning. But this year he has a mission, perhaps even a crusade. Hayes is here because (1) he wants to show that Ohio St. truly deserved the vote by Big Ten Athletic Directors which sent it out here instead of Michigan; (2) he wants revenge for last year's 42-17 loss to USC; and (3) he wants to regain some of the conference's lost prestige.

That he is well equipped to achieve his desire there is no doubt.

Hayes had 45 lettermen returning this year from last year's sophomore-dominated unit that posted a 9-2 mark. He lost only five starters.

His Rose Bowl roster lists only 19 seniors among the 60 players. Of the remainder, 20 are juniors, 11 are sophomores, and there are 10 freshman.

The thing that distinguishes this year's Ohio St. team from all others is the fact that Woody is running his tailback (Archie Griffin) more than his fullback.

Griffin, a sophomore who won the coveted big ten MVP trophy warded by the Chicago Tribune, carried the ball 225 times for 1,428 yards, an average of 6.3 per carry.

Not a big man, Archie is both speedy and powerful. "Ive never had a back that breaks more tackles," said Hayes. And that has to mean something when you think about the likes of John Brockington, Bob Ferguson and Bob White to name just a few. "Archie is our game breaker," echoed teammate Brian Baschnagel. "When we're in trouble, we should go to him."

The 5-9, 183 pound Griffin runs behind fullback Bruce Elia, a 6-0, 214 pound junior. Elia began the season as a reserve linebacker but was moved to fullback when "Champ" Henson was injured and required knee surgery Sept. 30.

Elia carried the ball 98 times for 402 yards but led the team in scoring touchdowns with 13 which shows Woody still likes to go his fullback when the Buckeyes get close to the goal line. Elia averaged 4.1 yards per carry.

Green did a great job as a runner carrying the ball 119 times for 675 yards and scoring 11 touchdowns. He averaged 5.6 yards per carry.

But his passing statistics were something less than sensational. Green completed only 14 of 38 attempts. His passes totaled 214 yards and two went for touchdowns while six were intercepted.

The other back is Brian Baschnagel, a 6-0, 190 pound sophomore. Used mainly as a blocker, Baschnagel netted 144 yards and two touchdowns on 24 carrieds.

The backfield works behind a line anchored by all-everything John Hicks, a 6-3, 252 pound senior tackle. The other tackle is 6-4, 248 pound Kurt Schumacher, a junior.

"I'm not sure we've ever had a better offensive line," rremarked Hayes. His center is 6-2, 244 pound junior Steve Myers. Of his tight end, Fred Pagac (pronounced Pug-itch), Hayes says, "Pagac is great."

On defense, the Buckeyes have All-American Randy Gradishar Vic Koegel in good health this year. Koegel was injured and didn't play at all last year while Gradishar played injured. "We had Randy hopping on one leg last year," said Hayes of his 6-3, 236 pound star.

One thing you can be sure of. The Buckeyes will be ready. Hayes, as usual, has worked his team harder than John McKay has worked USC.

"Ours is more of a running team than John's," explained Woody. "It takes more work to get ready." Unlike McKay, Hayes claims he is no innovator. "I just copy the other feltend with (Lynn) Swann, and I think our passing attack will be our best threat."

"Their defense has about the same personnel they had last year," agreed Davis. "They've matured quite a bit since last year so it'll be a tougher game offensively for us."

"We've looked at movies of them and they look pretty tough against the run," he continued. "I don't know how they're going to be against our passing because I don't really think anybody has thrown on them that much."

"I just hope the lord will be with us and help us play a good game," added Lingenfelter.

Troy puts Rose Bowl on slate

kicker in Chris Limahelu. The former South Hills High and Citrus College star wasn't even on the Trojan roster at the beginning of the season but his 34-yard field goal to beat Stanford made him an instant hero.

USC is very strong on defense as evidenced by its ability to hold down Wishbone teams like Oklahoma and UCLA but it's a different challenge facing Ohio State's power attack.

The Buckeyes' main problems will be getting past USC's outstanding linebacking duo of Richard Wood and Charles Anthony. A two-year All-America, Wood leads the Trojans in tackles with 107 plus five deflected. Anthony was second in tackles with 105, only two behind.

Outside linebacker James Sims keeps the offense thinking. He was repsonsible for nine sacks for 55 yards in losses this season. Dale Mitchell, who had 41 tackles and two fumble recoveries, is the other starter on the outside.

Up font, the Trojans start middle guard Monte Doris plus tackles Gary Jeter and Art Riley. Doris enjoyed an outstanding game against UCLA with 18 tackles, 11 unassisted and a 13-yard sack. Jeter is a freshman from Cleveland in Buckeye territory.

USC's defensive backfield had some rough games this year. Both Washington State and Stanford were able to pass against the Trojans but it's not too likely Hayes will go that route.

Senior Artimus Parker holds the Pacific-8 record with 20 interceptions in his Trojan career. Rover Charles Phillips had a big day in last year's Rose Bowl with a 48-yard interception return.

Danny Reece and Marvin Cobb of Riverside are the other starters in the backfield.

low," he grinned and then added, "AFTER he proves his stuff."

Woody had one other though which, although he didn't intend it that way, was encouraging. "I'd put USC on a par with Michigan," he said.

Well, Ohio St. couldn't beat Michigan.

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE

Seer Without a Peer

Egad, friends, this year's bowl matchups are some of the finest in years with he superpowers Alabama and Notre Dame having at each other in the Sugar Bowl on New Year's Eve, and the bruising Ohio State Buckeyes meeting the high-stepping Southern California Trojans the next day in repeat engagement in the Rose Bowl. And those are only two of the eight great contests on tap over the holiday weekend — um — kumph! 'Tis indeed unfortunate the excellent Oklahom club tripped over some off-the-field regulations. They would have been a worthy participant in any bowl.

Let us, without further ado, proceed to analyze the games in their chronological order.

PEACH BOWL

Dec. 28, Atlanta, Ga.

Maryland 30, Georgia 10. The Terps stunned the collegiate football world by thrashing a fine Tulane team, 42-9, in their season finale. They'll show this was no fluke by turning back Vince Dooley's Georgia Bulldogs by a 20-point margin.

ASTRO-BLUEBONNET

Dec. 29, Houston, Tex.

Houston 28, Tulane 23. The Houston Cougars (10-1) and Tulane's Green Wave (9-2) appear to be very evenly matched with the Hoople nod going to the Cougars. This is one of Tulane's finest clubs in years but the rugged Cougar's defense, rated seventh in the nation, will turn the tide.

GATOR BOWL

Dec. 29, Jacksonville, Fla.

Texas Tech 24, Tennessee 21. The Hoople System — kaff-kaff — had a difficult time separating these two fine elevens. The Red Raiders won 10 while losing only one contest this fall while Tennessee, playing in the rugged Southeastern Conference was forced to settle for a 9-3 record. We look for Jim Carlen's Texas Tech lads to eke out a narrow victory. As a special treat keep your eyes on the Red Raiders' Larry Williams who has averaged better than 25 yards on kickoff returns.

SUNBOWL

Dec. 29, El Paso, Tex.

Missouri 33, Auburn 17. The Missouri Tigers, who won their first six contests and then dropped four of their last five, are expected to return to their early season form. Auburn has been a disappointment this year but showed it can put it all together by handing Houston its only 1973 defeat. Our indicators say this is Missouri's day.

SUGAR BOWL (N)

Dec. 31, New Orleans, La.

Notre Dame 31, Alabama 24. With the National Title on the line Notre Dame's Ara Parseghian and Alabama's Bear Bryant will — heh — heh — go for broke! Alabama (11-0-0) and Notre Dame (10-0-0) are almost evenly matched in the statistics department with 'Bama having the edge in offense averaging 480.7 yards per game to Notre Dame's 461.4. In defense it's the other way around with the Irish limiting all opponents to an average of 201.2 yards per game and the Crimson Tide allowing their foes 244.8. In rushing offense 'Bama rolled for 366.1 yards per contest to 350.2 for the Irish. The edge, as we see it comes in rushing defense where the big, mobile Irish forward wall has stymied running attacks all season while holding their opponents to an average of only 82.4 yards per outing. The Tide has given up 139.6 yards on the ground per game. Truly, to the victor in this colossal showdown should go the No. 1 rating — har — rumph!

COTTONBOWL

Jan. 1, Dallas, Tex.

Texas 33, Nebraska 22. Darrell Royals Longhorns stunned by an early 52-13 thrashing at the hands of mighty Oklahoma, recovered their pose and rolled to six straight wins over tough Southwest Conference foes. With Roosevelt Leaks, who ran at a 141.5 yards-per-game clip, leading the charge, the Longhorns should hold the upper hand all the way over the tough Cornhuskers.

ROSE BOWL

Jan. 1, Pasadena, Calif.

So. California 28, Ohio State 20. The Grandaddy of the Bowls boasts another major attraction shaded in importance only by the Sugar Bowl. For Johnny McKay's Trojans it will be their sixth Rose Bowl appearance in the last eight years and for Woody Hayes' Buckeyes it will be a chance to avenge last season's defeat by the Trojans. The Rose Bowl shapes up as a tremendous battle with the with the Bucks sporting a 9-0-1 record and the Trojans losers only to Notre Dame, running up a 9-1-1 score. Playing at home and with the cagey McKay directing the show we foresee a triumph for the Trojans — hak — kaff.

ORANGE BOWL

Jan. 1, Miami, Fla.

Penn State 27, LSU 21. As usual Joe Paterno has one of his fine clubs in a top bowl meeting. Boasting an 11-0-0 record and with Heisman Trophy winner John Cappelletti showing the way, the Nittany Lions will prevail over a rugged LSU team. This will be a fitting climax to a great weekend of collegiate football.

Fourth Rose Bowl battle for Troy, OSU

When Ohio State and USC kick off in the 1974 Rose Bowl New Year's Day, the Buckeyes and Trojans will meet in their fourth in a series of Rose Bowl encounters that has been highlighted by a slippery field, the sensational playing of OSU sophomores and last year's uncanny scoring by a USC fullback.

The Buckeyes and Trojans have played in the "grandaddy" of all post-season college football classics in Pasadena three times: 1955, 1969 and 1973. The Buckeyes can boast of victories in the first two games, while the Trojans triumphed in this year's (1973) encounter.

It always rains roses in Pasadena on New Year's Day, but when the Buckeyes and Trojans first met in the Rose Bowl in 1955, it also poured something to which Pasadena is quite unaccustomed — water. And lots of it.

While it has rained only four times in the history of Rose Bowl action (and never again since 1955), Coach Woody Hayes brought his Buckeyes to Pasadena for his first time to play on a field that has been described as the "worst in Rose Bowl history." The rain began early in the morning, but did not spoil traditional festivities which have been part of New Year's Day in Pasadena since 1890. Indeed, if anything destroyed the football field, it wasn't the water, but the half-time show.

"They turned it (the field) into a quagmire," complained the even-then colorful Hayes. "Eighty million people saw those bands marching in the parade, so why did they have to march on that muddy first'"

And so it did. The game went on despite the water and the bands, and even though the mud-coated players were all but unidentifiable just a minute after the start of first quarter action. So bad were the conditions that the lights had to be turned on at the unheard-of-time of 1 p.m. and coach Jess Hill's Trojans fumbled the slippery ball no less than seven times — contributing in part to the Buckeyes beating the Trojans, 20-7.

Ohio State dominated the 1955 game throughout with the sensational scoring of Dave Leggett, who would receive player of the game honors. On 77, 68 and 35-yard drives, respectively, Leggett scored OSU's first touchdown on a three-yard plunge over the goal line, threw a 21-yard pass to Bob Watkins for the second score and flipped a pitchout to Dick Harkrader for a nine-yard scoring run in the final period. USC would score only once in the game, yet Aramis Dandoy's record 86-yard run for a touchdown has been called the finest in all Rose Bowl action."

Fourteen years later when the then-No. 1 ranked Buckeyes again wrangled with the No. 2 ranked USC Trojans (now coached by John McKay) the field had long dried. And so had the fear of Woody Hayes, who had not been defeated in his two Rose Bowl tries to date.

"Not a damn thing," retorted Hayes prior to the game when asked what he feared most about USC. And with good reason. Woody brought to Pasadena in 1969 a sophomore-studded team that had swept through an undefeated Big 10 season and would again reign supreme in the Rose Bowl against USC, 27-16.

Ohio State's sensational sophomores stunned the 102,-036 Rose Bowl spectators by halting what had appeared to be an unstoppable 10-0 second quarter lead by USC that had resulted from a 21-yard Ron Ayala field goal and an 80-yard touchdown by Heisman Trophy winner O.J. Simpson.

Sophomore quarterback Rex Kern (who would later marry a Tournament of Roses princess whom he met while in Pasadena) led the Ohio State attack and OSU was able to tie the score by 10-10 at the half. A 69-yard, Kern-led drive culminated in fullback Jim Otis pushing over the goal line, and with only three seconds before the half-time gun, OSU's Jim Roman kicked a successful 26-yard field goal. In the second half, Ohio State would score three more times: on a 25-yard Jim Roman field goal, a Kern touchdown pass to halfback Leophus Hayden, and a 16-yard looper from Kern to OSU's Ray Gillian.

USC would not score in the second half due to OSU's sensational sophomore attack and three costly fumbles, save for a Steve Sogge spiral to Sam Dickerson deep in the end zone. "That's the first time I ever saw a touchdown when the ball was rolling on the ground," complained the Columbus coach about the controversial play about which the clamor went on for days. While Dickerson caught the ball deep in the end zone and the officials called the play a score, many fans agreed with Hayes that OSU's Mike Pulaski was in joint possession and that Dickerson never touched as much as one foot in the end zone before dropping the ball.

Regardless of the outcome of that final USC scoring attempt that was overshadowed by OSU's sophomore attack, there can be little doubt whether USC made it into the end zone in the last OSU-USC encounter in the Rose Bowl just this year.

USC fullback Sam (Bam) Cunningham not only got into the end zone — but did it in style to break the all-time Rose Bowl scoring record. Cunningham racked up 24 points on four touchdowns to break the previous 18-point Rose Bowl record that had been shared by Notre Dame's Elmer Layden (1925), Michigan's Dick Weisenberger (1948) and Michigan's Mel Anthony (1965).

The Trojans and Buckeyes met in 1973 for their third time in the Rose Bowl before a record Rose Bowl crowd of 106,869. After two defeats at the hands of Woody's Ohio State warriors, the Trojans would finally whip the Buckeyes 42-17 in their amazing 18th Rose Bowl bid since Troy first played in Pasadena in 1923.

"We knew Sam had a chance to break the (individual scoring) record," recalled Coach Jon McKay after the game in explaining why the senior fullback was selected to serve up four of USC's six touchdowns that day.

Once tailback Anthony Davis and quarterback Mike Rae moved the ball wihin a yard of the OSU goal line, it was Cunningham who delighted Rose Bowl fans across the country by leaping over the OSU defensive line for the score. Cunningham needed to account for only five yards in making those four important scores, with his first and longest run of the day being only two yards and the others officially recorded as one yard apiece.

Sam's first leap over and into the record books did not come until the game's second half when as in 1969, the Trojans and Buckeyes were tied. The score this time was 7-7, with USC scoring on a Mike Rae pass to Lynn Swann and OSU running up points on a one-yard rush by fullback Randy Keith. Cunningham was the first to score in the third quarter, and following a 21-yard field goal by OSU's Blair Conway and a 20-yard run by Anthony Davis, Cunningham would repeat this performance. In the fourth quarter, while Ohio would add only one touchdown, it was Sam Cunningham who would again score twice, leading the Trojans to final victory over OSU.

Granddaddy of all bowls

The 1974 Rose Bowl marks the 60th meeting between the nation's greatest football rivals in the "Granddaddy" of all college sports classics.

Football became part of Pasadena's Tournament of Roses festivities just two years following the turn of the century when a young easterner, James B. Wagner, persuadeed Tournament officials to forego the amateur races and other sports that had comprised its post-parade festivities since its beginnng in 1890.

While two teams of young men had played what was called a fooball "race" in that first year, college football officially came on the for Michigan to meet Stanford for Michiganto meet Stanford on New Year's Day, 1902. Michigan's 49-0 win was wonderful for the Wolverines, but diastrous for the immediate future of football in the Rose pageant.

Not until 1916 was the Tournament again able to persuade a western team to risk defeat under a possible eastern avalanche like Michigan. Football finally replaced the chariot races which had come to dominate the sports scene from 1903 to 1915, when Washington State played Brown in what was to be the first of the gridiron encounters which have been enacted in Pasadena every year since.

Holiday football in Pasadena first grew to national prominence in 1920 when a hard-charging Harvard team shocked the unknowing Northeast by announcing that it was going some 3000 miles to play football in a place called Pasadena. Almost prevented from making the trip by a coal strike in 1919, which was only averted by the order of President Woodrow Wilson, Harvard's 7-6 victory over Oregon was its only Rose Bowl appearance and marked the only time Harvard has broken its long tradition of playing in no post-season games.

The famous and not-so-famous are among the 34 collegiate teams which have come to Pasadena on New Year's Day. Probably the last known was Washington and Jefferson, a small western Pennsylvania school which traveled west in 1922. Quipped one sports reporter, "All I know about Washington and Jefferson is that they are both dead.

Probably the best-known was the great 1925 Notre Dame team with its famous "Four Horsemen." It was in the Rose Bowl that the "Four Horsemen"—a name coined by Grantland Rice for Notre Dame's noted front line—completed their brilliant careers that would assure them sports immortality.

Completion of the Rose Bowl stadium in 1923 confirmed signs of growing interest in the Rose Bowl. In Penn State's only appearance in the classic, the Nittany Lions were caught in a traffic jam and were 45 minutes late getting to the new stadium, resulting in a near fight between the opposing coaches.

Many of football's greatest milestones — and mistakes — have marked the gridiron meetings that followed in that stadium, which was built in the 1920's for the incredibly small sum of $272,198.

In the 1925 Rose Bowl Stanford's Coach Pop Warner used the double wingback formation exclusively for the first time. Another Stanford coach would make football history in 1941, when Chuck Shaughnessey employed the "T" formation for the first time in national play to crush Nebraska in its only Rose Bowl bid. Finally, in 1948, Michigan's Fritz Crisler again triumphed in the Rose Bowl, demonstrating to the nation his two-platoon system of substitution, orginating the use of entirely different teams for offensive and defensive plays.

Of the 59 games to date, probably no Rose Bowl game is more discussed than that of 1929, the year of football's infamous "wrong way" run. Perhaps it was a portent of how the country would be going wrong later that year, but California's 8-7 loss to Georgia Tech remains probably the most talked-about incident in all of football history.

When Georgia Tech fumbled on its own 20-yard line, California center Roy Riegels quickly recovered and thought he was a hero — only to turn and race 65 yards in the wrong direction! Amidst the clamor of the crowd, only California's Benny Lom realized what had happened and Lom was able to catch Riegels just as he crossed the goal line, pushing Riegels back to the one-yard line.

On the next play Lom attempted to kick out of danger but Tech's charging Vance Maree partially blocked the ball for a safety which was the margin of victory for the Southerners.

Surprises and upsets have always marked the game. In 1924 Navy's only bid was preempted just before the kickoff when a kid who had crashed the gate was chased by a policeman across the palying field as the crowd cheered the child and lambasted the law. Ten years later, the football antics were almost as exciting when in its only bid, Columbia pulled off probably the greatest upset in Rose Bowl play by defeating Stanford on a muddy field that permitted more yardage to be gained by slipping than by running.

Neither rain nor gloom of day — and certainly not sleet or snow — have prevented the Rose Bowl game from being played in Pasadena. In fact, it has rained only four times in 59 years of play. Only a World War II ban stopped the game from being played in California when Pearl Harbor prompted a quick shift to Durham, N.C., and Oregon State had to cross the country for its first Bowl bid win, defeating Duke.

Throughout the long life of the Rose Bowl, football's "Grandaddy" has remained the most revered (and watched) of any collegiate football game. The secret to its vitality — despite its longevity — has always been that the football action in Pasadena never itself grows old. Every year promises to be just as exciting as any of the episodes from its past. What better respect could any "Granddaddy" ask for?
